

DR. SCHURMANN HOPES FORD WILL HELP BOOST HIS PLAN FOR PEACE

Dr. F. H. Schurmann of Beretania street is still working on the plans for peace with which he has proposed to stop the war, and which were published in the Star-Bulletin of August 11, 1915.

In the hope that Henry Ford, advocate of peace and maker of automobiles, who has just returned to America, may find something worthy of consideration in the plans, Dr. Schurmann has forwarded them to Detroit for Mr. Ford to read upon his arrival in that city.

By still another source the plans are to reach Mr. Ford. F. W. White, a correspondent of the Denver Post, who was recently in Honolulu, has taken copies of the plans, and has promised to bring them to the attention of the famous manufacturer.

"White was much interested in the plans," says Dr. Schurmann. "He said that he intended getting them into the Denver paper, and would make special efforts to bring them to Mr.

Ford's attention. He believes that the articles should be published over the United States. Every point in them, he said, is worthy of consideration."

White sailed on the Wilhelmina last Wednesday, and took with him several copies of the Star-Bulletin containing the story of Dr. Schurmann and his plans for peace.

Sixteen plans for the establishment of peace and 16 others for the prevention of future wars were contained in the proposals which were sent to rulers of 19 leading countries of the world not engaged in the great war. That several of the rulers were heard from, favoring the proposal, as letters in the doctor's possession show.

NON-COMS MUST KEEP EAGLE EYE ON MEN IN KHAKI

Non-commissioned officers must not only walk the path of rectitude when on leave in Honolulu, but in the future are expected, according to instructions recently given them, to aid in keeping the privates straight. They are not expected to act as the provost guard does, but are expected to warn the men when they get noisy or rough and to assist the provost by reporting to them when a soldier is offending.

Army officers here are determined to have the best possible conduct among the soldiers and steps are being taken to prevent the few offenders from making the uniform conspicuous. The officers say that when the location here of more than 9000 men is considered their conduct is far above the average.

There are comparatively few offenses of any kind among the enlisted men and in proportion there are fewer arrests made of soldiers than civilians. But even though this is true, a general movement among the officers is in progress to secure better order among the men in town, where nearly all the trouble occurs.

LIEUT. BAKER'S PONY IS KILLED BY STREET CAR

"Ell," a thoroughbred pony which was presented to Lieut. Lester Baker, aide de camp to Gen. John P. Wisner, by the general, and which is known in the cavalry branch of the service because of service on the Mexican border, in California, and at a number of posts, was killed recently when struck by a street car on Waikiki road, near Kapiolani park, and as a result suit is to be filed by Lieut. Baker against the traction company.

The horse was being exercised by an orderly and broke away, running from the park and colliding with the car. It was struck on the head and instantly killed.

ROSE MAKING PROBE OF CHARGE AGAINST POLICEMAN P. HOSE

Charges that Policeman Peter Hose struck Pvt. Henderson, Company A, 2nd Infantry, with his club New Year's night and that the blow was unwarranted have not been officially brought to the attention of Sheriff Rose, who until today had not heard there was any criticism of the officer's action. Rose will investigate the affair.

Hose today said he was called to the police box at Hotel and Fort street and found Detective Apana struggling with a private from the 25th Infantry whom Apana had under arrest. Hose claims he went to the assistance of Apana and the two of them held the prisoner and kept off eight or 10 soldiers who were threatening to take the prisoner away. Two of the men, Henderson and Pvt. Adler, Company E, 2nd Infantry, Hose pushed away from Apana and when Henderson struck at him, Hose says he hit him on the head with a club which he had in his hand. The blow did not injure Henderson.

Apana tells the same story that Hose tells. Detective Anderson, who came to Hotel and Fort on a hurry call to assist the officers, arrested Adler, who he says threatened to "kill the big black cop," adding that he wished he could get a gun.

SOLDIERS TO GET PAY DURING NEXT FEW DAYS

More than $150,000 of Uncle Sam's money will be put into circulation within the next few days by the paymaster's department, U. S. A., the monthly job of paying off the soldiers having begun today. Forts De Russy, Ruger and Armstrong were to be paid off this afternoon, and men at Shafter will probably be paid tomorrow. No schedule for paying has been made, but soldiers at Schofield Barracks will probably be paid after those at Fort Shafter, and Kamehameha will be the last post visited by the paymaster's corps.

IDLE JAPANESE HANGS AROUND FORT TOO MUCH

Akila, a Japanese, was placed under arrest by the police yesterday on complaint of Capt. Clyde B. Parker, 2nd Infantry, Fort Shafter, and was charged with vagrancy but has not yet been tried.

Capt. Parker complained that the Japanese was loafing about Fort Shafter, spending a great deal of his time in the vicinity of the guard house and was not wanted at the post. Akila seems to have no particular occupation and has not explained why he picked Fort Shafter to loaf about.

Thirty-five Australian cadets, who have been on tour of Canada and the United States, were reviewed by Acting-Mayor McAneny at the New York City Hall.

Thomas J. Wicks, former superintendent of the Hempstead, L. I. Water Works, convicted of misusing $350 in funds, was sentenced to one year in jail.

Mystery surrounds the finding of a charred body believed to be that of a school girl, in the hallway of a fashionable residence in New Orleans.
