Completely renovated and painted white, so that she looks like a private yacht, the former whaler Jeannette is in San Francisco again. According to the San Francisco Examiner, old-timers along the waterfront opened their eyes in amazement when the old vessel, one of the world's last sailing vessels to be built, took up her position in the bay off Polson street wharf.

LURE OF PIRATE'S GOLD SEIZES PLAINSMEN

Seeking buried treasure reported to be worth close to $60,000,000, a party of Middle West adventurers whose chief qualifications for treasure troving have been selling cheese, lumber, insurance and hotel accommodations, may pass through Honolulu shortly, bound for an island off the west coast of Australia.

A despatch to coast papers from Springfield, Mo., says the expedition, known as the South Sea island pearl fishing party, has left Kansas City for San Francisco, where a ship will be purchased for the subsequent trip by water.

The seekers anticipate the uncovering on an unknown island of a treasure of $60,000,000 in English sovereigns, buried there in 1850 by pirates.

"Only Survivor" Along. The leader is Capt. James Brown of Bangor, Me., who was the only survivor of the pirate ship, Alva D. Merrill of Springfield, president of the Missouri Wholesale Grocers' Association, is one of the heaviest interested in the company, and other influential men of Kansas City and Springfield contributed toward financing the expedition.

The party is composed of R. C. Hardin and A. T. Swanton, grocer and lumberman, respectively, of Mountain Grove; Fred Ellis, insurance agent, Springfield, and F. P. Blair, clerk at the Muehlbach hotel, Kansas City.

This is not Skipper Brown's first expedition in quest of fabulous buried treasure. On the first trip he went to the far-famed Cocos island, a desolate isle lying 500 miles off the coast of Costa Rica.

IVANHOE'S SAILORS PAID OFF; GET $545 All but one of the surviving sailors of the wrecked Chilean bark Ivanhoe yesterday requested their pay from J. W. Waldron, consul for Chile, and were paid off, their wages averaging $60 each. The total amount paid to the nine men by Mr. Waldron was $545.63.

This leaves only the captain, first and second mates, boatswain, ship's carpenter and one ordinary seaman to be taken back to Chile on the Kiro Maru February 4. Paying off the other members of the crew requires them to shift for themselves. They are now at liberty to go where they will at their own expense. The ship's survivors numbered 15.

"NO INFLUX OF INFLUENZA IN HAWAII"—PRATT As far as the local Board of Health has been able to ascertain there has been no influx of influenza into Hawaii as the result of the epidemic of that disease now reported to be spreading over the mainland United States. According to Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, president of the board, there are a number of cases in Hawaii, but the number is not serious and neither is the type of the disease. Dr. Pratt adds that influenza is not a reportable disease, and for this reason enters but slightly into the records of the board.
