Birthday and Anniversary Surprise.

Last Monday was Mr. Alexander Pratt's birthday, and up to 8 o'clock in the evening was quite uneventful, but at that hour something happened. In the street below the Pratt residence autos commenced to gather in the dusk, and the occupants, some twenty in number, stole silently toward the house, and entering, surrounded the birthday victim with genuine surprise. The evening was taken up with cards, followed by refreshments.

Although Mrs. Pratt was aware of the impending surprise to Mr. Pratt, she was completely in the dark as to what followed on Wednesday evening, that date being the 29th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt's wedding.

On that evening about forty friends of the Pratts gathered at the Welbourne residence on Eleventh avenue, Kaimuki, and awaited the coming of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, who were enticed there for a game of cards.

One dim light from the kitchen with Mr. and Mrs. Welbourne standing in the doorway, hid from the Pratts the sight that met their gaze when the lights were suddenly turned up. Congratulations were in order and the evening ran quickly with whist the game, and hearts the perpetual trump. The score cards were very pretty and unique. They consisted of a large heart on the center of which was a wedding bell, and in the center of the bell was a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt.

At a late hour all went to the large lanai where two long tables were set, and beneath wedding bells coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and wedding cake were served. Other decorations carried out the scheme to a nicety.

The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Crabbe, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cottrell, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. De Roo, Mr. and Mrs. Neil, Mr. and Mrs. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Bicknell, Mr. and Mrs. Gribble, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Guld, Mrs. Petrie, Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. Fyler, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Ham, Mr. and Mrs. Welbourne, Mrs. S. W. Smith, Miss Nichols, Miss E. Pratt, Miss E. Cottrell, Miss G. Stephens, Miss G. Pratt, Mr. C. Bartlett, Mr. A. Welbourne, Mr. J. Burnes, and the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Pratt.

Reception at the Home of Knudsen. LIHUE.—Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Knudsen tendered a delightful reception Thursday evening in honor of Mr. Morton of Australia, who has been visiting Mr. Hart at Makaweli. Many of the young people between Mana and Koloa were present.

For the occasion "Hoea" was prettily adorned, and vari-colored Oriental lanterns lent striking picturesqueness to the scene. Behind a palm-bower a Hawaiian orchestra developed from the players on the Knudsen ranch, supplied delightful music.

After an informal reception, during which all present met the guest of honor, dancing began and was kept up to a late hour.

Mr. Morton is spending a short time only on Kauai. He is leaving shortly for England where he expects to join the colors and proceed to scenes of battle on the continent—Garden Island.

Honolulu learns with sincere regret that Capt. Paul Malone and his family are leaving us. They are truly delightful people, Capt. Malone is first, last and always a soldier. He is an especially fine orator, and as a local woman said after hearing his lecture on war, "Well, I really believe I could fight with an aspiration like Capt. Malone." What must his influence be over his company?

OLDSMOBILE EIGHT

The Car that Compels Admiration

Oldsmobile Model 44, Eight Cylinders $1490 Honolulu
Oldsmobile Model 43, Four Cylinders $1300 Honolulu

For sixteen years the Oldsmobile has established a standard of value, and maintained a leadership in design—not only as the last word in beauty of lines, but as a representative motor car containing all of the advanced ideas of improvement and refinement.

The 1916 Oldsmobile models exhibit the fine art of motor car making at its best with the production and application of power reduced to a nicety.

The power is steady, smooth and strong, that takes hills on high that many cars would hesitate to ascend on intermediate.

In every detail the Oldsmobile compels admiration—solid cast aluminum running boards, natural finish wheels, Circassian Walnut interior wood work.
