HAWAII WILL BE BIG FEATURE OF AUGUST SUNSET

Publicity for Hawaii on a bigger and more effective scale than ever before will become possible if Honolulu commercial, promotion and civic organizations will give W. C. Hodges the support he seeks.

Representing the Woodhead-Field Company, the new publishers of Sunset, Mr. Hodges, formerly with the business staff of the Star-Bulletin, arrived on the Oceanic liner Sierra today, from San Francisco, and will be here until the middle of May.

"We plan to dedicate our August number to Hawaii," said Mr. Hodges, "with a full page cover-design in three colors, articles on the islands, many illustrations, and a general boost for Hawaii."

Mr. Hodges will confer with the Promotion Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Ad Club, Governor Pinkham and others, relative to the big project. He says railroad lines and steamship companies are giving their hearty support to the plan for a Hawaii number. Sunset's circulation has doubled since the Woodhead-Field Company purchased the magazine from the Southern Pacific system.

UTILITIES BOARD TO APPROVE AMENDMENTS HILO TRACTION ASKS?

Amendments to its franchise proposed by the Hilo Traction company will probably have the approval of the Public Utilities Commission, a member of the commission's party, which returned yesterday from a hearing on the subject in Hilo, declared this afternoon. All objections to the amendments were overcome at the hearing Friday, he said, when the traction company and the Hilo Electric Light Company, which had been squabbling over a difference of a quarter of a cent in the power rate, agreed to leave their differences to the commission.

Thirteen pages of objections to the amendments were filed by F. E. Thompson, acting for the electric commission by the governor. These were all withdrawn during the course of the hearing in Hilo. Objections by the board of supervisors of Hawaii to the power over the traction company being taken from it and given to the utilities commission were also overcome.
