

PRESIDENT LAYS BEFORE CONGRESS FACTS ON WHICH HE SENT NOTE OF ULTIMATUM TO BERLIN

conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue; and that unless Germany will immediately declare and put into effect an abandonment of its present methods of warfare against passenger vessels and freighters, the United States will have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations entirely.

After tracing the history of the submarine issue negotiations, he continued: "Tragedy has followed tragedy on the seas in such fashion and with such attendant circumstances as to make it grossly evident that war fare of such a sort, if warfare it be, cannot be carried on without the most palpable violation of the dictates alike of right and humanity.

"The United States has been very patient. We have sought to be restrained from any extreme course of action of the thoughtful consideration of the extraordinary circumstances of this unprecedented war. The United States has been actuated in all it said and did by sentiments of genuine friendship which the people of the United States have always entertained and continue to entertain toward the German nation. It has been willing to wait until the significance of the facts has become absolutely unmistakable and susceptible of but one interpretation. That point has now unhappily been reached.

"Germany has not been able to put any limits or restraints upon its warfare against either passenger vessels or freighters. It has therefore become painfully evident that the position which this government took at the outset is inevitable, namely, that the use of submarines in the destruction of any of the enemy's commerce is of necessity incompatible with the principles of humanity long established, and the incontrovertible rights of neutrals, and the sacred immunities of non-combatants.

"We owe it to due regard for our own rights as a nation, our sense of duty as representatives of the rights of neutrals throughout the world, and to a just conception of the rights of mankind, to take this stand now, with the utmost solemnity and firmness.

"I have taken it confident that it will meet with your approval and support."

Representatives of the Allied countries filled the diplomatic galleries while the address was made. In the public galleries the women were in the majority. Mrs. Wilson sat in the executive gallery.

Secretary of State Lansing, Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, Secretary of Labor Wilson, Attorney-general Gregory and Postmaster-general Burleson attended the joint session.

As the president, speaking with great solemnity, approached the keynote of his address, announcing the course pursued with regard to Germany, heads were bowed in many parts of the audience.

TWO ACCUSED OF MURDER GIVEN COURT HEARING

Two first degree murder cases were brought up in police court today. Mustafa Tokubeys, who confessed to killing his daughter with a knife at Waiwahu 10 days ago, asked for a week's continuance. He appears to be of a low order of intelligence, as all through the court proceedings he sat and grins like an ape.

Sarah Kim, Officer Woo and Captain of Detectives McDuffie, were three witnesses called by the defense in the murder hearing of Yon Chu Yong, the Korean accused of murdering the husband of Sarah Kim. Mrs. Kim testified that when the first shot was fired she was at the sink washing her hands. She rushed into the next room and saw her husband bleeding and rolling around on the floor near the door. A moment after she entered the room she heard the second shot, but says that she was so dazed never having heard a revolver go off before, that she didn't see who fired the second shot. She did remember seeing the defendant throw a revolver to the floor. This she picked up and then put down again.

The defendant is remanded to the grand jury in the circuit court.

The Dutch Seaman's Union decided to uphold its members who refuse to sail because of the submarine peril.

A BISHOP ON ADVERTISING
The modern spirit of business as vitalized by advertising is expounded in the statement of Bishop Warren A. Chandler, which appears on Page 14 of today's issue. This is the second of the series of "Advertising Advertising" advertisements sent throughout the country by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

POLICE COURT DOINGS AND NOTATIONS FOUND ON STATION BLOTTER

Frank Mense's attempted suicide by swallowing a two-ounce bottle of iodine yesterday afternoon as told in yesterday's Star-Bulletin, second edition, proved the means of bringing his wife back to him and to a realization of how her actions have made her husband weary of life. She was contrite at the emergency hospital, where Surgeon R. G. Ayer after an hour's work had succeeded in saving the man's life, and promised to reform. The couple have a house in the Iwilei section, and Mense is a licensed chauffeur on the Iwilei stand.

ONLY EIGHT VOTES CAST IN ELECTION ON GARDEN ISLAND

Only eight persons voted at the Democratic direct primary election at Koloa, Kauai, last Saturday, according to returns received by John H. Wilson, national committeeman. Eight votes each were received by Wilson, candidate for national committeeman; J. S. Chandler, candidate for delegate to the national convention, and Mr. Silva, candidate for alternate.

POLICE VERACITY UP TO SHERIFF AND MAGISTRATE

Civil Service Commission Refers Contradictory Testimony to Other Officials

Back and forth went the "buck" of police veracity at a meeting of the civil service commission this noon. Responsibility for the charges to be made against four police officers was shifted from the commission to the city attorney, from the city attorney to the commission until the twin united and passed the buck to the sheriff and district magistrate.

The four officers, W. H. Chilton, Fred Wright, J. J. Enwright and John Holuh, testified in the trial of John Gaspar on April 4. Chilton and Wright said they saw Gaspar at the scene of the accident. Holuh and Enwright said they did not. Testimony of the four officers was contradictory in several other respects. Unable to tell which were telling the truth Judge J. M. Monarrat released Gaspar and sent a certified record of the charges and testimony to the city attorney. The latter sent it to the civil service commission with a letter.

The commissioner contended at the meeting today that they could not take the responsibility of determining which two of the four men were lying. They said it was up to the attorney. He declared that it was up to the commission.

After much preliminary fencing the commission finally directed its secretary to forward a copy of the testimony to Sheriff Charles H. Rose and Judge Monarrat and request that they examine it with a view of determining which two of the four men lied at the trial and then present charges

FIND HAWAII'S FAME SPREADING AROUND GLOBE

"Gentlemen, I want to testify that since my visit here four years ago, the name and fame of fair Hawaii has spread around the globe. I tell you this from personal observation during my trips abroad," began Percy Hunter in a rapid-fire talk at the Ad Club lunch today.

"This universal publicity is a tribute to the publicity you have been working for during the past nine years. I know some of the men responsible for this splendid achievement, but in a community that is so full of public spirit as Honolulu, I won't mention names. You will reap the benefits of this publicity for many years to come, but you must not rest on your laurels.

"This thing that Mr. Ford has accomplished of getting the name of the entire exposition property and buildings for the whole of the year 1917 for a Pan-Pacific exposition is a tremendous thing. Get behind him strong. I intend to go back to Australia and boost for it for all I'm worth. We are on the high wave of publicity in the Pacific now. Let's against them to the commission.

Informal complaint made to one of the commissioners that the sheriff and his chief had recently appointed men to their forces who were not on the eligible list was investigated by the commission and found to be with but slight foundation. Two Japanese watch boys had been appointed by the fire chief and a Japanese detective by the sheriff. The watch boys get but $30 a month, and men on the eligible list will not take the place. The sheriff has the power to appoint the detective without reference to the list.

make the most of it."

Mr. Ford also spoke and told of what Harry Strange had said to him as the steamer landed at Victoria. "Two old soldier friends of Strange's from the Boer war days were there in khaki to meet him. Strange turned to Ford and said: 'If I get back out of this alive, Ford, I'm coming back to Hawaii and work for the rest of my life to promote the ideals and activities for which this Pan-Pacific movement stands.'"

Major Russell, U. S. A., a new member of the club, spoke of the days of '98 when he came through here as a "volunteer hero" when coming to Honolulu made him think he was coming into an earthly heaven.

Captain Phillips of the steamer Makura told of the uniform praise for Hawaii and its people he had heard for the whole of the 20 years that he has been making these transpacific runs.

April 30 is the Sunday that has been selected for the Ad Club picnic to Tantalus. All those who intend to go will assemble immediately after church at the Promotion Committee rooms. John Martin issued an invitation to the Ad Club to join in the sunrise services on Punchbowl Easter Sunday morning. Ladies are invited to both the Punchbowl service and the Tantalus picnic.

Rev. L. L. Loftbrouwer delivered an eloquent address on the "Crucifixion of Christ as the Pivot of History." He said that the cross, which was the most humiliating form of death in those days has been done away with as a means of death, and it has become the symbol of the most sublime in human existence. Twelve nations have the cross on their flags, and the best modern architecture uses the form of the cross as its base. He said with reverence that Jesus Christ is the best advertised man in the world; the Bible is the best selling book in the world. And the second and third best sellers are also books based on the life of Christ: "Imitation of Christ" by Thomas a Becket, and Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

Mrs. C. L. Hall, though suffering from a cold, sang and was accompanied by Miss Gattfield at the piano and Professor Carl Millner on the violin.
