THE CASE FOR IRELAND.

Dublin's serious riots and the flame of revolt that has suddenly leaped up in half a dozen counties of the Emerald Isle might indicate that all Ireland is banded against the British and the Allied cause, but that is far from the case. As a matter of fact, nearly twice as many men have enlisted from Ireland as are contained in the entire American army. Furthermore, although the enlistment from Protestant Ireland has been large, that from Catholic Ireland has also been large, even from the districts now the center of rebellion.

The facts indicate that Ireland has plenty of men who are staunch supporters as well as plenty of men who are persistent enemies of the British cause. John Redmond in a recent interview gave figures showing that up to about April 1, 155,227 Irish had joined the colors. The number of recruits alone in army and navy is 105,181. Ireland today has a complete corps of Kitchener's new army in the field, consisting of three divisions, in addition to the veteran Irish regiments, and there are twenty-six reserve battalions in Ireland to supply the necessary reinforcements. Nearly 50,000 Irishmen have gone to the front as reinforcements, to fill out wasted regiments.

In the army there are 88,080 Catholics and 59,188 Protestants, according to the latest figures. Ulster Protestants compose one division, the thirty-sixth, but other divisions are made up of Unionists. Altogether the case for Ireland as supporting the British colors is a strong one, in spite of the recent riots.

THE PUBLIC'S INTEREST.

"Big Business" is less arbitrary in its treatment of the public than it used to be. The shadow of public ownership is very largely the reason.

Just now the makers of armor-plate are much exercised over the proposal of a government armor-plate plant. The Bethlehem Steel Company, for more than two decades one of the "Big Three" in this business, offers to "manufacture armor for an indefinite period at any price the Federal Trade Commission shall decide is fair."

Ten years ago the armor-plate kings would have laughed at any suggestion of a government commission fixing the price of their product. Times have changed. Big Business is beginning to realize that it is protection against government ownership to cooperate with the government now instead of fighting. The fact is being widely recognized that the public has the right to participate in price-making, not only through the economic law of supply and demand, but through the much more quickly applicable plan of public representation. The interesting part of this armor-plate story is that businessmen recognize that the public's right to participate in rate-making is admittedly not confined to public utilities but holds good in the production of commodities.

A SORDID SOLDIER OF FORTUNE.

An extraordinary character with an extraordinary history is Ignatius T. T. Lincoln, the Austrian Jew against whom the supreme court of the United States ruled yesterday. Lincoln was admittedly in the service of Germany as a spy, yet he became a naturalized Briton and rose to membership in the Parliament. Indeed, he is said to have enjoyed an intimacy with Premier Asquith that was only shaken when Lincoln revealed his true character in a series of articles published by an enterprising New York newspaper.

These articles showed Lincoln as a vainglorious and unscrupulous secret agent, apparently ready to betray his trust whenever it suited his purpose to do so. His revelations put the British government determinedly on his trail, and now it is likely to go hard with him, although the British representatives have denied that his spy stories were true and declared he would be tried only on the forgery charges.

Lincoln appears as one of the curious human pieces cast out by the upheaval of war, a soldier of fortune whose sordid trade tarnishes whatever of romance might cling to his adventures.

BUSINESSMEN BACK CITIZEN TRAINING CAMPS.

Honolulu's campaign for funds for the citizen training camp on Punchbowl, and the success attending that campaign, prove how emphatically businessmen believe in thorough preparedness. The Star-Bulletin has received from an interested Honolulu clipping of a New York despatch which gives timely information as to what New York businessmen are doing.

Briefly the despatch says that more than half a hundred of the leading banks, trust companies, life insurance companies, industrial and public service corporations with centers in New York have made arrangements for their employees to attend the military training camps being arranged for at Plattsburg, Chicomanga, and other places, without losing any of their salaries.

This move on the part of the various corporations, which other companies readily are joining, means that more than 30,000 young men will get intensive military training this summer.

The Military Camps Training Association, made up of men who have attended training camps supervised by the war department, announce that camps will be held in nine places.

Besides the camps at Plattsburg, there will be consecutive monthly camps at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. (Chickamauga); San Diego, Cal.; Fort George Wright, Wash.; Fort Harrison, Ind.; Fort Sheridan, Ill.; San Antonio, Tex., and Galveston, Tex. More than 16,000 men are expected in the camps in the Eastern Department, 7000 in the Middle West, 200 in the Southeast, and 5000 in the war West. More than 3600 already have enrolled for one or other of the Plattsburg camps. The training will cost each attendant about $55.

Yesterday all over Germany clocks were set one hour ahead, the avowed object being to lengthen working time during daylight and decrease the necessity for artificial light, thus promoting hygiene and economy. A year or two ago it was seriously proposed that Hawaii should set the clock an hour ahead and several good reasons were advanced, but the idea appeared too fantastic for sober consideration by most people and it was dropped.

A ship loaded with food from America for Belgium has been torpedoed, thus again proving that Germany is conducting her submarine warfare in accordance with the dictates of humanity.

Speaking of preparedness, we notice that on the day the women's training camp opened near the national capital, the Washington team went to the top of the pennant ladder.

The Colonel says: "I am not working as a politician, but as a patriotic citizen." Right now working as a patriotic citizen is about the best politics an American can play.

Up to date: "Who touches a hair of Villa's head ain't no lady," Carranza said.

Didn't Portugal's declaration of war "take"?

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—MRS. F. J. LOWREY: I would like to see 40 miles of trees planted along the belt road.

—JOHN A. DOMINIS: One divorce a day was filed in circuit court last month. At this rate we will soon have to be setting a new record book.

—RAY BAKER RIETOW: Between attending to naturalization matters and passport application, and giving rowing news to the papers, I am kept pretty busy.

—MARSHAL J. J. SMIDDY: Yes, it is true that a new railing has been installed in the marshal's office, but it is not for the purpose of keeping out attorneys and reporters. It will serve as a sort of safeguard for Deputy Harris when he is making out the monthly checks.

—CHARLES N. ARNOLD, supervisor: There has been a lot of petty squabbling between city department heads recently and it is all because of faults in the purchasing agent ordinance. There will have to be changes in it, probably the elimination of the word "service," before it is workable. As it stands now the road department cannot legally hire a laborer without coming to the purchasing agent, for the ordinance gives to him the authority to make all contracts for materials, supplies and service for all city departments.

—F. SCHNACK: I noticed in last night's Star-Bulletin that Mr. Marc Klau speaks of the necessity of an accurate and comprehensive guide book or "hedecker" of the islands, which will "enable tourists" to know what they are seeing without asking a single question of their guide. I have made every endeavor to have "The Aloha Guide" fulfill these requirements, and if I have not been entirely successful I shall be pleased to receive suggestions for a later revision of the book. The Aloha Guide has now been on the market a year.

—JUDGE C. W. ASHFORD: It is to laugh that our hysterical scheme of military preparedness had to be held up during two days—and nights—of last week in order that a billiard match might be pulled off in the armory. After all, what is a little matter of national defense as compared with a billiard match? The champions of the present nervous policy will do well to keep their eyes on Joe Fern. It is by no means improbable that he will soon inaugurate another series of luaus, in which case goodby to preparedness until the last rib of the ultimate pig shall have been sucked dry.

PALMYRA ISLAND AND ITS FLORA DESCRIBED

"Palmyra Island with a Description of its Flora" is the title of a bulletin just issued by the College of Hawaii, the author being Joseph F. Rock, botanist at the institution.

More than a score of choice photographs, taken in July, 1913, when Mr. Rock visited the island of Palmyra with its owner, Judge Henry E. Cooper, in the power schooner Luka, are reproduced in the bulletin. The table of contents is as follows: History of Palmyra Island; Home Islet; Bird Islet; Eastern Islet; Cooper Islet; Flora of Palmyra; Algae; Fungi; Lichens; Musci; Filices; Monocotyledoneae, and Dicotyledoneae. The booklet contains 54 pages.

While some of the pages are filled with technical phrasing that is unintelligible to the lay ear, the major part of the reading is most interesting. This is especially true of the description of Palmyra island and the various islets about it. A map of the island forms the frontispiece.

In this country from 30 to 40 per cent. of the cases requiring charitable relief are due to sickness.

greatest era of prosperity in their history.—S. F. Chronicle.

H. H. KENNEDY, statistician in the road department, finished his work this morning and left his job to his successor, as yet unnamed. He worked yesterday and today without pay, as he was discharged Saturday on complaint to the mayor that he was not a citizen, as the law requires city and county employees to be.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, formerly printer well known in this city, having been connected with the Daily World and also the Republic in the old days, arrived here yesterday afternoon and is renewing acquaintances in this city today. Three or four years ago Mr. Cunningham left this city for Honolulu, where he has been steadily employed since that time. He was accompanied to San Francisco by his wife, who remained there while Mr. Cunningham made the trip north. He contemplates returning to California next week and expects to go back to Honolulu with his wife in September.—Wenatche, Wash., World.

VON HAMM-YOUNG CO. IS LOWEST BIDDER ON REFRIGERATING PLANT

Von Hamm-Young Company was the low bidder on a refrigerating plant for the Boys' Industrial School, it was discovered when bids were opened yesterday in the office of the superintendent of public works. The bid was $1850, 90 days delivery. The Hawaiian Electric Company bid $2290, 90 days delivery; Catton-Nell & Company, $2275, 65 days delivery.

ABSENCE OF JUDGE IS CAUSE OF POSTPONEMENT

"Do unto others as ye would—" that little portion of the golden rule was exemplified this morning in the circuit court when Judge C. W. Ashford left his own sanctum to take the bench of his absent colleague, Judge T. B. Stuart, who is making a hurried vacation trip to the island of Hawaii. Judge Ashford sat on the new bench long enough to continue the case of Wilder against various public officials, the trial being postponed until Thursday. If Judge Stuart's liking for the Big Island keeps him there past Thursday the substituting judge will again postpone the case, probably naming Saturday as the next date.

PUUNUI WILL ELECT NEW EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Puunui will vote on the policy of the executive committee of its improvement club in the fight for a meuka outlet to the district tomorrow night. The present committee, with the exception of C. B. Hall, who is replaced by Henry Peters, is coming up for reelection at the annual meeting. If the club is displeased it will have a chance to select another ticket, if it approves of the committee's actions so far it can reelect it.

OFFICER FRED WRIGHT IS LAID AWAY TO REST

With former comrades guarding his casket and another squad as a mounted escort, the funeral of Policeman Fred Wright at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon was impressive. Flowers came in profusion. Honolulu last attended in a body. Rev. Cannon Aul

WILL CONSIDER KALAKAUA AVE. IMPROVEMENTS

City Engineer Will Offer Plans That Propose Important Changes

Kalakaua avenue improvements will occupy the attention of the supervisors tonight, unless they adjourn immediately after meeting to attend the hearing on the rapid transit franchise to be held in the Capitol. In that case a special meeting will probably be held tomorrow night.

George M. Collins, city engineer, has a report ready to submit that will cause considerable discussion, for it recommends a number of radical changes in the plans for the district. First, he believes the parking in the avenue should be torn up from McCully street out. Then he will recommend that concrete be substituted for bitulithic pavement. Lastly, he will declare to the board that there is no necessity for sub-drainage.

Mr. Collins has blueprints showing traffic conditions, with the avenue as it is now, with the car tracks in the parking, as was proposed at the last board meeting, and with the parking eliminated and the car tracks curbed in. He believes that with the aid of this traffic study he can convince the board that his plan should be followed.

Butlithic he declares unnecessary with the present light traffic, and will submit figures to prove it.

Sub-drainage, as proposed by Charles R. Forbes, superintendent of public works, he believes would be an unwarranted waste of money.

Contracts for the curbing in the Anawaiohima district and for the erection of an addition to Central Grammar school will be awarded. Bids were opened at noon today.

Luncheon assessment ordinance and a number of minor measures are due to come up for second reading.
