

KNIFE THROWN AT ROOSEVELT IN MEMORIAL DAY PARADE; UNHURT

MEMORIAL DAY IS REMINDER HAWAII FOR PREPAREDNESS

In Line With Veterans of '60s are Disciplined Regulars, Promising National Guardsmen, New Naval Militia and Other Defense Organizations

FLOWERS FOR HONORED DEAD, CIVILIAN AND MILITARY, STREW GRAVES

Speaker of Day, Rev. L. L. Looftbourow, Points to Citizens' Duty to Uphold Country; Honor Heroes of Past

America's fighting-men of the past and those who may in the future be called upon to defend their country's honor joined today in a Memorial Day parade which held the keynote of "national preparedness."

The keynote sounded in the measured tread of the disciplined regulars who are making of Oahu a great army post; it was evident in the growing ranks of the National Guard of Hawaii; in the young and enthusiastic Naval Militia, and in the other organizations which swelled a long line that moved to martial music.

And the speaker of the day, Rev. L. L. Looftbourow, told a large audience at Nuuanu cemetery that the citizens of today must be prepared to uphold their country and their God.

Memorial Day was observed with even more general cessation of business than usual, and never before has there been such a flood of beautiful flowers as poured early all day long into the cemeteries of the city.

Through streets lined close on each side with an orderly crowd that expressed its feelings with quiet words of praise or clappings of the hand, marched the soldiers and citizens in parade.

Military music and waving flags thrilled the hearts of those who watched from the sidewalks and porches and vigils into those who marched. From the head of the marching column to the last citizen at the end there were all manner and ages of men.

Grizzled veterans of the '60s, boy scouts hardly old enough to shoulder the staffs of their order, cadets of local military schools, regulars of the army, men who had served in Cuba and the Philippines, and the naval militia and national guard all marched between the lines of appreciative thousands.

Start is Made Promptly. It was at promptly 10 o'clock that the splendid band of the 2nd Infantry from Fort Shafter began the strains of "Hail Columbia Happy Land"—music that seemed especially appropriate beneath the balmy Hawaiian sun—and the long column's elements swung into the line of march.

From the corner of Bishop and King streets down past the library those who were to march in the parade had been forming, ready for the word, and as the music began they fell at once into their places in perfect order and time.

Headed by the Honolulu mounted police the long parade arranged in column of platoons formation passed up King street to Fort, up Fort to Vineyard, and out Vineyard to Nuuanu and on to the cemetery. Thirty paces apart and in fine order the groups of marchers passed.

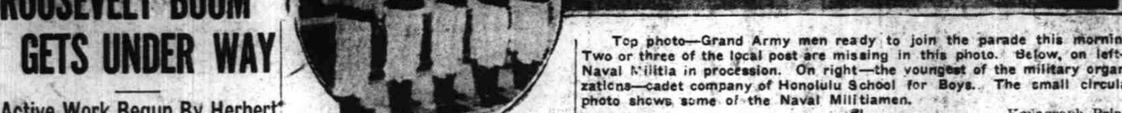

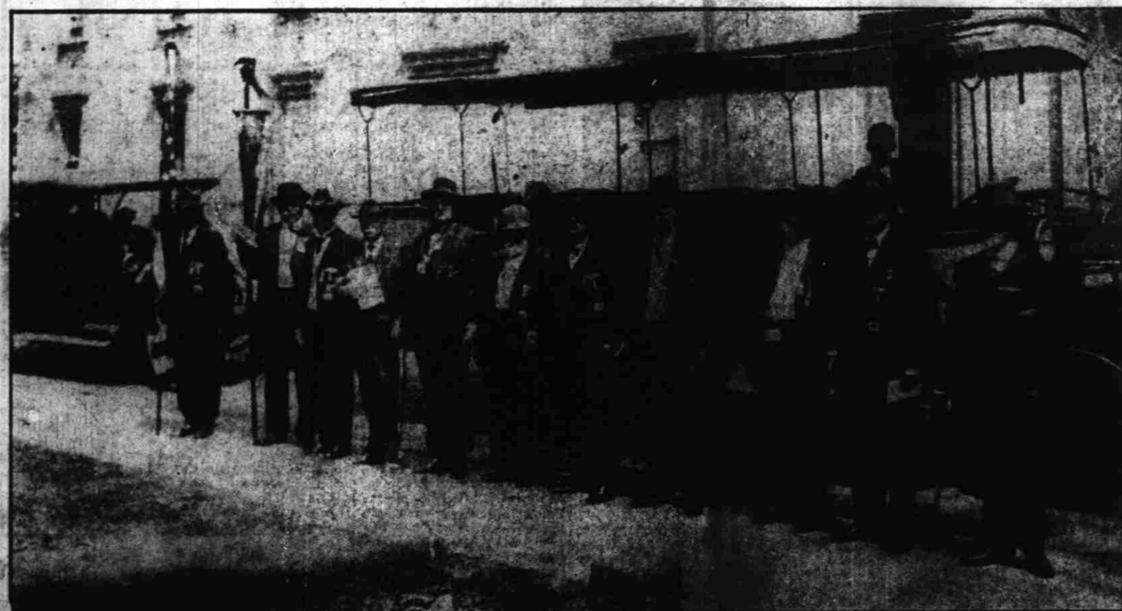

Regulars Lead March. Directly behind the police squad on horseback rode Major William R. Dashiell, 2nd Infantry, Fort Shafter, and his aides. He was followed by the splendid 20-piece band of the post, marching and playing in perfect time. The 1st Battalion of the 2nd Infantry, which includes Companies A, B, C and D, came next, trim and erect, with guns at shoulder, led by Capt. C. L. McCain.

National Guard in Line. Then passed Hawaii's citizen soldiery, the 1st Infantry, National Guard, headed by Col. C. S. Lincoln, inspector-instructor and commander of the 1st Infantry. The guard made a fine impression on the crowd as it passed 18 abreast company by company.

Order of companies as they passed was as follows: Company E, Capt. Charles E. Coster; Company F, Capt. Edward Hopkins; Company H, Capt. Ching K. Amona; Company I, Capt. Samuel H. Ware; Company A, Capt. Henry P. O'Sullivan; Company D, Capt. Gustav E. Schaefer; Company B, Capt. Alan J. Lowrey; Company C, Capt. Charles R. Frazier; 1st Separate Company, Engineers, Capt. Charles R. Forbes; Machine Gun Company, Capt. A. L. C. Atkinson; Company G, Capt. Louis K. Kane; Company M, Capt. William J. Hampton; Company K, Capt. John McCandless; Company L, Capt. William Ahia, and Detachment Hospital Corps, Major Edwin D. Kilbourne.

Naval Militia Appears. Directly behind the Infantry Troops came the Naval Militia, led by Lieut. Richard E. Lambert—their first appearance in public parade. Special attention from the crowd they drew

MEMORIAL DAY SEES PASSING OF NOTED 'REB'

Col. John S. Mosby, Confederate Raider, Closes Picturesque Life

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—Col. John Singleton Mosby, the famous Confederate raider during the Civil War, died today.

Col. Mosby died at the age of 50 years when at the head of a band of a few hundred Confederate raiders he rode up and down the Shenandoah valley, capturing outposts, destroying supply trains and cutting off means of communication. It has been estimated that he often neutralized the force of over 15,000 Federals in the valley.

Born in Powhatan county, Virginia, December 6, 1833, and graduated from the University of Virginia in 1852, he was practicing law in Bristol, Va., when the war broke out and he began his career in the Confederate army. He proved his daring with such effect that he became a scout for Gen. J. E. B. Stuart and led the celebrated raid around McClellan's army on the Chickahominy. In Richmond a year later he recruited an independent cavalry troop which became famous as Mosby's Partisan Rangers. They became night riders and the terror of the Federal troops.

Mosby's most brilliant exploit was the capture of Gen. Stoughton. On a March night in 1863 he, with 30 followers, rode through the Federal army to Fairfax court house, only 15 miles from Washington, where Gen. Stoughton was asleep. Although surrounded by an army said to have been 17,000 strong, the rangers calmly kidnapped

COLONEL A FEATURE OF KANSAS CITY PROGRAM; PREPAREDNESS IS THEME OF THREE SPEECHES

Guards Increased After Attack By Unknown Person—He Speaks to School Children in Morning

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 30.—Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, speaker of the day here today in the Memorial Day exercises, was attacked by some unknown person this morning who threw an open pocket knife at the colonel during the progress of the parade through the streets.

The knife dashed harmlessly against the rear of the auto in which Roosevelt and his escort were riding. The incident passed so quickly that the colonel was not aware that the knife had been thrown at him.

As a result of the attack, the guards and plain-clothes men who surrounded Roosevelt while he was in the midst of crowds were increased and every precaution taken to keep suspicious-looking characters from his vicinity. He was the orator of the day at the annual commemorative exercises. During the morning he spoke to a large number of school children, also to a crowd which gathered around his hotel, delivering his talk from the balcony. He urged "preparedness" as one of the paramount issues before the nation.

In his afternoon speech Mr. Roosevelt urged universal military training based upon universal service, for the youths of the nation. He spoke before veterans both of the northern armies and of the confederacy.

He declared this his was a "message to all Americans." "After the war we shall see a new Europe," he said, "a Europe energetically developing new social and economic means for meeting its problems. If under these circumstances we take refuge in formulae dug from the wreckage of the principles of the past, we shall be as foolish as if we were to arm our soldiers with flintlocks, to send them against an army possessing machine-guns, modern rifles and artillery."

"The time for flintlock theories of statesmanship in the United States is past."

He urged that the nation beware of "false prophets and professional pacifists."

We Are Ready to Fight for Our Rights," President Declares

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—President Wilson delivered an eloquent and solemn address at Arlington cemetery today at the annual Memorial Day exercises.

"I summon solemnly," he said, "all men to set their purposes in accord with the spirit of America," and he gave warning that men from other lands who do not think of America first "must be cast out of our tolerance."

He said that America will not submit to aggression within or without.

"We not only are ready to cooperate but ready to fight against aggression," he asserted. "We are ready to fight for our rights when these rights are coincident with the rights of mankind."

The exercises today included special honors to the U. S. sailors lost in the battleship Maine and the submarine F-4.
