

HOPE TO RETAIN SECOND DEPUTY CLERK IN COURT

Sanction of Recommendations By Federal Officials Expected in Next Mail

Action of the department of justice in Honolulu regarding the sanction of the second deputy clerk of the local federal court be made permanent is expected by federal officials in the city.

While the examiner of the department of justice was in Honolulu recently, it is understood that he forwarded to Washington a suggestion that the second deputy clerk be retained.

This suggestion later was followed by a letter signed by Federal Judges Horace W. Vaughan and C. F. Clemons, in which they stated: "We respectfully recommend that the second deputy clerk of the court be retained as in our opinion the work of the office cannot for the immediate future be done by a smaller force than the clerk and two deputies."

Judge Clemons stated today that in his opinion, the recommendations received by the department of justice, although he is confident that such will be the case.

Judge Vaughan said: "I do not see how we can dispense with the second deputy clerk. While the court has not been very busy, the clerks have been busy preparing transcripts to the appellate courts, many appeals having been taken. I really believe that the second deputy clerk is needed, considering all the cases. There are times when there is a full and hot much to be done, but there are other times when the entire force is very busy."

HOME FOR CURE OF DOPE FIENDS NOW UNDER WAY

Institution For Habitual Users of Narcotics Will Open in Fall; Plans Approved

A home for the cure of narcotic habitues—dope fiends—under territorial management, conducted by the board of health, will be a reality by next October. Governor Lucius E. Pinkham has approved the plans, and actual construction will start probably on or before August 15.

This news—a big thing for all those who have been battling to stamp out the narcotic traffic—here became known today. Confirmation of it was had from three sources, Governor Pinkham, Collector of Internal Revenue John F. Haley, who has made a winning fight against the evil, and Dr. John S. B. Pratt, president of the board of health.

"I have approved the plans," said Governor Pinkham this morning. "They are in the hands of Dr. Pratt. There will be half a dozen buildings in the group and the architects are the public works department."

"There will be 12 rooms in the institution," said Dr. Pratt. "The appropriation made for it by the legislature two years ago was for $40,000. We have not called for all that sum as yet. I cannot say how many patients we will have. We don't know that yet. The home will occupy a part of the insane asylum grounds."

The survey for the institution was started this week, and work of excavating for the foundations is now under way. It is expected that with no undue delay, the home will be opened in October, and it will mean the close of a long fight by the collector of internal revenue and the board of health to have a place where habitual users of narcotics can be taken care of and cured. Both Dr. Pratt and Collector Haley have been working toward this end for a long time.

"The Star-Bulletin has been a big factor in arousing public opinion to the need of such an institution," stated Collector Haley this morning. "It means the beginning, with the aid of Honolulu physicians, of the board of health taking over the handling and dispensing of narcotics to habitues, with their cure as an object. It means new hope for drug fiends, and a big thing for this territory."

JAPANESE LABORERS CONTENTED ALL OVER ISLANDS, SAYS Y. SOGA

"Japanese laborers all over the islands are satisfied with the bonuses paid," said Y. Soga, editor of the Nippo Jiji today. "We have been sending out letters asking the laborers regarding the situation, and in nearly every reply they state that the wage scale at the present time is satisfactory."

"The reports received from Honolulu plantation that the laborers were satisfied with the arrangements is most pleasing, and very little discussion is heard at present in regard to the labor problem with reference to the bonuses. One of the Maui plantations failed to pay on time, but it was on account of inability to get out the bonuses in time. It is pleasing to the Japanese people to know that the planters are keeping faith with the workers in every way," he concluded.

"FLY THE FLAG ON THE 4TH"

SUBSIDY IS HOPE OF AMERICAN SHIPPING

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Returns From Lecture Tour; Says Loomis Has Made Good

A very graphic and disinterested analysis of the merchant marine outlook of the United States following the war has been written by Winthrop L. Marvin of Boston, former secretary of the congressional merchant marine commission and appears in the Pacific Marine Review. Marvin says:

"It would be a grave error to assume that the present extraordinary activity in American shippings and a sudden increase of a few hundred thousand in our registered tonnage means a solution of the long-standing problem of the American merchant marine in overseas trade. All this is a 'war baby' and nothing else, and though the ending of the conflict will leave a few really concrete advantages, like the experience gained by our yards in standardizing and working up to a full volume of production, most of the factors which have stubbornly kept the Stars and Stripes off the ocean will inevitably reassert themselves as soon as peace is declared."

"First of these adverse factors is the difference in the cost of operation between American and foreign vessels. If our laws and regulations were repealed, and the British laws and regulations adopted wholesale it would still cost more to operate an American than a British ocean vessel. Full proof of this significant fact has been recently afforded in actual experience under the Emergency Free Ship Act of August 18, 1914.

The United States Steel Products Company transferred nine steamers from the British to the American flag. Immediately the American rate of wages was demanded by the British officers and crews and as a result the cost of operation rose from $12,478 a month to $17,537. This was early in the war before the ship wages had begun to soar the world over. Again, W. R. Grace & Co. found that wages and food under the American flag amounted to $2773 a month as against $1991 under the British for the same vessel.

"When the great war has ended and freight rates have sunk to their normal level this difference in the cost of operation, of small importance now, will become substantially the same as ever, and will again discourage the maintenance of ocean vessels beneath the American flag. The new La-Follette seamen's act will also make its burden felt, as there can be no possible going back to Asiatic labor."

"The question will, therefore, be an urgent one at the war's close of how best to equalize conditions so that American ocean ships may be enabled to retain the American flag and register."

"The swiftest and most direct method of achieving this is by subsidy. The word 'subsidy' has lost most of its terror to inland agricultural Americans who in this war have seen the freight rates on their crops go up out of sight because of lack of bottoms. Strange to say, the organized union seamen of this country have been recorded in opposition to subsidy—that is, to protection. On land it is very different as skilled labor as a rule is in favor of tariff protection. The International Seamen's Union is the only free trade organization in America, and this is probably due to the fact that very few native or naturalized Americans are members. Higher wages on shipboard, which have come in with the war, will unquestionably increase the number of Americans following the ocean for a livelihood and those Americans will ultimately control the seamen's union. They will naturally seek to maintain the high wage rates which make the existence of real American seamen possible, and just as skilled laborers on shore are always protectionists, so it is inevitable that the majority of American seamen will be for protection on the sea—that is, for subsidy—in self-defense, and the American Federation of Labor will have to stand with them."

"The carrying trade of the world, like the land industries, will inevitably go to the lowest wage nations unless there is vigorous governmental action to prevent it. And this war has demonstrated to all the world the surpassing importance of a native shipping and of loyal citizen seamen not only for the purpose of commerce but for the imperative need of national defense."

KILLAM PRAISES ASSOCIATION ON GARDEN ISLAND

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Returns From Lecture Tour; Says Loomis Has Made Good

Lloyd R. Killam, secretary of the Oriental branches of the Y. M. C. A., returned from Kauai on Wednesday brimming over with good things to say of the association work on the Garden Island. Mr. Killam was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Loomis.

"Mr. Loomis is doing a great work on Kauai and it is pleasing to know that the association will meet all kinds of plantation conditions. Young men of that island are taking a deep interest in the educational and athletic work, and the association is supplementing the splendid work of the National Guard in athletics."

Accompanied by Mr. Loomis, secretary of the Kauai association, Mr. Killam spoke at Lihue to the English-speaking Japanese. On Sunday afternoon he visited the Lihue Sunday school, where he talked to the students. He also addressed a meeting of Filipinos at the same place.

During his tour of Kauai Mr. Killam spoke before the Hawaiian boys at Waihee, the Filipinos at Makawala and the German boys at Kekaha plantation. August Kruse, mill engineer of the plantation, is taking an interest in the work and has already arranged for drawing tables for class work.

JAPANESE WILL CELEBRATE 4TH AT BEACH CLUB

Games Will Be Featured at Mochizuki; Preparatory Wrestling Sunday

Japanese in Honolulu will celebrate July 4 in a worthy manner if the present plans are carried out. A committee has been appointed among local Japanese to arrange for a big Independence Day celebration at the grounds of the Mochizuki Club at Wai-kiki.

The program as outlined will consist of sports, speeches and a general get together meeting. There will be fire crackers, toasts, wrestling, sprint races and field events. Another plan which has been proposed is to hold a number of boat races off the beach in front of the clubhouse.

As a preparatory Fourth of July celebration, the management of Tokiwa Inn on Nuuanu street will hold the annual wrestling tournament on Sunday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. More than 60 entries have already been received and more are expected to compete. Before baseball came, wrestling was considered the national sport of Japan, and there is still much interest taken in the ancient game among local Japanese.

SPRECKELS LITIGATION HAS NO EFFECT HERE

Asked this afternoon whether the recent final settlement of the Spreckels litigation in San Francisco will have any local effect or whether it will have any bearing on the recent transfer of the local Spreckels property, E. Faxon Bishop, president of S. Brewer & Co., said: "As far as I know, it will have no effect whatever." The litigation was an action for accounting brought by the two younger sons and a daughter of the late Claus Spreckels against two other brothers.

The membership of the American Bankers' association is now 15,547, against 14,367, last year.

President Linnard of Pasadena Rose Tournament Now Sailing Towards Honolulu

Coming to Honolulu to see the islands and obtain some pointers from the Mid-Pacific Carnival to use in next year's event, D. M. Linnard, president of the Tournament of Roses Association of Pasadena, California, is now on his way here, having sailed from San Francisco two days ago, presumably on the Wilhelmina, due here next Tuesday morning.

The Tournament of Roses is held on New Year's Day every year in Pasadena, and is the largest winter attraction of Southern California. From 75,000 to 100,000 people fill Pasadena on that date annually to see the parade and witness the afternoon events at Tournament park.

Mr. Linnard is one of the best-known hotel men in the United States. He is general manager of The Maryland and The Huntington, both at Pasadena.

MISS DRUMMOND LEAVES TO TAKE UP NEW DUTIES

Miss Evelyn M. Drummond has recently resigned her position at the King's Daughters' Home, where she has been in charge of the work for the past five years. She goes to the Cluett House as the house mother, assuming duties there about August 1.

Both by teaching and temperament Miss Drummond is admirably fitted for this new work. She received her training at the New York Training School for Deaconesses and she is also a university woman.

For years she has been associated with church work in New York, Washington, Pittsburg and California. At the Sacramento branch of the Y. W. C. A. she was the Bible and extension secretary for several years.

While the board of managers of the King's Daughters express their regret at losing Miss Drummond, the bishop is being congratulated upon securing her services for this work.
