CARNIVAL OPENS NEW INDUSTRY IN FLOWER GROWING

"Everlastings" May Be Grown and Used for Decoration of Floats in Pageant

Alfred K. Magoon, Jr., and Alexander Hume Ford met on the street this morning, with the result that five minutes after refusing to enter his automobile in the Pan-Pacific pageant, opening day of the carnival, Mr. Magoon agreed not only to enter his machine but to enter and decorate six additional machines belonging to the Sanitary Steam Laundry, and all because Magoon was allowed to have his own way and do as he pleased.

When Magoon first refused to enter a machine on the ground that he could not spare it for decorations, Ford met the refusal with the offer that the Pan-Pacific Club would provide a heavy wire frame that could be decorated, and not placed on the machine until an hour before the parade was ready to start. Then Magoon parried with the remark that he did not care to decorate with any Hawaiian flower, that if he did go in he would grow everlastings and begin his decorations weeks before the carnival.

"Splendid," said Ford. "That opens up an entire new field. How many kinds of everlastings are there?"

Then Magoon wavered enthusiastically and described six or seven varieties with which he was familiar, stating that he had the ground on which they could be planted if he could only secure the seed.

"Bully," said Ford. "We'll start a new industry, and perhaps they may be good for lei making. Just wait a moment and I will phone Higgins of the Federal Experiment Station."

And he did, with the result that Higgins is busy securing seeds of numerous varieties and colors of the everlasting flower, and Magoon has agreed to put in the seven machines if he can only secure the seven varieties of the everlasting while Ford assures him the seeds of these will soon be forthcoming through the mails.

Speaking of the matter this morning, Ford said:

"This opens up a splendid new field of possibilities for the floral parade section of the Pan-Pacific pageant. Our idea had been to have only Hawaiian flowers used, and many of these we discovered would not be in season in February, and would have to be made artificially, but now we are taking up the matter of having people grow their flowers, either forcing or retarding them, and so having them ready. If new species can be introduced, they will of course be eligible. We are now securing an exhibit in the Pan-Pacific rooms over Castle & Cooke of a display of hundreds of pictures, colored posters and photographs and cards showing the flowers of Hawaii and Pacific lands, as well as the costumes and the designs of the automobiles and floats that have been entered in past pageants and floral parades. Anyone who can assist by sending additional photographs or pictures of such subjects are requested by the Pan-Pacific Club to do so."

BETTER FIGURES FOR SUGAR SEEN AFTER HOLIDAYS

First Week of July Ends With Larger Demand for Raws and Refined

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 7.—The week under review was curtailed to three actual business days by the observance of the Independence Day holidays. At the opening of the market some disappointment was manifested because of the lack of any important increase in the domestic demand for refined sugars, and refiners continued their policy of refraining from purchasing raws until such demand appeared. Holders of raws, however, were encouraged by the appearance of a European inquiry for raws on the basis of 5c basis 96 deg. f. o. b. Cuba. Some limited business was done with European buyers on this basis for July loading, the particulars of which were withheld, and there are further buyers at this basis. Indications of a slight improvement in the demand for refined sugar yesterday brought a quick response from refiners, who purchased all the Cubas available at 5 1/4c basis 96 deg. c. & f., and all the Porto Ricans available at 6.14c basis 96 deg. c. i. f., the sales at these prices amounting to about 44,000 bags Cubas in port and afloat and about 110,000 bags Porto Ricans afloat and for prompt shipment. Full duty-paying sugars, to the extent of about 21,000 bags in nearby positions, found buyers at 5.18c basis 96 deg. c. i. f. Following these sales, the market assumed a slightly firmer tendency which is maintained at the close of the week. Holders of Cubas are offering only very moderate quantities at 5.38c basis 96 deg. c. & f., and the impression prevails that with an improving demand for refined sugars refiners will soon become liberal buyers of raws, and the owners of the 500,000-600,000 tons of the Cuban crop, which it is estimated still remain to be sold, are only disposed to part with their sugars on an advancing scale.

The weekly cable on Tuesday from Cuba reported receipts of 25,950 tons and 15 Centrals grinding, as compared to 18,200 tons receipts and 14 Centrals at work at the corresponding date last year. Today, 13 Centrals are in operation and the weather is unsettled. Messrs. Guma-Mejer report the production for the entire island for the month of June at 149,086 tons, as against 161,140 tons last year and 144,009 tons in 1914. The visible production to July 1 is 2,856,786 tons.

Although the domestic demand for refined was a source of some disappointment at the opening of the market following the holidays, still as the week progressed sufficient new business materialized to clearly demonstrate that some distributors and manufacturers were becoming depleted in stocks of refined. Early in the week there was some selling from second hands at 7.55c, less 2 per cent, but after the limited supply available at this basis was exhausted, refiners profited to the full extent of the new business, which was placed in light volume at 7.65c less 2 per cent for granulated, quoted by all interests. For export, refiners are generally asking 6.40c to 6.45c for July shipment, and 6.45c to 6.50c net cash, f. o. b., for August shipment, and while there has been some foreign inquiry, no actual business of importance has resulted during the week.

GREEK FIG RAISERS AFFECTED

ATHENS, June 23.—A large number of Greek exporters and agriculturists have been hard hit by the decision of the British naval authorities in the Mediterranean that dried figs are to be regarded as contraband of war. After raisins, tobacco, olive oil, wine and silver bearing lead, figs have been one of the principal articles of export from Greece.

EXPECT BROWN CASE TO COME BEFORE BOARD

Another threshing over of the dismissal of Henry C. Brown and Mrs. Brown, principal and teacher, respectively, at the Waimea, Kauai, school, is predicted at a meeting of the school commissioners which has been called for July 31. The call for the meeting was issued today by Supt. Henry W. Kinney.

"The school commissioners, as far as I know, are not inclined to change their minds in the Brown matter," says Kinney. "When the commission meets it will, of course, take up all matters which may be presented regarding the case."

Kinney added that he has received nothing official from the Kaula chamber of commerce regarding any action it has taken in the Brown matter.

ROTARIANS HEAR GREAT CONCERT

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 19.—More than 5000 members of the International Association of Rotary Clubs and their wives were seated in Music hall at Cincinnati last evening to listen to one of the great musical programs which have made Cincinnati famous as a musical center. Chorusmaster Alfred Hartzell of Cincinnati directed 300 splendid voices selected from the wonderful Cincinnati May festival chorus. In addition the Orpheus Club, under the direction of E. W. Glover, an organization of 120 male voices, sang. The soloists were Miss Frances Ingram, contralto, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company; Margaret Berry Miller, Cincinnati, soprano, and Jos. Schenke, tenor. Prof. Adolph H. Staderman presided at the great organ, and the Cincinnati symphony orchestra of 60 pieces, under the direction of Joseph Sturma, supplied the incidental music.

Prior to the musical entertainment a dinner was given to the international officers, district governors, past presidents and their families.
