AMERICAN RED CROSS AT WORK AT HOME.

Risking A Reputation

Honolulu is justified in a vigorous protest to Washington against the discontinuance of federal medical inspection for vessel arriving here from Pacific coast ports.

The arguments for and against this inspection are too well-known to need repetition. The Star-Bulletin recited them when the suggestion was made recently before the Promotion Committee that this safeguard to the public health should be swept away. It appears that the U. S. Public Health Service in Washington would discontinue the inspection only on American vessels arriving from American ports on the Pacific, but since these arrivals constitute the bulk of passenger steamers touching here, the main safeguards against the admission of dangerous disease will be, if not wholly broken down, at least very much weakened.

Hawaii has no more potent argument in building up a great tourist traffic than the assurance that these islands are free of disease-scourges. In tropical and sub-tropical countries eternal vigilance is price of health. This port has fought for many years to win, establish and hold not only the reputation of being a clean port, but the reputation of being a vigilant port, a well-guarded port.

It is a reputation worth keeping. One or two instances of inconvenience to passengers caused by this medical inspection, and one or two incidents of alleged discourtesy and over-officiousness on the part of the examiners, caused a cry to be raised against the system. Inconvenience and discourtesy may be remedied in a short time, but once let epidemic disease be brought here on some ship, and it will take ten years to remedy the harm done Hawaii. It will cost years of effort and an untold amount of money to redeem the reputation we have secured and have deserved.

LILUOKALANI GARDENS.

Honolulu is fast waking up to the paramount necessity of preserving scenic spots as public parks. With the aid of such organizations as the Ad Club, the Outrigger Club and the Civic Federation, attention is directed to the fact that what should be public property has passed into private hands probably forever, and that no one is to be lost in saving what remains.

No city in the world—and this is not the slightest exaggeration—has had more opportunity for parks and playgrounds within easy walking-distance of every congested section. The very wealth of opportunity, the ease with which grass, flowers, shrubs and luxuriantly-foliated trees are grown, have made people here respectful of preserving and developing these parks and recreation-spots. But now the Tantalus-Round Top park is assured—a priceless asset to the poorer people who need the coolness of the hills quite as much as the richer people—and now the Liluokalani Gardens gift has been made to Honolulu through the Civic Federation.

This latter spot is comparatively little known, yet even in its present neglected condition it is very beautiful, with its little canyons and glens, its miniature waterfalls, its magnificent trees and winding paths. As nearly as possible it should be left in a natural state. In most of this lovely spot artificiality will ruin the charming effects. It should remain as nearly as possible a glimpse of old Hawaii, the idealized Hawaii whose vision is so colorfully evoked in the musical phrases of Mark Twain.

With a cruiser, a college and two baseball teams of the same name, no one here need think of the late convention city when St. Louis is mentioned.

Beef has jumped in price and as usual there is a perfectly good reason.

NARROW ESCAPE ON RIM OF VOLCANO IS THRILLING EXPERIENCE

To discover that their automobile was hanging over the edge of the crater and that they themselves had all but dropped over the precipitous brink for a fall of hundreds of feet was the terrifying experience of David Forbes, manager of the Waialeale mill, and Francis M. Swamy of Theo-

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—CHARLES M. HITE: I certainly am in love with Honolulu, and when I finish my law course down in Mississippi I'm coming right back here.

—JOHN A. DOMINIS: I don't think Reno has a thing on Honolulu when it comes to divorces. One day has been the record for July, and I expect there will be just as many next month.

—HAROLD GODFREY: The members of the Kamehameha Alumni Association are well pleased with the appointment of Charles E. King as a trustee of the Bishop Estate. It will mean a lot to have a graduate of Kamehameha on the board.

—PHILIP C. HALL, tourist agent, Young Hotel: Summer tourist travel to the islands this season is a great deal larger than usual. All the hotels are enjoying better business and indications are that it will continue until the winter season starts.

—DAVID KALAUOKALANI, city clerk: Appropriation for his monthly supplies for my office is only $75, and with but one month gone I have had to spend $51 for printing weekly report forms for dealers in firearms. Hard lines.

—D. L. MACKAYE, secretary anti-tuberculosis bureau, board of health: When a tubercular patient thinks he is cured because he feels better we put a sample of his sputum under the microscope, and if we find any tuberculous germs back he goes for more treatment. The "bug" can be easily seen through our instrument.

—JOHN GRACE: It is to be hoped that Harold Giffard's horse, Ponglong, arrives in time for the September meeting, as this entry is certain to create much excitement here. At Reno the horse is well liked, and the showing made against Scarlet Oats tends to make him a favorite for the autumn events at Kapiolani Park.

—W. T. CARDEN, deputy city attorney: Every person who owns firearms or ammunition should register the same to the city clerk. The law says that possession as well as purchase shall be reported. The penalty for violation is a $500 fine or six months imprisonment or both. It is to be enforced from now on.

—ROLLA K. THOMAS: The around the island hike which is being made by the boys of the summer school of the Y. M. C. A. is proving to be popular, as the word reaches us that they are all having a good time on the trip. It is certain that there will be a large number to make the trip to Kanae after the Oahu hike is completed.

—F. FURNESS, England: With a young boy from Tipperary to Honolulu, and I couldn't get away from the islands when I got into the boat at San Francisco. Very little is heard of Hawaii in England, but publicity of the island becomes more noticeable as one travels towards them. In New York little was said about them but on the Pacific coast you can hear little else in the traveling line except "go to Honolulu."

—TOM MERLE: It brings me fairly close to the 212 degree Fahrenheit point when I see about town such a collection of monstrosities manufactured to represent the American flag. A flag (supposedly an American flag) made of pastry is exhibited in a window in this city, which has seven red stripes below the blue field. No telling how many it has above these for the fold hides them. It would be interesting to know how many red stripes the maker of this flag would have put there if the whole flag had been constructed. It ought to be a crime, or even less majestic, to counterfeit the sacred emblem of this country, or any other country, to the extent that it is being done here. At least one ought to be ashamed to make such an exhibition of ignorance of the flag of the country in which he is living.

It seems to me that one of the first moves in Americanizing these islands should be in teaching the school children properly to construct an American flag.

H. Davies & Company, according to advices received from Hilo.

Trucks and busses were driving near the sulphur banks beyond the Volcano House when they became enveloped in smoke. Proceeding they laid direction until their car suddenly stopped and they discovered that the wheels were over the edge and the contact of the axle with the ground had stopped the car. The machine was rescued by Robert F. Lange of Hoffschlager & Company, who contacted to drive near by.

Scheduled to last until Friday, the general conference of priests of the Honolulu diocese in Hawaii will begin at 7:30 o'clock this evening. The sessions of the conference will be held in the dormitory of the Japanese high school, Fort street.
