

You can Solder anything made of metal with

Solderall

without any tool other than a match

Solderall is not a cement but a pure solder combined with a preparation that keeps it soft until burned out with a flame. It takes but a moment to do it.

You can use it wherever solder is used. Most convenient for mending household utensils, electric contacts, wire, etc.

Put up in special collapsible tubes. Of especial advantage to Housekeepers, Mechanics, Electricians, Motorists, Etc.

You will find that it pays well to have us do your Kodak developing and printing

You will be constantly making better pictures because we can point out for you just where you have made mistakes and show you clearly how to correct them.

That is one reason why we do more developing and printing than all other places in Honolulu combined.

Our window display will prove this.

AUGUST GETS 4 YEARS FOR HIS ATTACK ON GIRL

Pleads Guilty of Assaulting Annie Kelley. Less Than 15 Years of Age

John August paid the penalty today. He will spend the next four years at hard labor in Oahu prison for criminally assaulting Annie Kelley, a part-Hawaiian girl under 15 years of age. Such was the sentence pronounced by Circuit Judge Ashford when the case came before him this morning. August, who recently pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with the offense, withdrew that plea and confessed his guilt. The minimum penalty for an assault of this kind is three years, considering also a plea of guilty by the defendant. But Judge Ashford tacked on an extra year because, as he later explained, the crime committed by August was a "very atrocious one." When the case was first brought into court August admitted to Judge Ashford that he had committed a crime, but declared that his young victim had forced him to do it.

NEW JAPANESE BANKING HOUSE GETS LICENSE

What misunderstanding existed between M. Kawakatsu and the territorial treasurer relative to the establishment of a new Japanese bank here has been removed and license for the conduct of the business of a private bank has issued. The bank will be opened for Baron Sumitomo as an individual and not as president of the Sumitomo Bank.

This follows the statement of intention of M. Kawakatsu the day of his arrival here. Then he said that it had been determined to open a private bank as previous inquiries had shown it inadvisable to open a branch bank.

The misunderstanding arose from an application for a branch bank and then the representative of Japanese banking interests learned that it is necessary to incorporate in Hawaii if a foreign corporation could enter the banking business here. The announcement that the new bank is to be a private banking house is again made. It is further reported that a Merchant street location has been secured through an option for a lease last week.

FREIGHT CHARGES UPON PINES MAY NOT BE RAISED

"Had hearing. Believe pineapple freight increase will be suspended."

Received by the chamber of commerce this morning from Washington the cable above brings good news to the pineapple packers of Hawaii. It means that the new and higher freight rate on their product will probably not go into effect until January; that they may have a chance to move the present pack on present rates; that they may make money instead of losing it on this year's crop.

Coast shippers of canned goods can move their product before September 1 and thus avoid the increased rates, but lack of bottom will prevent the pines from moving so fast," said Raymond C. Brown, secretary of the chamber of commerce, this morning. "Contract prices on canned pines are based on the present cost of getting them to market. If this is increased before this year's pack is moved it means a serious loss to the packers."

Leading chemists believe that the war may shift the drug manufacturing center to this country. The raw materials are plentiful, but synthetic skill is said to be lacking.

'SAD SAM' TURNS DOWN GOOD OFFER

Last night a man was overheard to remark as he left the Bijou theater, "There's nothing funny about that picture," and immediately the management refunded his money and offered to "put him on" as a vaudeville attraction. He declined the proffer and thereby, possibly, lost the opportunity to amass a snug little fortune as the "only man in the world" who falls to see "something funny" in "Tillie's Punctured Romance," with Charlie Chaplin and Marie Dressler combining to register merriment, would be a drawing card in any "freak" sideshow and should secure an engagement on "big time."

However, the several hundred other patrons of the Bijou last night and every other night are a unit in declaring this to be the funniest thing they ever saw. Hundreds are playing this as a "repeater."

"Tillie's Punctured Romance" is a six-part offering and is the longest film in which Chaplin has thus far appeared. It has a clever comedy plot; it affords Chaplin a big chance; it does the same thing for Marie Dressler, the leading comedienne on the American stage, and it gives Mabel Normand an exceptional opportunity to "make good," which she does.

BEN BLAIR LOVES AND HATES GOOD

To those followers of things dramatic, who have an inborn love for fair play—their number is legion—"Ben Blair," the present Liberty offering, with Dustin Farnum in the stellar role, will prove a rare treat. Ben Blair, the boy, was a puny little chap, unable to interfere in behalf of his mother when the brutal Tom Blair hurries along her death and then sets fire to their shack, incinerating the body and thus destroying every evidence of his crime. He overlooks, however, the knowledge that reposed in the mind of tiny Ben.

Years later, grown to man's estate, Ben is called up to pursue and capture Tom to square all accounts. Not only for the murder of his mother, but also the killing of John Rankin, Ben's benefactor. Ben makes the capture of this outlaw his own affair and trails him for days and nights until he finally runs him to earth. Ben is unable at first to decide whether to take him to the sheriff or to bury him. He finally decides upon the final course and hands his enemy over to a speedy and proper justice.

Pearl White and her associates are doing some strong work in "The Iron Claw" and it is probable that a voting contest would declare this to be the most popular serial thus far brought to the Liberty.
