McKinley Alumni Will Control Football End

Committee Has Been Appointed to Secure Coach for High School Gridiron Stars—Move Would Be a Good One—Bill Rosa, Who Coached Team to Victory, Favors the Plan—McKinley Should Take Time By Forelock and Practise

In order that McKinley high school hereafter may be assured of a competent football coach, and thus have an opportunity of wiping out the stain of defeat which has grown deeper during the last two years, the alumni association has about made up its mind to take complete charge of McKinley's gridiron athletics, and has gone so far as to appoint a committee to determine the feasibility of the project.

The committee is composed of Lester Marks, president of the alumni; W. Ladd Rosa, for three years McKinley's star quarterback, and "Bob" Chillingworth, also a former football man.

Rosa has talked over the proposition with Richard Whitcomb, assistant physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and the latter has a man in view who has had considerable football training on the mainland. Whitcomb, who also is a gridiron expert, believes that this man and himself will be able to take hold of the McKinley team this fall and coach the players in every phase of the game.

"The whole trouble with McKinley is that players have never known the inside of football," says Rosa. "In the past coaches have taken up the training where other coaches have left off. This is not the way to train young players, who have just come out of grammar school, as football is seldom played in local grammar schools on a scientific basis."

Rosa coached McKinley in 1914 and, as a result, McKinley that season bested Punahou for the first time in seven years. "Bill" started off with the simpler tactics, such as catching and falling on the ball, passing the ball, tackling and general team work. He gradually led the men into heavier work until they were able to go into the field and play a scientific game.

McKinley clearly showed last year that coaching in the right way would have done much. The boys worked hard, but did not seem to grasp the plays, and as a result the squad made a poor showing in many of the games. Rosa knows football, and also knows it from the right angle. If McKinley is to have a fast squad, one that will compete on even terms with the other schools, they must begin work.

Two weeks before school starts a squad of players who will go out for the team should be rounded up and given practise at least one hour a day or perhaps more. Throw the ball around and get the first principles of football down so that when the real training starts the coach can go ahead and work on the real plays for the year.

Preliminary Practise.
It is not to be expected that the squad can absorb all the football tricks in two weeks, and while the alumni association is working on this move it might schedule preliminary practise of throwing the ball around, working cut plays, etc., before school begins. Every man on the team should be able to handle the forward pass.

Last year the players grabbed, and if they were lucky got it. Given two weeks of nothing else but hurling the ball the players who will make the eleven this year will have a big advantage over the other teams in this respect, and football as it is now depends much on the use of the forward pass. If McKinley has a light team it must depend on speed and the use of the pass.

Practise Kicking.
Then again a good place kick or drop kick man may win many games for his team. They can get their start in August as well as in September. Working an hour each day on booting the ball over the bar and through the posts will be of much benefit, and if the high school can start the season with a man who can boot the ball from the 35-yard line, and boot it consistently, they will have added much to the offensive strength.

This move by the alumni association in betting back of athletics is a good one, and if followed out on the right lines may give the school a winner. Here every former student will have an opportunity to give his support in building up a squad that will have a chance for the honors this year.

Knows The Game

Bill Rosa, football star and former coach of McKinley High school, who has been active in the movement to place the school team on a good basis this fall. Last year the McKinley team had two or three coaches and failed to get all the benefit that was possible. Rosa will take an active interest in the work of the team this year.

COBB GAINS ON TRIS SPEAKER IN BAT BATTLE

Sam Crawford Hitting Over 300 at Present; Robertson Leads Nationals

By Cobb continues his close pursuit of Tris Speaker for American League batting honors, with Joe Jackson hanging on to third place, according to averages, including records of Wednesday's games. Cobb leads in stolen bases with 27; Weaver, Chicago, in sacrifice hits with 23; Baker, New York, in home runs with 8; Jackson in total bases with 190; Speaker in runs scored with 72, and Detroit in club batting with 252. The leading batters, counting only those who have played a half the games of their clubs:

AND NOW DOOLAN IS IN STOCKINGS OF RED
NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 5.—"Mickey" Doolan, the veteran shortstop, is no longer a member of the Giants. Arrangements were completed today to send him to the Reds, as Matty is badly in need of an experienced shortstop.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
FORT SHAFTER, Aug. 18.—E Company, 2nd Infantry, made an advance up the ladder of fame by the game yesterday with A Company, the winning of which put it in the lead in the final series but with no very green laurel wreath for E Company, nor any credit to A Company.

For some games are interesting to watch on account of brilliancy of action—not this one! Some you enjoy on account of the crack of the bludgeon, and the merry waltzing around the bases—not this one! Some we pardon on account of infinite variety. That's why this game escapes the "mill." It was variegated; everything known to baseball science was served up for the spectators in a mess pan for almost two hours—sacrifice flies, double plays, squeeze plays, sacrifice flies, pitchers' assists, home runs, errors, brainstorms, fozzies, even to a fielder playing in the antediluvian fashion, like grandpa, with no glove, and getting away with a bare-handed catch and snatching a put-out.

Why Speck of Love
The pitchers were not half bad, only hit one man apiece. Fowler struck out 11 and Simmons 11, but Fowler would let the batters hit the apple on the eye, trusting to his fielders, but his confidence was misplaced. Then, somewhat discouraged, he would try a little fielding himself, and whenever his conscience told him to throw the ball he heaved it, but his sub-conscious self and the rules worked by opposites, so his friends in E Company always rested on a base, or tallied a run or two or three. Oh, well! What's a man good for if he can't help his friends.

The game was practically over in the first inning. E Company started in to bat around two or three times, Fowler presented three bases on balls and allowed three hits, and the resultant score of tallies when the dust cleared away was six runs, and again in the sixth inning three men scouted by the umpire to get a drink, and in the seventh and eighth two came in each inning to the fearful total of 15 runs, while on the contrary E Company only allowed the poor 1st Battalion representatives one little run.

In the first inning Proctor tried for a very difficult chance which came boiling hot to him. He smothered it, and sent it by mail to first, where it arrived before the sender, Gary, could engage board at the initial hotel. Black of A Company used some old-time "black" art and drove a special delivery to right pasture that rolled into the weeds and he was rewarded with a three-base prize.

Notta Bad Hitter
Csernotta of E Company bumped a merry one in the second ditch which paid for his admission to the first lap on the runway, and by the way, this military Tris Speaker cracked out of four beautiful, clean singles out of five chances at the bat, and he made them count, too, with some excellent base-running, into two runs. In the third inning occurred the most beautiful play of the game, when Doren made a scorching drive to right, for which Sutter made a stab with his pillow, from which the ball attempted to wiggle, but the guardian of the outfield mesmerized the ball and tamed it with his rare right hand, and the umpire named it "Out;" a beautiful play, illustrating ballistic gymnastics. This, with three pretty and unusual double plays, constituted the real worth whiles of the game.

The game tomorrow, however, between D and H companies will be some one, two, three, four, bang! and worth while seeing. Game called at 2 p. m.

SWIMMING FANS WILL MEET AT Y. M. C. A. POOL

Feature Events Expected to Bring Out Large Crowd Saturday Evening

The one thing of interest that looms up on the athletic horizon at present is the big indoor swimming meet at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening. According to Glenn Jackson, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., the seats are expected to be all sold by the time the first event is called, and perhaps before.

According to the swimming enthusiasts the crowd will be the largest ever in attendance at an indoor meet where admission is charged, and already more than 80 per cent of the reserved seats have been disposed of. The feature events which will attract attention are the try for a record in the 500-yard swim, the girls' races, the 100-yard novice events, the 80-yard championship, the intercollegiate, featuring Harvard, Yale and Cornell teams, the 200-yard open event, the bank relay and 200-yard relay in an attempt to break the world's record.

Among the swimmers who will enter are Duke Kahanamoku, George Cunha, Harold Kruger, Clarence Lane, John Kelli, William Kanakani, Tough Bill, Mitrie Konawloff and others. The girls' entries include Lucile Legros, who holds the amateur record; Bernicia Lane, who won in the last meet, and Elizabeth Fuller, who is expected to be one of the future stars of the swimmers here. Many believe that she will make a great showing on Saturday evening, and has been picked as a favorite by many. She is a sister of Bob Fuller, the diving champion of Hawaii.

In addition to these entries Helen Rosa and Carrie Lane will enter the events and these feminine natators are well known to local enthusiasts. Gerd Hirth, Miss Fuller and Miss Paava have been practising at the beach and expect to make a good showing.

JOCKEY WINS RACE IN RENO MEETING WHILE UNCONSCIOUS

RENO, Nev., Aug. 1.—Sammy McGraw, riding Frank Patterson in the first race of the day, finished and won on his mount, although unconscious all through the last eighth of a mile. After the horse had passed the wire, Ray Carter, who was on Emelda, the second horse, hastened to McGraw's aid, catching Frank Patterson by the bridle rein and steadying McGraw, who returned to the stand where he fell off.

Carter on Emelda says he expected to see McGraw fall from his mount all through the last part of the journey, and wonders that he remained in the saddle. Emelda, while at the barrier, struck McGraw between the shoulders. It is not known how seriously the little fellow has been hurt. He was around the city last night.

HOLD 737 RACES IN IRELAND.

In Ireland last year a total of 737 races were run on the various courses, a record number of events. The stakes amounted to more than $370,000.

Grand American Handicap Leads All Sport Events

Have You Ever Witnessed a Sporting Event in Which There Were 839 Active Participants?—There Were That Many Trap Shooters at Chicago Last Year—They Are Expecting More Than 1000 at St. Louis Aug. 21 at World's Series

Baseball has its "world's series," tennis its Davis cup competition and golf its international matches, but none of these titanic contests is to be compared with the blue ribbon event of the trapshooting season—the Grand American Handicap.

We are aware of the broadness of this assertion and fully realize that there will be many doubting Thomases, but we can prove our assertion to any and every one who cares to journey to Sportsman's park in St. Louis, Mo., during the week beginning Monday, August 21, for on that day the Grand American Handicap gets going and continues with unabated enthusiasm for five days. Any sporting event that will take hundreds of men away from their homes for the same period of time is a real sporting event. That is just what the Grand American Handicap is.

Last year the tournament was held in Grant park, Chicago, Ill., and was witnessed by some 25,000 persons—not one paying an admission fee. In the various trapshooting events nearly 2000 persons participated, and in the Grand American Handicap there were 839 shooters out of 844 entrants. Have you ever witnessed a sporting event in which there were 839 active participants? You have not—unless it was the Grand American Handicap last August. Trapshooting is not a proxy sport. It is something you can do yourself; something you enjoy because you can do it yourself.

Big as last year's tournament was, all indications are that the St. Louis tournament will be the greatest ever staged. While the official list of entries is still far from being complete, it is expected that the entry list will total more than 1000 trapshooters. Think of it—1000 shooters in one event! Sort of puts the other sport classics in the shade.

Growth of Sport.
It has taken the Grand American Handicap 16 years to arrive at its present stage of development. There were but 74 entrants in the first championship tournament, held in 1900. Little by little the tournament grew for a number of years, but in the past five seasons the handicap has made great leaps forward. Two years ago, in Dayton, O., when the handicap had a few more than 500 entrants, the feeling prevailed that trapshooting was at its height, but last year in Chicago the entrants neared the 900 mark—and everyone is pulling for a 1000 or more this time.

There was a time when two traps was a great sufficiency for the "G. A. H.," as it is known to trapshooters—now 10 are in use. There was a time when a Grand American Handicap resembled a mammoth circus, with all its tents, but there will be no tents in St. Louis.

The buildings are permanent. There will be locker rooms, restaurant, pavilion for men and a ladies' restroom. The equipment will be modern. There will be a grandstand behind the professional trap, on which all the special events will take place. Sportsman's park is the finest trapshooting park in the United States—which, in broader words, means the world.

The "G. A. H." is being conducted this year by the St. Louis Trapshooting Association.

CRITIC TAKES RAP AT BASEBALL BUG WHILE NAMING ALL-HAWAII

Sporting Editor, Star-Bulletin.
Sir: After reading the selection of a "Baseball Bug" (which shows that its writer, the so-called "Bug" is bugs—he speaks as if the Travelers played with the big leagues regularly, while they only play with teams of some of the smaller colleges—and as for their having reputations equal to Walter Johnson, Cobb, Slaughter, Matheson, Wagner, etc., it is a great joke as most of these players would be lucky to get into the minor leagues), I decided to submit my lineup for an "All-Hawaii" team:

Strange to say Argabrite has not been chosen by many fans, but to any expert on the game he is one of the best fielders that ever played in a Honolulu outfield, as well as being a sure hitter.

LOGAN IN THE BOX

Sporting Editor, Star-Bulletin.
Sir: Herewith find a list of players which I consider the all-star team of Hawaii net. Will you please have this published in tomorrow's paper? Kan Yen (Chinese), catcher; Rogan (25th Inf.), pitcher; Hawkins (25th Inf.), first base; Sadtler (Punahou), second base; Lai Tin (Travelers), third base; Ayau (Travelers), shortstop; Crafton (25th Inf.), left field; En Sue (Chinese), center field; L. Akana (Chinese), right field; Goliath (25th Inf.), Aniston (25th Inf.), Luck Yee (Chinese), substitutes.

AL CASTLE FOR MANAGER

Sporting Editor, Star-Bulletin.
Sir: This is my choice of an all-star team in its batting order: En Sue, c; Chillingworth, 2b; Lai Tin.

My choice for manager is Al Castle, with Kan Yen as field captain.
Yours respectfully,
N. K.

EASTERN TENNIS STARS TRIUMPH IN COURT MATCH

Atlantic Coast Players Take Six Out of Seven Matches From Pacific Stars

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The Eastern tennis stars completed their rout of the Western racquet experts today in the second half of the inter-sectional tournament, winning two of the three matches played and the tournament by a score of 6 matches to 1.

The lone victory of the California stars was that in which William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin, both of San Francisco, national doubles champions, defeated Frederick B. Alexander and Karl H. Behr of New York, 3 sets out of 4 by scores of 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Williams and Church Win
B. Norris Williams II of Philadelphia and George M. Church of Tenafly, N. J., evened the doubles score by defeating Willis E. Davis and Robert L. Murray of San Francisco in a sensational five-set match, 6-8, 6-2, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

Nathaniel W. Niles of Boston won the only singles match played today, defeating his youthful opponent, Roland Roberts of San Francisco, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3.

While all the matches were well played and closely contested, the final contest of the series, the doubles between Williams and Church and Davis and Murray, proved to be the best and most exciting exhibition of the series.

Two-Hour Double
No such doubles play has been seen on Eastern courts since the Davis cup matches in 1914. The rallies and rapid fire exchanges of the four players who lined up at the net and volleyed the ball too fast to be followed by the eye, kept the gallery of some 5000 spectators in an uproar for two hours.
