INTIMATE SKETCH OF MR. WILSON;
 PRESIDENT BREAKS PRECEDENTS

He's Regular in Habits, Likes Detective Stories, and Has to Live on a Diet

(By Associated Press)
 WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.—Oldest attaches of the White House regard President Wilson as the most methodical, systematic, time-saving chief executive within their memories. From the very first of his administration, the Mexican difficulties and the European war have added immeasurably to the duties of the president, but he has managed to maintain a strict schedule for his working hours; he never has been known through personal fault to be late with an engagement and has religiously conserved his time.

A White House caller, looked for a five-minute interview with many a president often got an hour. If one arranges a five-minute interview with Mr. Wilson, one gets exactly five minutes—no more—and the way is cleared for the next caller. Never Goes From Capitol Although, during his first administration, the president took no real vacation he managed to maintain a regular program of physical recreation necessary to conserve his health. He never has been out of touch with the nation's business. When at the summer White House at Cornish, N. H., or Long Branch, N. J., a staff of secretaries was close at hand. All during his first term the president was not away from the White House more than two weeks at a time on trips traveling about the country and he never has gone further west than Topeka, Kansas.

Friends of Mr. Wilson say he dislikes the idea of going into the country, but enjoys himself when he does go. Many word pictures of the president at work and at play have been written but those closest to him say that his every-day life is a natural one for a man who never has been wealthy and has grown up in an atmosphere of regularity and natural living. Mr. Wilson does many things personally that could easily be done for him by others. Frequently he walks from the executive offices to the White House to get a book or letter when he could more easily press a button and have someone bring it to him. His liking for directness of action explains why on more than one occasion he has walked to different government departments to see cabinet members instead of summoning them to the White House. He has never allowed precedent to interfere with the course he thought the most direct.

Believes in Daylight Saving
 The time the president's working day begins depends upon the season of the year. Ordinarily, in winter he gets up between 7 and 7:30 o'clock, but summer he usually arises earlier—sometimes at 5 or 5:30. He believes in daylight saving whenever possible. When he first came to the White House he attended to most of his official work in the morning, and played golf in the afternoon, but this winter, he reversed the program and played golf in the warm morning hours, and worked in the afternoon. He goes golfing either with Mrs. Wilson and Dr. Grayson soon after breakfast, and works on his mail from noon to 1 o'clock. In the afternoon he sees callers and signs official papers, except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when the cabinet meets. Ordinarily an hour on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons is set aside for the reception of members of congress. Likes Detective Stories After dinner, generally about 7 after each meal. It fortifies the throat and chest while it enriches the blood to help avoid grippe, bronchitis and even pneumonia. Scott's is well worth insisting upon.

o'clock, the president does no work unless it is absolutely necessary. He either reads, plays billiards, or goes to a theater. Detective stories, poems, and autobiographies are his favorite literature. It is more or less of an open secret that his preference is for thrilling old-time detective stories. Often he gathers his family about him and reads poems. Frequently he steals away to a gallery to view some paintings.

The president's insistence on promptness contrasts with the more or less care-free habits of some of his predecessors. When the cabinet meets, the president's advisers are frequently early, but are seldom late.

The president, now 60 years old, is very healthy, and his only weaknesses are of the stomach and eyes. Because of attacks of indigestion he is more or less on a diet most of the time, but is as regular in his meals as in all his other habits.

Society Has No Charms
 Society has no charms for Mr. Wilson and for society with a capital S he has a positive aversion. On more than one occasion his failure to hide his feelings has been noticeable. He avoids all social functions whenever possible.

As a breaker of precedents, Mr. Wilson set official Washington agape even before he came into office by announcing that he did not desire the usual inaugural ball. He followed that by declining membership in some so-called exclusive clubs which always had claimed the membership of presidents.

One of his first acts was to greatly decrease the number of army and navy officers assigned to the White House as aides, until less than a half dozen remained. Mr. Wilson abolished the motorcycle guard which used to surround the president's car when he went out on the streets, saying he wished to go about just as any other citizen.

Shatters Many Precedents
 When he began the custom of delivering his addresses to congress in person he revived a custom which had died with Washington and Adams. No president since Jefferson had addressed the congress personally and no other president since Madison had addressed the senate separately on foreign affairs as President Wilson did in his celebrated peace note. His fondness for directness of action has led to the shattering of many other precedents.

Often, when he wants to confer with a cabinet officer quickly he walks to his office. He goes to the bank in person to deposit his salary, and when he needs goods shopping like anyone else. If he wishes to confer with a senator, and the senator is spending a quiet evening at home, the president goes to the senator's house. Precedent always has decreed that the senator must come at the call of the president. Mr. Wilson uses the telephone very much on the theory that it shortens conversations and keeps the parties to the conversation to the subject intended. Never has the president relaxed any of the customs which make for respect and honor for the high office, but he has shattered many precedents in the interest of direct action.

JUGGLING ACT HIGHLY PRAISED

Fortified by the Littlejohns, dazzling jugglers, the program at the Bijou theater last night was undoubtedly one of the best offered for some time. Besides the star vaudeville team the program consisted of eight reels of V-S-E film, with Barney Barnard the magnet of the bill. The act of the Littlejohns was truly something different, and the paraphernalia, all studded with what glittered like diamonds, astonished and bewildered the audience. The Littlejohns are destined to become favorites during their stay of a week at the Bijou and lovers of agility will appreciate this act. In "Phantom Fortunes" Barney Barnard, well known as the creator of Ab in "Polish and Perlmutter," made his first appearance on the screen in Honolulu. The play is not unlike the one in which the clever Hebrew comedian became famous and is interesting as a tangle of New York business life with European war problems. Two reels of comedy film and the latest Animated Weekly completed the long program.

'WICKEDEST CITY' IS CLEANED UP
 QUICKLY UNDER MILITARY POWERS

Port Said is Made Almost Clean Compared With Its Former Immorality

(By Associated Press)
 PORT SAID, Egypt.—When the war broke out Port Said held the reputation, as indeed it had held from time immemorial, of being the wickedest city from a moral standpoint of any place on the face of the globe. Into this sort the bottom and jetsam of the underworld drifted from all parts of the universe, here every type of vice imaginable was represented. But today, after 20 months of military rule, the "Sinkhole of the East" is well nigh a model city, the iron hand of the army having cleaned it up as no other power could have done. Something of the transformation which has been wrought was told to a correspondent of the Associated Press who has been touring the East.

When the military first took hold of affairs in Port Said gambling, drinking and vice of all sorts was rampant. Letters which were intercepted by the censor showed that traffic in women was thriving.

Now most of this has been stopped, military law enabling the authorities to deal with situations over which the civil courts had no control. That street of international notoriety, Rue Babel, so named because of the many languages spoken by its inhabitants, has ceased to thrive as the leader of the world's iniquity. Many of its vice leaders have been sent away from the country; certain forms of vice which could not be eliminated have been restricted, and one can walk the streets without being beset by the denizens of the underworld. Even drinking has been limited and it is impossible now to procure intoxicating liquors except during the hours of 1 and 2 in the afternoon and 6 a. m. to 9 in the evening.

OPERA HOUSE MEMORIES

As twilight shadows gathered,
 Dispersing the opal tints;
 I walked abroad at eve tide
 Near home of king and prince.
 Came I to house deserted,
 Forlorn and dark inside;
 Cheerless and creepy it seemed,
 Fit place for bats to abide.
 My heart welled up in sadness,
 Never more its mimic play
 Or song or music charm me.
 Its bright lights were out for aye.
 I thought on the happy times,
 When beauty and youth and age
 Had welcomed, with much eclat,
 Some favorite of the stage.
 And as I turned with a sigh,
 There came from the darkening wing
 Soft notes and words of a song.
 One, I had heard Calve sing.
 I tip-toed along the aisle
 And peeped thru the open stage door
 Where the last faint beams of light
 Showed me but a cluttered floor.
 With bill-boards standing about,
 On which were pictures of those
 Who charmed with music and song
 —People whom everyone knows.
 On my right stood Maud Powell,
 Violinist of the land;
 And as I turned to leave them,
 I saw her raise her hand.
 And, with that charm of motion,
 She swayed her magic bow,
 And the strains of Humoresque
 Came thrillingly, sweet and low.
 And on the opposite side,
 Mixed with scenery and ropes,
 Stood smiling Peggy Center,
 "The girl that has raised our hopes."
 But she was somewhat bashful
 And only a smile she bore,
 Which quickly changed to horror
 As a rat rushed o'er the floor.
 Hearing the swish of satin,
 I turned just in time to see
 Melba, sweetest of singers,
 Step from a bill-board towards me.
 Her love for the Isles of Peace,
 She told in words sweet and coy;
 I could not help but applaud,
 Then she sang "Aloha Oe."
 Then, from a pile of scenery,
 A harsh voice startled me;
 "If I had more room I'd play,"
 Said Leo Cherniavsky.
 I pulled some rubbish away,
 Found Michel and Brother Jan;
 They made the old ratters ring
 As only those Russians can.
 As each went back to their boards,
 Mid the cobwebs, dirt and dust,
 They glanced at the wreck around
 With feelings of mute distrust.
 Reseaching, they held their hands,
 Implored me with this refrain:
 "Build us a new Opera House,
 "We all want to come again."
 —MERRILL.

WOMAN SICK
 TWO YEARS

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jos. O'BRYAN, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.
 The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

'WICKEDEST CITY' IS CLEANED UP
 QUICKLY UNDER MILITARY POWERS

The cleaning up has been largely in the hands of Lieut. Col. P. G. Elgood, acting under instructions from the commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Archibald Murray.

Flogging Effective Punishment
 Flogging is one of the most effective punishments used to meet the situation in Port Said, and it is no nursery chastisement that is meted out by the military authorities. What less vicious punishment would the average father, mother, brother or sister of the world's wickedest man, Col. Elgood.

As a result of the measures instituted crime has decreased 75 per cent and disease has dropped at least 40 per cent, according to the latest figures available. One of the most effective regulations put into force has been that relating to drink. By virtually eliminating drunkenness a great stride was made toward the suppression of crime and vice, much of which was the direct result of intoxication. There was a time early in the war when the authorities hesitated to let soldiers take their leave in Port Said as much trouble resulted. Now, however, hundreds of Tommies are about the city on holiday all the time and are giving the officials no cause for worry.

Darkness is Found Helpful
 One of the striking changes in the lighting of the city, which is now in total darkness at night. The restrictions on lighting were put into effect because of the submarine menace, but the lack of lights has greatly assisted in the suppression of vice as comparatively few people venture out into the darkened streets.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If Tongue is Coated Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping. When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, congested waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.
