FORT SHAFTER, June 23.—Major and Mrs. William B. Cochran entertained on Sunday for Lieut. and Mrs. Clarence H. Danielson at a most sociable informal noon dinner, and afterwards motored to the beach with their guests for a breath of salt air.

Miss Isabel Baker was the guest of Miss Dorothy Harker at her home on Thursday Street for Monday and Tuesday.

Capt. and Mrs. William E. Hunt, Master Richard Hunt and Master William Hunt enjoyed a most delightful day at Haleiwa on Sunday, returning to the post in the late afternoon.

The Card Club met on Tuesday evening with Capt. and Mrs. William E. Hunt, Mrs. Col. William R. Dashiell, Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell, Mrs. William E. Cochran, Mrs. Alden C. Knowles, and Mrs. Julia E. Lehman present. Mrs. William Hunt was hostess, and also won the prize. The crowd, though small, was very jolly, and a pleasant evening was spent.

Still the uncertainty reigns about who is to go and who is to stay, no answer having been received as yet from Washington in reply to the cable sent last week, so there is a spirit of unrest over the whole post. Everyone is wondering what is to happen.

Capt. and Mrs. Claire R. Bennett entertained very happily on Wednesday evening at a charming little informal dinner for Mrs. Samuel J. Heldner and Mrs. Helen MacAdams. White periwinkles were used as the table decoration with pleasing effect.

The friends of Capt. Charles A. Lewis are very pleased to learn of his continued improvement, after the severe illness he has experienced lately. Capt. Lewis is still at the hospital, but is now able to sit up.

Mrs. Frank A. Drake, of Fort Ruger, with Rodney and Frank Drake, Junior, were all day guests of Mrs. Samuel J. Heldner on Thursday.

Major and Mrs. Guy G. Palmer had a guests for dinner on Sunday, Major and Mrs. Lewis S. Sorley, of Schofield Barracks.

Col. and Mrs. James A. Irons have extended invitations for a large bridge party on Thursday the 28th, commencing Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William R. Dashiell and Mr. Richmond M. Pearson, who expect shortly to be ordered away from Fort Shafter.

Capt. Theodore A. Baldwin, Jr., has returned from the barracks on Friday of Hawaii grounds, and is once more at his quarters in the bachelor building.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert M. Lyon had a luncheon guest on Friday, Capt. Benjamin F. McClellan, who was in the post for the day from Koko Head.

Mrs. Charles A. Lewis was a dinner guest of Capt. and Mrs. Claire R. Bennett on Friday evening.

Lieut. William H. Jones was the guest for dinner on Monday at the home of Lieut. and Mrs. Carl A. Hargis.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert M. Lyon with Capt. and Mrs. John S. Sullivan motored to Schofield Barracks on Friday, where they were delightfully entertained by Capt. and Mrs. Charles L. Wyman.

Mrs. William R. Dashiell was hostess at a large bridge party and afternoon tea on Tuesday, at which Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell was the guest of honor. Card tables were arranged on the attractive lawn where the cool breezes, the stately palms, the graceful ferns and the many vases of brilliant yellow coreopsis contributed much to the pleasure of the ladies, who, clad in summer attire, were enjoying the game of auction. After some interesting games the party, which had been enlarged by those invited for tea, adjourned to the dining room, where Mrs. James H. McRae served iced tea, while the other dainty refreshments were served.

Rose-shaded lights and candles, and lovely pink roses were used as decorations in this room with charming effect. As a prize for the highest score at cards Mrs. Eugene H. Hartnett was awarded a dainty work basket made of sweet grass and lined with pale blue silk, while Mrs. Helen MacAdams drew the consolation—a beautiful picture in a gray frame. Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell was given an exquisite salad bowl of Japanese ware, as a guest prize. Mrs. Dashiell is always such a gracious hostess that this party, like all she gives, was a great success.

Those invited to meet with Mrs. Witsell were Mrs. James H. McRae, Mrs. Alden C. Knowles, Mrs. William B. Cochran, Mrs. Eugene H. Hartnett, Mrs. William R. Dashiell, Mrs. Charles A. Lewis, Mrs. Julia E. Lehman, Mrs. Frank C. Bolles, Mrs. Samuel J. Heldner, Mrs. Helen MacAdams, Mrs. John S. Sullivan, Mrs. Ralph C. Holliday, Mrs. Carl A. Hargis, Mrs. Alfred L. Rockwood, Mrs. Charles A. Lincoln, Mrs. Jack Hayes, Mrs. James A. Irons, Mrs. Claire R. Bennett, Mrs. Stephen H. MacGregor, Mrs. Robert M. Lyon, Mrs. H. D. Niles, Mrs. Edwin S. Hartshorn, Mrs. Guy G. Palmer, Mrs. Chas. L. McKain, and Mrs. George M. Haloran.

Major and Mrs. William B. Cochran had a table of bridge on Monday night for Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell and Dr. H. M. Dieber.

Lieut. and Mrs. Alfred L. Rockwood had a luncheon guest on Wednesday Capt. and Mrs. Walter S. Greenan, and little Miss Katherine Greenan, of Schofield Barracks.

Lieut. and Mrs. Samuel J. Heldner had Mrs. Charles A. Lewis for a dinner guest on Tuesday, and later the party attended the concert and dance at the Moana Hotel.

Lieut. Robert A. Sharrar was an informal dinner guest of Major and Mrs. Guy G. Palmer on Wednesday evening.

Capt. and Mrs. Daniel F. Skelly are expected in the post about the first of July. Capt. Skelly having been appointed Post Quartermaster.

Mrs. Guy G. Palmer has issued invitations for a bridge afternoon on Tuesday.

A happy day was spent Sunday when Capt. and Mrs. Benjamin F. McClellan had a picnic at Koko Head for Capt. and Mrs. Robert M. Lyon and Bobbie Lyon, Miss Rose McClellan and Master Benjamin McClellan.

Miss Alice Palmer, the second daughter of Major and Mrs. Guy G. Palmer, was one of the performers at the concert given by Mr. Frank Moss at his studio on Saturday, acquitting herself with much proficiency and ease.

Miss Isabel Baker was the overnight guest of Miss Margaret Grey at P. A. Harbor on Wednesday, returning to her home at Fort Shafter Thursday afternoon.

Lieut. and Mrs. Clarence H. Danielson were the luncheon guests of Lieut. and Mrs. Frederick A. Barker on Wednesday.

Capt. and Mrs. Claire R. Bennett, Mrs. Helen MacAdams, and Lieut. and Mrs. Samuel J. Heldner expect to make a trip around the island in Lieut. Heldner's car on Sunday. The trip is being looked forward to with much enjoyment.

Another trip around the island is one at which Capt. and Mrs. William E. Hunt will be host and hostess, with Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell as their guest. Masters Richard and William Hunt will also accompany the party, and a picnic lunch will be served on one of the beautiful beaches en route.

Capt. and Mrs. Charles A. Lewis are planning a large bridge dinner for Monday evening, July 2nd.

Capt. and Mrs. F. W. Griffin, of Fort Kaneohe, were visitors in the post on Sunday.

On Sunday evening Lieut. and Mrs. Samuel J. Heldner and Miss Helen MacAdams were the supper guests of Lieut. and Mrs. Frank Drake at Fort Ruger.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William R. Dashiell entertained at noon dinner on Sunday for Capt. James C. Ballard and Mrs. John S. Sullivan. Rose geraniums in an attractive brass bowl formed the centerpiece of the table around which this party was gathered.

Miss Dorothy Harker was hostess at an afternoon tea on Wednesday at which Miss Dorothy Palmer and Miss Isabel Baker were the guests from Fort Shafter.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert M. Lyon entertained on Friday evening with a dinner in their home at the cantonment. Seated around the table, which was adorned with pale pink asters, were Capt. and Mrs. Claire R. Bennett, Mrs. Charles A. Lewis, Capt. Frank C. Bolles, Lieut. William H. Jones and Capt. and Mrs. Lyon.

Miss Dorothy Palmer was one of the dancers at the benefit performance for the War Allied Relief Committee on Friday evening at the Bijou Theater, thereby giving her friends the pleasure of witnessing her graceful interpretation of the theme given her to portray, Miss Palmer's dancing on this occasion added laurels to the ones she had already won, she having been chosen for the only solo dance at the closing of the college she attended in California.

Quite a large picnic party expects to enjoy the day on Sunday at one of the beaches on the other side of the island. Those who are invited to participate in this frolic are Dr. and Mrs. Walter Reesman, Lieut. and Mrs. Carl A. Hargis, Lieut. and Mrs. Alfred L. Rockwood, Miss Isabel Baker, Miss Ruth McChesney, Miss Daphne Dow, Miss Martha McChesney, Miss Marie Ballentyne, Miss Dorothy Harker, Mrs. Vera Henshaw, Miss Dorothy Palmer, Miss Marjorie Cayla, Miss Bernice Halstead, Lieut. and Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Lieut. Frederick S. Snyder, Lieut. William H. Britton, Mr. Watson Ballentyne, Lieut. Robert A. Sharrar, Lieut. Robert H. Geyer, Lieut. Edward F. Witsell, Dr. Harry M. Dieber, Lieut. William E. R. Covell, and Lieut. William H. Jones, Mr. William Bibee, and Lieut. and Mrs. Frederick A. Barker. A picnic lunch will be served.

"On Monday, Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell was hostess at one of the most delightful beach picnics given at the Outrigger Club. The guests arrived about noon and enjoyed an hour before luncheon seated under the spreading branches of the old hau tree on the lovely lawn. Knitting and exchange of opinions on the topics of the day were enjoyed, until the hostess furnished cards on which were written conundrums concerning table appointments. After much thinking and discussion the answers were written, and the cards were collected. Mrs. Frederick S. Strong and Mrs. Witsell acted as judges, but as none of the answers were sufficiently clear, it was finally decided to give each one a chance for the prizes, so lots were cast, and Mrs. Charles A. Lewis and Mrs. Alden C. Knowles were the fortunate winners of the draw. Each received a lovely bag made of creosote in the shape of an old-fashioned garden basket, the hostess having designed and made them herself. A delicious luncheon was then served, a large cake being brought on at dessert which gave away the secret that the occasion was a birthday celebration. One long candle with a number of little flags pinned to it graced the center of the cake, and the guests were all invited to guess the number of flags, the result being that Mrs. William E. Hunt was the lucky guesser, for which she received a handsome calling bag with iron sides. When the cake was cut, more surprises followed, Mrs. Guy G. Palmer finding a penny in her slice assuring her of good luck; Mrs. Chas. A. Lincoln got the piece of silver denoting wealth, and Mrs. William B. Cochran found a little gold pin in the shape of a cross-gun, a souvenir of the 2nd Infantry, of which nearly all the party were members. Those who were hidden to this original party were
