MISS WILHELMINA TENNEY AND MR. VERNON TENNEY HONOR THE MISSES CARTER

The pretty Country Club was never more beautiful than it was last evening when Miss Wilhelmina Tenney and Mr. Vernon Tenney entertained in honor of Miss Elizabeth Carter and Miss Phoebe Carter with a rain-coat party. The music room where Duke Miller's quintet furnished the dance music was a bower of beautiful palms and ferns from the E. D. Tenneys' greenhouses. It was enclosed with ferns and tall plants, a white colonial trellis with a starry jasmine vine trailing itself artistically over the white woodwork, while silver threads of lilies showed like rain. Posts were draped in blue bunting and many opened Japanese umbrellas to keep the rain off was an added attraction. On the umbrellas were the same quaint figures that matched the costumes. In the center was an auto with non-skid tires, a protection against slippery roads and floors. It was unique and brought the praise deserved to Mr. Ernest Parker and the host and hostess for the carrying out of their clever idea. Where the fruit punch was served a huge umbrella stood as a protection against the elements. The costumes were especially attractive, both men and women being garbed alike in wide pantaloons with a Chinese coat wired so as to make it stand out, the sleeves and collars also being wired.

The costumes were designed and made at Lanika and it was a charming and unique party. This delightful assembly of folks on fun and pleasure bent were garbed in every conceivable color and in contrasting colors were animals of every clime and country from mice to elephants and from the moon and stars to more ordinary things. The costume receiving greatest prize was that worn by Mrs. Gustav Schaefer. It was black and red and had white new moons dotted on it. With it was worn a smart chapeau, the white effect being charming. When going-home time came no one was willing to leave, such a good time was being had. It was, as are all affairs given by the Tenneys, perfect in every detail. Honolulu will indeed be glad when this popular host and hostess are home for good.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tenney greeted their daughter and son's guests, making them welcome.

The following friends were present: Miss Elizabeth Carter and Miss Phoebe Carter, the honor guests; Miss Hilda von Holt, Miss Mary von Holt, Miss Kathryn Jones, Miss Margaret Jones, Miss Helen Jones, Miss Marjorie Camp, Miss Eame Damon, Miss Heather Damon, Miss Jessie Kennedy, Miss Babe Pocke, Miss Martha McChesney, Miss Ruth McChesney, Miss Thelma K. THIRTY ARE GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

To see and be seen in a gala mood makes a festive occasion of any affair, and inasmuch as formal parties are not part of the late summer scheme of things, the fashionable hostesses gratify this desire most pleasingly.

Yesterday at the Palace Hotel there were many parties, in fact society made it quite an occasion to be there for luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Jean St. Cyr of New York had the largest party, having about thirty of their friends seated at a table laden with brilliant-hued flowers, dahlias, seashells, ferns, and so on. About them were ever so many smaller parties of their acquaintances and friends of their guests, so that it was decidedly a society assembly.

At the St. Cyr table the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Theriot, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Williamson, Mrs. George H. Howard Sr., Mrs. Henry Clarence Breen, Mrs. R. P. Schwerin, Mrs. Robert Hayes Smith, Mrs. Reed of Paris, Misses Emmeline Childs, Arabella Schwerin, Messrs. M. H. de Young, Edmunds, Lyman, Elliott, Louis Bruguere and several others.

Mrs. St. Cyr, who is Spanish in coloring and type, invariably wears black, with a wide-brimmed hat draped in a black lace veil—in fact, she wears Spanish lace a great deal, and always her famous pearls. New modes are hardly in at the late summer season, but among the fashionables to be seen in such numbers yesterday, invariably the women wore one-piece frocks, of dark satin or navy chiffon, beige-colored and brown dresses.—San Francisco Chronicle, Aug. 7.

At this luncheon were a number of folk well known to the society set of Honolulu, almost all of them considered among the best dressed of San Francisco's smart set.

DAUGHTER OF FORMER HONOLULU IS WED

Recently at Nutley, New Jersey, the family home, Helen Louise Pratt, daughter of Lewellyn E. Pratt, became the bride of Rudolph G. Schaaf. The young lady is the granddaughter of Rev. Amasa Pratt, a former president of Punahou. Her father, born on Maui, is one of the big men in the advertising world and has held important offices in the International Association of Advertising Clubs.

MRS. SAMUEL WALKER'S LUNCHEON

Mrs. Samuel Walker entertained at luncheon very informally on Thursday. Her guests were Mrs. James Dougherty, Mrs. Frank K. Keefer and Mrs. William T. Rawlins.

MISS DAGMA MADSEN A CARD HOSTESS

This evening Miss Dagma Madsen is entertaining with a 500 party at her Green street home for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. John Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Littlejohn, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Lightfoot, Miss Pearl Littlejohn, Miss Dorothy Podmore, Miss Margaret McCarthy, Miss Lani Hutchison, Miss Violet Lucas, Miss Adele Wicke, Miss Matilda Madsen, Mr. U. Shields, Mr. Campbell Crozier, Mr. Oswald Stevens, Mr. Robert McElowney, Mr. Charles Simpson, Mr. Allan Podmore, Mr. Roy Topin, Mr. Addington Wise and Mr. Jones.

A RED CROSS BRIDGE BENEFIT Mrs. N. E. Morgan and her daughter, Mrs. Boyd Fenton, of Sydney, are arranging a charity benefit in aid of the American Red Cross to take place at the Pleasanton hotel next Saturday evening. A dinner-dance with the Hawaiian band in attendance will start the evening, after which a musical program will be rendered. Two of Honolulu's cleverest men are to be asked to auction off articles donated and a merry time is assured. One of the things to be sold will be a handsome opal necklace, donated by Mrs. Morgan.

MISS LOTTIE JORDAN HONORED

Miss Lottie Jordan of Kaula was the guest of honor at a small and informal bridge given by Mrs. Z. K. Myers, on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Louis Underwood scored highest and was given a gift. Mrs. George Angus was given the consolation gift, while a Red Cross box was given the honor guest. Mrs. Myers' guests were Mrs. M. E. Grossman, Mrs. John J. Belsler, Mrs. George Angus, Mrs. Julius Unger, Mrs. L. Underwood, Mrs. Sumner S. Paxson, Mrs. William T. Monarrat, Mrs. Sophie Overend, and the guest of honor, Miss Lottie Jordan.

A PICNIC AT KAHALA

John T. Warren with Iolani Ingalls, Frances Ferris, Frances Hurd, Doris Chandler, Irma Linnemann, Katherine Warren and Marian Warren are enjoying a picnic at Kahala today. Bathing is a very happy diversion and greatly enjoyed by the kiddies.

THE CONCERT THIS EVENING

The concert this evening by Paul Yegolevitch at Mission Memorial Hall gives promise of being a musical treat, as this young Russian comes highly recommended and will present a program of delight to music lovers.

MRS. L. BLACKMAN A LUNCHEON HOSTESS

Mrs. L. Blackman was a luncheon hostess at Lanika on Monday, entertaining six guests. A social hour after luncheon was enjoyed.

MRS. H. R. BRYANT GIVES A SWIM FOR HER DAUGHTERS AND SON

Mrs. H. R. Bryant of Kohala is entertaining this evening at the Seaside hotel with a swim and supper in honor of her four children, who leave next week for Victoria, B. C., to be placed in school. Those enjoying Mrs. Bryant's hospitality will be Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Baird, Mrs. Herbert Mist, Jack McKenzie, Ainsley McKenzie, Wentworth Mist, Hilda Bryant, Geraldine Bryant, Marguerite Bryant and Henry Bryant.

MAJ. AND MRS. C. W. CASE DEERING'S INFORMAL PARTY

This afternoon Maj. and Mrs. C. W. Case Deering are entertaining with a box party at the polo game and afterward at an informal swim and supper. Their guests will be: Maj. and Mrs. Jack Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Weller, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. King and Mr. Guy Buttolph.

MRS. JOHNSON'S AFTERNOON TEA

Mrs. John Johnson of Manoa Valley was hostess yesterday afternoon at a small and informal tea. Sewing and social chat made for a pleasant afternoon. About a dozen guests were in attendance.

Major and Mrs. William A. Purdy have gone to New York for a stay of two months. Little Acca and Amelia, their twin daughters, are here, it being too warm for the little folk in the East just now.
