25th INFANTRY WALLOPS NINTH FIELD ARTILLERY AT MOILIILI

Wrecking Crew Appears Against Another Schofield Team to Win By Overwhelming Score of 12 to 1—Fleetwood Starts Rally for Losers in Ninth Frame When Run Was Scored Wreckers 12, 9th Field Artillery 1.

Rallying in the last of the ninth when Fleetwood, batting for Duddleson, knocked the ball in a clean drive over second for the third hit for the team. Likins followed with another hit, the fourth, and Mulhern brought the first batter in on a sacrifice fly, the 9th Field Artillery saved itself from an absolute outclassification in the second game at Moiliili park yesterday afternoon.

With "Chief" Waterhouse pitching wonderful ball, the 25th Infantry Wreckers had an easy time with the other team from Schofield. Too easy for the fans, for they began to stream out of the grandstand as early as the sixth inning and had nearly all left when the 9th Artillery came back with its one redeeming run.

Moore opened the game for the losers by twirling the kind of ball off of which the Wreckers were able to score six runs. Likins did not do much better in the last five innings when he was in the place that Moore formerly occupied, for he allowed 10 hits and 6 more runs.

Rogan Hits Some

The Wreckers were batting strong yesterday and gathered a total of 17 hits. Rogan made no less than a home run, two three-base hits and one one-base hit. His hitting was all done when it counted for a lot, and each time he scored himself.

The home run followed a single by Smith in the seventh inning. It was a long drive over the left field fence and brought both the man on base and the batter across the platter.

Throughout the contest the Wreckers completely outplayed and out-classed their opponents from Schofield. The latter, while not up in the air, did not have the situation in hand very much of the time.

The final score of 12 to 1 truly measures the relative ability of the two teams with the possibility that the Wreckers are even stronger, for they were playing easy ball during a good part of the game.

JAPANESE TAKE BRIEF SIESTA AT ATHLETIC PARK

Before a grand stand that was occupied by a row of Japanese fans, who appeared to be out for their Sunday afternoon siesta, for one of them had not taken the trouble to put on his shoes, a few dead heads in the boxes and a spattering of about fifty fans in the bleachers, the Fort Ruger giants won from Co. C, 2nd Infantry, in the first and only game played at Athletic park yesterday afternoon. The score was 6 to 4.

The scheduled game between the Submarines and the Marines, both of whom were supposed to come up from Pearl Harbor, was not played and no one around had any reason to give for the failure of the two teams to appear. "They just didn't come!" exclaimed one soldier fan, and others quite agreed that this was probably the only reason there was.

Game Not Bad

In spite of the small attendance, the game played between the two soldier teams was not bad. Fort Ruger netted nine hits and Company C four. However, the latter team made a total of 11 errors. These coupled with the hits of the Ruger giants sealed their fate.

FOOD FOR FANS

Are the fans going to support Athletic park?

Does Athletic park deserve the support of the fans?

For two weeks now nothing more than a spattering of baseball enthusiasts have attended the games at this end of the town. Gate receipts were not enough to pay for the upkeep of the park alone.

The one game played at that park yesterday afternoon was worth viewing, but what about the first game? Does the management of the park expect to draw a crowd when a game is scheduled for 1:30 o'clock and none is played until about 3?

The fans say that they will attend when they are given good games. The management of the park say that they will insure the fans of good games when they attend.

What's the matter with the thing anyway? Why not settle it once and for all?

FILIPINOS WIN ONLY GAME IN PACIFIC SERIES

Chinese--Braves Contest is Postponed; Healanis Gives Game to McKinley

The Filipinos won the only game played in the Pacific league series over the week-end by defeating the Hawaii by the score of 3 to 2 on Saturday afternoon at Moiliili. Although they are still in third place, their victory over the leading team makes them appear possible winners of the series.

Neither the Braves nor the Chinese appeared for the first scheduled game at Moiliili park on Saturday afternoon so it was postponed to some time in the future. The Healanis did not show up for the first game on Sunday. It was forfeited to the McKinley team.

Enough men were handy yesterday afternoon to make a full team to play against the McKinleys who were present in force, and this picked team played and defeated the latter in a fairly good game.

The final score was 4 to 0 for the seven innings which were played. The game was called off to allow the 25th Infantry-9th Artillery contest an early start.

EASTERN FOOTBALL SCHEDULES SUFFER FROM EFFECTS OF WAR

Many Traditional Games, Including Yale-Harvard and Army-Navy Contests are Given Up Following the Enlistment of Stars in the Service of the Government

ALTHOUGH football will be played in most of the colleges in the country this fall many of the traditional games of the East, among them being the Yale-Harvard and the Army-Navy games, have been completely given up, and the prospects for inter-college series are very poor.

The only big game of the season is scheduled to be played Thanksgiving Day at Philadelphia, when Pennsylvania and Cornell battle for supremacy. The Penn-Cornell games date back for more than 20 years, and the rivals would not give up the big event because of the war is the one bright spot on the dull horizon of fall sports.

The Yale-Harvard game has been cancelled, as have the Yale-Princeton and Princeton-Dartmouth events. The stellar attraction of the football season, next to the Yale-Harvard game, has always been the Army-Navy struggle. This event has of course been wiped off the slate, as the majority of the big stars have been called to active military service. The freshman teams of the two government academies, however, will stage a series of informal games. The "plebe" classes at both schools have been doubled, and it is expected that much good timber will be found in them. Olyphant, the West Point star, is still at the military academy.

Among the big college games to be staged this fall are the Dartmouth-Penn game at Boston, the Colgate-Brown game, and the Syracuse-Pittsburg game.

When the call to arms was flashed across the country, the football men were the first to respond, and in some of the colleges, the entire gridiron squads were depleted. Since the beginning of war, whole platoons of athletes enlisted in the army and navy, and the ambulance corps is still Neither Cornell nor Brown have any idea as to who will report when the call is made. Colgate has been hit harder than any of the other colleges, for besides losing her coach, Ellegor Huntington, she has lost every single man of her 1916 varsity.

Two colleges have cancelled their ruling that freshmen cannot play varsity football. These colleges are Dartmouth and Syracuse, whose teams have been almost depleted by the call to service. First year men at both these institutions will be allowed to play on the first team.

Columbia, New York University, Rutgers, Stevens and Fordham will place men on the field. Columbia and New York University have both lost their 1916 varsities. Williams and Amhurst have both lost heavily, and unless the new students can show exceptional ability, the traditional Williams-Amhurst game will not be staged.

The only Eastern colleges who are really going ahead to any extent for the coming season are Wesleyan, Trinity, Tufts and all the Maine colleges.

Doings on the Sports Circuit

Frank Kalua, manager of the Hawaii, received a communication from Hilo not long ago in which the writer stated that the members of the Hilo Tribune staff were so sure of a victory for the home crew that they had the news of the victory in type some hours before and were merely awaiting the final word.

If the Filipinos continue to play as they have for the past two weeks, they may win the Pacific league series.

There are exciting games going on at the Makiki field every Sunday between the Pacifics and whatever other team they can find. About Friday of every week the Pacifics issue a challenge to some team through the Star-Bulletin and it seldom fails that they get a game.

As soon as the present series of the Pacific league is over, the management may mark off a gridiron at Moiliili park and open it to professional teams.

COLLEGE TEAM HAS WEEK OF HARD TRAINING

Coaches Wentzel and Crawford Preparing Largest Squad in History for Games

The College of Hawaii football team spent the last week in intensive training. Coaches Wentzel and Crawford are giving their attention to exercises that will toughen up the relatively light line for speedy and aggressive playing.

In laying down plans for the opening game with Punahou, the greatest factor to be considered is the difference in the weights of the two teams. The backfield of the college is being decided on, and it, of course, is light compared with Punahou's backfield. The college line, judging from present material, will be very light, and under these circumstances the only course open to the coaches is a system of speedy and tireless attack. This will be possible with Brash's perfect passing, and with the great number of candidates for end positions.

Not only are both of last year's ends, Marituchi and Ai, still on the team, but there are three more fast men in Hayselden, Kong and Iwanaga. Cowan and Wung were last year's guards, but due to the enforced change of tactics it may prove advisable to switch them about. Jones, King, Kamahale, Lee, and Bryan are also out for line positions, but it is impossible to forecast any line at this early date, partly because of the appearance of new
