HOW ONE BOY SCOUT WON A WAR EMBLEM

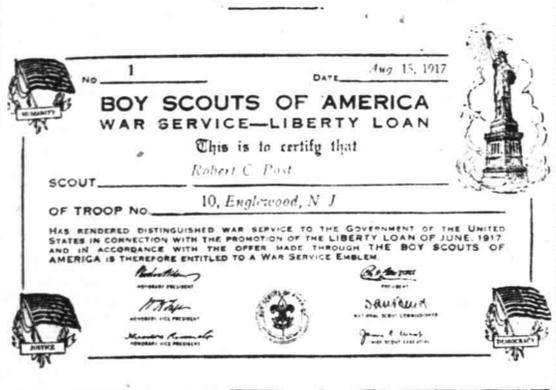

Austin Lamont, of Englewood, N. J., a son of Thomas W. Lamont, is among the 7740 Boy Scouts of America who won the War Emblem by selling ten or more Liberty Loan bonds in the last campaign. He tells how he did it thus:

When the Liberty Loan came up our Scoutmaster called a special meeting. He read the President's Message and told us all about the bonds. There were some pamphlets distributed and then he said that anyone getting 10 or more subscriptions got a medal. The next day we put on our uniforms and went from house to house. There were about 15,000 people in the town, so it was quite a job. I first tried our mads, but they wouldn't listen, but I kept on talking and they began to listen. Then they said they didn't have any money, that the rich were going to do it all, and why should they take their money out of the bank. I told them they could take one on the instalment plan, paying only a little every month. Then I said that the rich were subscribing all they could, but the others had to do a share. Then they said they got 3 per cent. interest at the bank and that if they wanted some money they could just draw it out of the bank whenever they wanted to. I replied that you get more interest in Liberty Bonds than in your bank, and that there would always be a market for the bonds, and that people would be glad to get them. The cook got one, but the others didn't. They said they didn't have the money. Father offered to lend them some and they could pay him back when they wanted to, but still held back. I told them that if the loan didn't go through, the Germans would think that we weren't in earnest and they would fight harder, and that the war would be longer and most likely their brothers and husbands would be killed. The taxes would be higher and take most of their money, while the income from Liberty Bonds wouldn't be taxed; also in the hard times coming their banks might bust, but to lose their money in Liberty Bonds the United States would have to bust. One of them said the percentage wasn't high enough. I answered that when they got out more Liberty Bonds they would have a higher percentage, and that you could exchange a 3 1/2 per cent. bond for a higher one when they came out. They finally all took some. Then I went to other houses, some with success and others I couldn't get. Every house and every store was visited by the Boy Scouts, and most of them subscribed. I used about the same arguments all the time, and got 17 subscriptions amounting to about $3000. I was far from the top of the list of our troop, for one boy got 48 subscriptions. There were only 2 boys who got less than 10 in our whole troop. The best way to do it is to be persistent and pick your arguments carefully and don't miss a house. If there is one you can't get to subscribe, tell your Patrol Leader. May be he can get them to subscribe. If you wear your uniform and tell them you are not trying to get any money out of it, just doing it for the Government, they'll feel more kindly to you because they're sort of cross at having a boy come in asking for money.

METAL BADGE ON FRONT OF HAT
With this end in view and in order that the Boy Scouts of America may be readily discovered and recognized at any time in case they are needed for service, it has been decided, for the period of the war, at least, to require all scouts to wear their badge of rank at all times, either on the coat or shirt, or better still, wear a metal badge of rank on the front of the hat, as has been the practice among the English scouts since the date of their organization.

The tenderfoot pin and the new size second and first-class pins not only make a very effective ornament but immediately classify the wearers as members of the Boy Scouts of America. It is believed that in addition to identifying scouts it will stimulate increased activity in scouts to qualify for second and first-class degrees, especially among the boys who have been in the movement for some time. During the period of the war all scouts and scout officials should wear the official uniform with this designation.

SCOUT MASTERS HOLD MEETING.
The meeting by the scout masters of the Hawaiian area last evening settled final instructions for the Liberty bond campaign which starts Saturday, October 13. The carrying on of this campaign is the biggest patriotic act that the Boy Scouts of Hawaii have performed since the scout movement came to these islands.

The Liberty bond campaign is starting two weeks before time, as the printed matter, which was due to arrive from Washington would get here too late to use for the time the campaign would last which is to the end of the month of October.

No money will be handled by the scouts but their part will be to get as many pledges from the public, promising to buy a bond before the end of the month.

On Saturday morning the scouts will fall in at 8 o'clock at the armory which will serve as their headquarters for the day. From there they will parade through the city and then will scatter to accumulate as many pledges as possible. At 12 o'clock noon they will meet at the armory and partake of a good square meal which they will appreciate after the morning's work.

The boys will then scatter again and work from the armory to Punahou school and will fall in ranks outside of the football field and then will march in and see the game. A parade will take place between the halves of the game.

All troops that meet on Friday evening must induce all their boys to be present as members of the Liberty bond committee will go around instructing them in the work.

Plans for Next Joint Meeting
The next joint meeting which will take place on the evening of October 13, is left to the arrangements of the scout masters of troops IV, V and VI. The program will be known at a later date.

TROOPS IX AND X
Most of the members of Troops IX and X were disappointed when they were informed that they did not have to wear their uniforms to the Bijou theater. The scouts decided not to attend the theater, but they held a meeting on the lanai of the Liliuokalani school. One of the things discussed was the organization of the a short business meeting the boys were dismissed.

There was an election of officers, the following scouts being chosen: Dudley Pratt and Alatau Wilder, patrol leaders; Wilson Jacobson and Herbert Foster, assistant patrol leaders. The patrols were also rearranged.

Alex Cornellson was sworn in as a tenderfoot and assigned to UIH patrol. Scout Master Potter urged the scouts to practise knot-tying in order to be prepared for the contest. A team will be chosen at the next meeting.

The next meeting will be held Friday night, October 12.

BACK THE BOYS!

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.
