

RUSS TO GET GOVERNMENT LIKE SWISS

Slav Consul at San Francisco Returning From Petrograd Says Republic Will Stand; Most Urgent Need Now is Stable Administration; Korniloff Still a Prisoner

Russia is to have a federal republic somewhat similar to that of the Swiss republic, thinks A. M. Wygodzoff, Russian consul in San Francisco for the past two years, but who since June has been on sick leave to Russia. He is in Honolulu today en route to the coast.

"Whatever comes in Russia the new government will be sustained," he says. "At the constitutional conference to be held next month I believe a federal republic will be formed. The form of government organized will consist of an executive council with representatives from all the Russian provinces. The executive council will have both executive and legislative powers. It will be very similar to the Swiss form of government. This, of course, is the expression of a personal opinion and not an official one."

He adds that as there is a movement in Russia to give all the different nationalities self-government it may lead to the formation of separate state governments, but all united in representation in the national council. The form of government as outlined by him is the one which he thinks the Socialists—meaning the Kerensky followers—will follow.

The San Francisco consul discusses conditions in Russia with more frankness than most Russian officials. He does not hide his belief that the formation of a stable government is just now of more urgent need to Russia than is the defeat of the Germans. And it is apparent he believes a strong government must come before much can be expected of the Russians in the war against Germany.

Some of his views are nearly American in coloring. "There was no fear in Petrograd that the Russian capital was to be taken after the abandonment of Riga. There are plenty of soldiers to defend Petrograd," he says with confidence. Then adds the oft repeated intimation that the Russian army might have been expected to fight with some of its former effectiveness if Petrograd had been menaced by the Huns.

Two reasons are given by him why the Germans will not and do not want to take Petrograd. One of these is a memory of Napoleon's retreat and a desire not to excite Russian anger and cause national animosity among the Russians against a common foe. Like others, he seems to think Germany hopes to gain more by diplomacy in Russia than by guns.

"The abandonment of Riga was a question of debate for a year before it was allowed to fall into the hands of Germany. It would have been given up before if it was not for its moral effect, both on the Russians and Germans," he lets a listener infer. "Strict supervision of all visits of foreigners to Russia is maintained and will be for several months. Both at Yokohama and Harbin all passports are carefully viced again, to keep political foes of the revolutionary government, German spies and useless travelers from gaining entry to Russia. Only those having legitimate business reasons for going to Russia are permitted to do so," he says.

Korniloff is still a prisoner in Petrograd, says Consul Wygodzoff. He speaks of him with an air of respect over a misplaced movement, rather than in condemnation. "It is a question whether Korniloff will be tried as a traitor to the revolutionary government, or upon some lesser charge. It is true he made an armed advance on the Russian capital, but he did so after warning the government of his intention. Whether his actions constitute those of a traitor has not been decided," he declares.

Upon one point the Russian consul speaks with extreme confidence when he says: "No one wants a monarchic form of government. There is no danger that the Romanoff family will ever regain their power. The revolutionary government will stand."

SHIPPING PLOT UNEARTHED HERE

was he who informed a federal agent. International courtesy made it impossible to take the officer from a neutral mah of warman for investigation, and, in fact, any move with the color of arrest of a foreign sailor was hazardous for fear of causing a dispute between the Dutch and American governments.

Then a cunning subterfuge was evolved. Under the pretext that the petty officer had a package addressed to him at the postoffice which might contain dutiable goods, he was induced to accompany a federal agent to the postoffice. Before leaving the Zeeland superior officers of the man insisted that he be accompanied by one of their own interpreters. This caused more complications, as the interpreter was a Dutch commissioned officer, who, necessarily, demanded should not learn of the federal agent's intention to question the sailor or about his remarks.

A happy medium was stumbled upon to distract the commissioned officer's attention—the proffer of a drink by an American informed of what was in trend. With the commissioned officer disposed of, for the time being, the sailor was taken to an office of the federal inspectors, where with some cunning questioning, and assurance that he would not be detained, a full confession of Schirman's plotting was divulged. A friendly looking Hollander was used as interpreter.

Later the Dutch petty officer was given his liberty, with a clean conscience. It was his unexpressed grief, while under the influence of many beers, which had caused him to sob out that he might be the cause of the death of many innocent people. At this time he had said: "I have something on my mind," and then gave an intimation of what it was.

TRY TO GET 3000 SUBSCRIBERS TO SECOND BIG LOAN

479 Mark Reached at Noon Today; Total Subscriptions to Date Are $575,300

To make a record of 3000 subscribers to the second Liberty Loan in the Hawaiian Islands is the aim of the executive committee in charge of the territorial campaign, and with but two weeks more to reach that number the men behind the movement were considerably heartened to learn at noon today that the total to date is 479 subscribers. The figures as given out by A. F. Judd of the sales committee showed that the total number of local subscriptions was $575,300.

The out-of-town campaign will begin next week with meetings of the employees at the Aiea, Waipahu and Ewa plantations, where speakers from Honolulu, and the respective managers, J. Gibb, E. K. Bull and George Renton will address the men.

Clarence H. Cooke of the pledges committee announced at a meeting of the executive committee this morning that the pledges would be distributed on Monday by Boy Scouts. E. J. Botts reported that the literature and the deferred payment plan for employees had been sent to the plantations.

J. L. Cockburn of the sales committee started the ball rolling this morning when his committee met and appointed sub-committees to handle the different angles of the selling campaign. C. H. W. Norton was appointed assistant secretary to the committee, and the work of the three new sub-committees was outlined. Charles G. Heiser, Jr., was placed in charge of the squad to block out the downtown district from data to be obtained from A. L. Castle of the Red Cross, used during the recent drive of the latter organization, and to find out how many salesmen are needed for the selling campaign. A. N. Campbell was given charge of the committee to secure salesmen from the banks, trust companies, brokerages houses, real estate offices, automobile shops, and in fact wherever possible. H. H. Walker was put at the head of a committee of four to receive all subscriptions and send them to the banks, trust companies and business houses where the subscribers signify they will make payments.

A. S. Heyward of Catton, Neill & Co. informed the committee that his company would give their employees the benefit of the deferred payment plan, and William G. Hall of the Honolulu Iron Works also turned in a similar report in regard to the company with which he is connected.

A. F. Judd brought up the matter of plantation employees investing their bonuses in Liberty Bonds and pointed out that as the majority of plantations did not pay their bonuses until November, and the Liberty Loan campaign closed this month the employees would not have a chance to enter the lists. T. H. Petrie of Castle & Cooke informed the meeting that his company had taken care of this contingency and had arranged to carry their employees until the bonus was paid.

The banks decided to waive the amount due them in exchange and insurance of bonds and stand the expense themselves. This means a saving to Liberty Loan subscribers of 45 cents on every $100 bond. The banks also decided that while there was some doubt if the expense money granted the campaign by the government could be used for newspaper advertising, the advertising should be kept up, and if the final decision was that the expense money did not cover that item the banks would patriotically see that the expense was paid.

S. Awoki for the Japanese and Charles A. Wong for the Chinese reported that the campaign among their people was under way and that they would be able to report results shortly.

JAPAN AGAIN IS SWEEPED BY STORM

(Special Cable to Nippon Jiji) TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 12.—Japan was once more swept today by a great storm, which was in some parts as terrific as the one which brought death and destruction last week.

The damages from the new storm are reported heavy in parts west of Kobe, where in the former storm the damage was slight. Tokio and vicinity where the last week's storm and flood caused most of the disaster, escaped this time with comparatively slight damage.

Report after report from the stricken parts indicates that there have been many deaths. No deaths, however, are reported from Tokio and vicinity.

Donation of 100,000 yen was made yesterday in the name of the emperor and empress to the relief fund for the victims of the former storm. Half of the amount donated was assigned to the sufferers in the prefecture of Tokio.

Captain G. Yamamoto of the Japanese Salvation Army, who was recently thanked by Baron E. Shibusawa, president of the relief society, for his relief work among Tokio sufferers, yesterday was married to Miss Kise Shimizu, a co-worker.

of a typhoid epidemic. The committee will meet this afternoon to authorize the sending out of notices to residents of the upper levels of the city who receive Nuanuan water to boil it before using it.

A written report will be prepared for the meeting of the board of supervisors tonight advocating that the board go on record as asking for a detail of soldiers to guard the watershed to prevent any possibility of further pollution of the water. The report will also contain a recommendation that a chlorination plant be purchased immediately as the present one is inadequate.

The cleaning out of reservoir No. 1 is now going on and the cleaning out of No. 2 and No. 3 reservoirs will commence next week. Whether the germs were placed in the city water supply by alien enemies or whether the filthy conditions of the basins caused the growth, the board of health has been unable to determine.

"It is a serious condition of affairs," said Dr. Pratt this morning, "and I have notified the health committee to get busy. The matter is out of my hands now but should be taken care of at once."
