THEATRICAL OFFERINGS

IMPRESSIVE TALE OF SLAV TYRANT

Typical of the unbridled autocracy which for centuries has ground the peasantry of Russia beneath the heartless heel of czarism and forced her people into ignominy and serfdom is the current Bijou film, "The Tyranny of the Romanoffs," a super feature production featuring the great ill-dor, the renowned foreign actor, who is seen in the spectacular role of Ivan the Terrible, the founder of the house of Romanoffs, which was brought to an end with the downfall of Nicholas. Russian in atmosphere from the very scenes that are seen crossing the steppes and snowy waters of Siberia to the scenes and characters themselves, the play gives an accurate idea of the yoke of oppression and tyranny under which the masses of benighted Russia were throttled by their licentious, cruel, savage and merciless rulers. Ivan is pictured as a monster clothed by a human body, who flaunts hypocritical piety as a cloak to licentiousness, who feeds on the lust of the city and to whom neither religion's virtue or bond of wedlock is sacred. Where royal will is concerned it must have its way, no matter what the price the governed must pay. Neither old men or women, girls or mothers are safe from the vampire whose lust-pocked path is strewn with the blood of those whose innocence has invoked the wrath of the tyrant.

The spectacle of a peaceful people writhing under the monstrosities of a ruler whose despotism is revolting opens the door of understanding to the plight of slave-bound Russia; serves as the stepping stone to appreciation of the countless suffering of a people whose patience and endurance, exhausted in the course of centuries, rose up in rebellion against a system that exacted an impossible toll and put an end to the reigning house responsible for its miseries and threw off the yoke of bondage. The film will run tonight and tomorrow night.

OLGA PETROVA AT THE HAWAII

The story of Robert Service's celebrated poem, "My Madonna," is transferred to the screen in the picture of the same name which is the feature offering of the new bill at the Hawaii theater, and Madame Olga Petrova, who has been called the greatest emotional actress of the present time, plays the leading part in the story. While the critics have disagreed in their comments concerning the star's earlier picture, "The Undying Flame," which was presented in Honolulu some months ago, "My Madonna" has called forth only unstinted praise wherever it has appeared. It is a tragic story of the suffering of a woman who makes a great sacrifice and who ultimately triumphs.

In lighter vein a Fox comedy is included in the program. It is called "The Social Pirates," with Charles Arling in the leading part. One of the most thrilling scenes of the serial, "The Railroad Raiders," is shown in the present instalment, the sixth chapter of the story, which has the title "The Overland Disaster." While the instalments of the serial tell a connected story as they appear, each is complete in itself.

SELINSKY IN FINAL PROGRAM

With his third recital in Mission Hall tonight, Max Selinsky will conclude his announced appearances before the music-loving public of Honolulu. His program is well chosen and nicely balanced between the lighter and heavier styles of musical composition. Mendelssohn's Concerto and the Sonata of Franck should appeal to all, and the "Ballade en Polonaise" by Vieuxtemps is a number which is always a favorite.

Frank Moss will accompany Selinsky, as he has at the earlier recitals. The Laurentio Storioni violin, of 1785, owned by Rudolf Buchly, will be played by Selinsky tonight. The wonderful tone of this instrument is highly praised by the distinguished visitor, who says that it is a delight to play upon it for its softness and richness. Its maker was one of the last of the famous violin makers of Cremona, home of marvelous violins for centuries.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI WILL BANQUET TONIGHT

The annual banquet of members of the High School Alumni association will be held at 7 o'clock this evening on the Young hotel roof garden. The Russian orchestra will furnish the music while the old grads talk over the old days.

A number of short talks will be given by alumni men. Four of the recently commissioned reserve officers will tell their old schoolmates how they did it. These officers who will be called upon are: Capt. R. B. King, Lieut. Lester Marks, Lieut. Samuel Carter and Lieut. A. B. "Buster" Carter.

William Hunter Kendall, actor and theatrical manager, died in London.

STRANGE WEDDING AT THE LIBERTY

A well known story, a brilliant star and a Lasky production is a combination that is making the feature picture, "Her Strange Wedding," a drawing card at the Liberty theater. The star is the popular English actress, Fannie Ward, who came into instantaneous favor with film patrons by her work in "The Cheat," the vehicle which also caused the Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa, to spring into fame. With her in the present cast are her husband, Jack Dean, and Tom Forman. Miss Ward as Coralie Grayson is a young society girl in love with Dr. Max Brownell. Arrangements for their marriage are completed, when the doctor's scapegrace brother Lee appears upon the scene and immediately sets about to win his brother's sweetheart. Local color is introduced into the picture when the couple, leaving on a boat for Honolulu, find that Max has also taken passage on the same boat. A quarrel between the brothers ensues and the story reaches a happy climax when Coralie reinstates Max in her affections. Miss Ward is given an opportunity to wear a number of the handsome gowns for which she is famous.

The second episode of the new serial, "The Mystery of the Double Cross," and the Pathe Weekly are included in the program.

YAW RECITAL TOMORROW NIGHT

Ellen Beach Yaw, the world's greatest coloratura soprano, has perfected herself in the Hawaiian numbers she will sing during her two recitals, the first tomorrow evening and the second on Friday, in Mission Memorial Hall. The chorus of Hawaiian girls who are to support her in these features of her programs are "letter perfect," and all is in readiness for the first curtain to be raised before the great artist in Honolulu.

The program for tomorrow evening will be announced in tomorrow's paper in detail. It is replete with a variety of numbers which are certain to bring rounds of applause from the capacity house which, from the sale of tickets, is sure to greet the California Nightingale.

Ernest K. Kaal, the local idol of lovers of Hawaiian music, who is to reappear locally, after a prolonged absence from the footlights, promises entirely new departures from the usual run of Hawaiian music tomorrow night.

Frank Moss, local pianist, who is to accompany Miss Yaw, is also to have a prominent place individually in the recital tomorrow evening.

Seats for these concerts are on sale at the Territorial Messenger Service.
