CONGRESSMEN ARE WELL ENTERTAINED

Visitors go Shark Fishing in Kahului Harbor.-- Enjoy a Luau and are Entertained with Hawaiian Songs.

NEW COURT HOUSE FOR WAILUKU.

Superintendent of Public Works Busy with Plans and Specifications.—Will Advertise for Bids About July First for Construction of Building.

LUAU TO CONGRESSMEN.

Saturday last a most successful luau was given the Congressional party at the Fishery at Kahului.
While the same was being prepared the visitors were taken out in a barge around the harbor in the hope of catching a shark but the finny tribe seemed to be wise and kept at a safe distance. On their return the party were royally entertained at the beach house of Judge A. N. Kepoikai. About noon the visitors and many Maui people sat down to one of the best luaus ever given on the island. A large lani had been erected and seats provided for the visitors, an innovation at a luau. Many of the dishes were entirely new to the members of the party and the manner in which they ate certain dishes caused some to smile.
Edward G. Lowrey, the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post who accompanied the party was tauged by one of the Hawaiian ladies to eat a live shrimp (opai). He tried manfully and finally succeeded by rolling it in poi and swallowing it whole.
After satisfying himself that it was down to stay until he became seasick he asked if it was as good coming up as it was going down. Mr. Forbes another correspondent seemed to think Hawaiian Coconut pudding was some kind of a drink and filled a glass and proceeded to drink it. At so much lack of knowledge of the manner of eating the different dishes many of the ladies tried bravely to repress smiles but it was often too much for them. At the close of the feast Congressman Littlefield made a short address thanking the people for their hospitality and congratulated them on their scenery of unsurpassed beauty, their vast cane fields and great progress in industry and education. As a speaker he was a decided success but when it came to pronouncing Hawaiian names he was a decided failure. At the close of his address he called on Judge A. N.
Kepoikai who had charge of the entertainment of the visitors at the luau. The Judge had evidently won the hearts of the whole party by his characteristic hospitality and attention to the comfort and entertainment of the visitors. He was followed by Congressman Brick who won the hearts of all who heard him. He was most dramatic and forceful in his speech and convinced all of his sincerity. The manner in which he avoided the pronunciation of Hawaiian names was noted and appreciated by many. He spoke of the wonderful scenery of the Lao valley, of the vast cane fields of Pounene, of the great depths of the water pumping at Kihai, and of their trip to the summit of Haleakala (the house of the sun) the largest crater on earth but not once did he dare attempt to pronounce the name of a single place he had visited.

On their way to the steamer a hundred people went with them and sang many Hawaiian songs which were appreciated by the visitors.

As the steamer was lifting her anchors Attorney J. L. Coke was called on to bid the party farewell which he did in a few well chosen words. His speech was replied to by Congressman Cole who said the only good reason why he should follow Coke was that Coke was Cole with the gass taken out and as he was supplied with a superabundance of the latter he seemed to be considered the proper party to reply. The party kept the whistle blowing and handkerchief waving as long as they were in sight and left with the best wishes of all of their newly made friends. The intention when they left here was to visit the rubber country of Nahiku but on reaching there it was found too rough to land.

WAILUKU COURT HOUSE.

Superintendent of Public Works Hollway is working on the plans for the new courthouse at Wailuku for which the Legislature appropriated $25,000 at the recent session. He states that they will be completed soon and that bids for the construction of the building will probably be called for in about six weeks.

This statement is good news for Wailuku. The old court building has been an eye sore to Wailuku for years. At the last session of the Circuit Court Judge Kepoikai was compelled to make arrangements for housing the Grand Jury in the old School house. In former times the basement of one of the Churches was used for the same purpose. While it would have been the better part of wisdom to put up a more costly building the amount will be sufficient to erect a building that will answer the purpose for years to come.

THE LONDONS ASHORE.

Pearl City, May 20, 2 p. m.—Mr and Mrs. London made up their respective and collective minds to spend at least two months in the waters of Pearl Lochs and to take up their residence ashore in the T.
W. Hobron cottage. They yearn for the shore awhile and want to be quiet.

Steamer Claudine Strikes Reef.

San Francisco's Grand Jury Indicts
Many City Boudlers.

HONOLULU, May 25.—The steamer Claudine struck on the reef at the entrance of the harbor last evening. She remained there for one and three-quarter hours and finally floated on her own power.

The steamship Doric arrived yesterday from the Orient.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.— Calhoun, Mullaly, Schmitz, Ruef, Ford, Abbot, Glass and Halsey have been indicted for bribery.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 25.— The Czar gave an audience to-day to the Japanese delegates to the Hague Peace Conference.

GUATEMALA, CITY, May 25.
—Nineteen conspirators against Cabrera have been sentenced to death.

"We are here for work," said Mrs. London shortly after their arrival here at 11:20 o'clock this morning. Continuing Mrs. London stated that her husband intended to put in a lot of time writing and that they could not imagine a quieter place than Pearl Lochs.
They will not go to Honolulu today. They do not want the distractions of the city, preferring, for the present at least, the peacefulness of the Hobron cottage, whither the typewriter has already been transferred from the cabin of the Snark and where its click will be heard until late in July.

London reports that for the first week or two out of San Francisco the majority of the six people aboard were very sea-sick.

The trip he says, was very uneventful and light winds were experienced nearly all the way. For the first four days there was perhaps more wind than was enjoyed for any other four consecutive days.
A southerly course was taken for wind and the ketch was out of the track of ocean liners most of the way down. Latterly her course was south-west and she held on this course until the nineteenth latitude.

The Snark raised the island of Maui on Friday last and on Saturday evening she was off Makapuu point, this island. She was becalmed off the Koolaus, Oahu, all day Sunday last, and the Londons experienced no little anxiety, for they were without wind and the coast is dangerous, appearing extremely so to the Snark's crew.

The Snark was without the power of her auxiliary engine, having broken the bed-plate before leaving the coast.

The Snark is to be overhauled here and further cabin fittings are to be installed.

London's log shows 2,600 miles traveled in the 27 days out, a little less than 100 miles per day.

"She steered herself," says London proudly.

Of the Snark's crew one is Herbert Stolz, son of the famous leper who defied the officers of the law on Kauai years ago and was shot and killed while fighting for his liberty. He is a Stanford University student. He has never been to sea before. Martin Johnson, from Kansas, is another green sailorman. Then there is a Jap cabin boy. Johnson is the cook-Star.

The above statement that Herbert Stolz is the son of the famous Kauai leper is probably incorrect.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—A spirited meeting of the Builders and Contractors of San Francisco was held last evening.

The open shop policy was urged as the solution of the industrial situation.

A general lockout was advocated, but on a vote the conservatives won.

A committee was appointed to arrange the price of material and labor for a year at least.

Deputy Sheriff Stolz was shot and killed by Koolau back of Mana in the Kalalau mountains some years ago. Stolz with a posse of men undertook the arrest of Keolan who had his retreat in the mountains that were most inaccessible. It was known the leper would resist arrest and the nature of the surrounding country made it next to impossible for any body of men to capture an armed man who was familiar with the country.—Ed.

Burglar Captured.

Police officers Clement Crowell and John Paikaka made a capture Monday that they believe will put a stop to much of the petty thievery of the community. At Waihee they arrested Na Wai on the suspicion of being the party who burglarized the Spreckelsville store on April 19th.
On the person of the party was a watch taken from the store at the time the burglary was committed. It still had the price mark and cost mark of the store by which it could be identified. Several pieces of clothing were found that were taken from the store.

All the time of the burglary $5.95 were taken. The accused was taken before District Magistrate McKay on Wednesday and was committed to appear before the Grand Jury.
