Encourage Diversified Industries. The policy of the present administration to encourage diversified industries is most commendable.

A few years ago it was claimed that sugar manufacture and those industries connected with it were the only ones possible in the territory and the failure of coffee in most localities was pointed to as the natural consequence of any agricultural enterprise that might be begun.

In recent years pineapple cultivation has proven a great success and has taken second place in the list of exports for the territory and will in time probably out do the sugar industry.

There is every reason to believe that the rubber industry of the territory will soon be one of the most important and profitable. The growth of the trees here on Maui is even greater than was expected and the results of tapping most satisfactory.

The timber of Hawaii has become the source of much profit within the past year and recent contracts let to the Santa Fe Railroad Company should insure the steady employment of many men at good wages and make possible the development of many other minor industries.

The announcement that the government has decided to open up two thousand acres of land on Kauai for the cultivation of sisal will put to use a large tract of land that today furnishes scant pasture to a few cattle. If this industry becomes a success it will mean the employment of many men and furnish a means of livelihood for them.

Democrats in Politics. If the Democrats of the County are to be judged by those who appear to be at the head of the party here in Wailuku, the Republicans have but little to fear from that quarter. It is true that they have some good men in their ranks and we do not feel inclined to criticize some of those who are active in the party for we realize that they are honestly seeking to improve conditions where they think such are not what they should be. It is a very different matter with some of the leaders, however, who are simply working the party for nominations for which they are no wise the material of which candidates for office should be chosen.

The Republican party has in its ranks a great majority of those who believe in the honest administration of governmental affairs for the greatest benefit of all. The Republican party is free from race prejudice and is as ready to support a man of one race as another as is proven by a study of the election returns of the past where it is evident that in many Hawaiian precincts a white man will poll a higher vote than any Hawaiian on the ticket and again in another precinct a Hawaiian may get a higher vote in a white precinct than any white man. While an overwhelming majority of Hawaiians are in the employ of every branch of the Territorial government and the same may be said of each of the County governments, and we may add that they draw a great deal more from the governments in salaries than do the white men, there has never been the slightest disposition on the part of the whites to object to this condition but they believe in assisting the Hawaiians as far as is possible consistent with good government for all.

It is however, next to impossible for any political party to nominate a complete set of officers without putting up some one who is not just what he should be.

If the Democrats or any other conservative party should work as conscientiously for the benefit of the people as the Republicans do it might be for the benefit of all as it would make possible the selection of a man occasionally from the ranks of the opposition in place of an unsuitable candidate who by some means got the nomination to an office to which he should not be elected.

The present prospects do not justify the belief that any such a condition will exist and we would urge the Republicans to place in nomination men of unquestioned integrity who are competent to fill the office for which they are nominated and then stand by them to a man.

Frank Scott Dead.

The Death of Mr. Frank Scott, Manager of Kilaua, Plantation, who died at his home on Monday evening last of apoplexy, after an illness of only a few hours, was a great shock to the whole community. On Sunday afternoon he seemed to be quite well but was taken ill in the night and died about half past five on Monday afternoon.

He was born in 1862 in the County of Roxburgh Scotland, one of a family of 12, eight of whom remain, one of them being Mr. Robt. Scott of Kilaua. He learned the trade of machinist, of which he was a thorough master, at Selkirk and worked later in one of the large ship yards of Glasgow.

For some years he acted as engineer on the P. and O line to India, and then on the Allan Line to Portland, Me. He came to the islands first in 1885 when he brought the little tug Ivy Holmes from San Francisco to Hilo. This rather adventurous trip terminated his life at sea, and he went to Hawi, Kohala from there to Heala and from there, at the urgent request of G. R. Ewart, came to Kilaua where he served for many years as engineer, then Head Luna and finally Manager.

The deceased was conspicuous for those rugged virtues of manhood which do not appear so largely on the surface but which are embedded deep in character. He was a man of sterling integrity and honor open and aboveboard in all relations of life avoiding every suggestion even of a shady or doubtful transaction. He was scrupulously honest in all business matters, in the least as well as the greatest, and eminently faithful in the discharge of his duties in whatever capacity. The personification of justice and fairness he naturally won the confidence of all who came in contact with him. In a marked degree he was called upon to exercise the virtues of patience and forbearance, which he did so quietly and uncomplainingly that none but his most intimate friends and they but vaguely knew of the burden he was carrying. Making up his mind carefully and perhaps somewhat slowly he was nevertheless a man of strong convictions, and tenacious in the retention of them. No influence of compulsion or interest could sever him from the direct line of what he believed to be right.

A man of the simplest and most unostentatious habits he was never thickly clothed and genuinely hospitable especially considerate and generous towards the employees of the estate under his charge. Liberal and broadminded in his views, his sympathies and his influence were all in the direction of decency, sobriety and practical righteousness.

Though he was a quiet man who did not wear his heart on his sleeves, he had nevertheless a heart which beat with a kindly and genuine emotion for all, especially those who had been fortunate enough to win his respect.

His loss will be genuinely and deeply mourned by all classes on the plantation with which he had been identified so many years.—Garden Island.

LAHAINA LINES.

Lahainaluna school opened on Monday with a full attendance. This school has 1802 pineapple plants growing as an experiment. In another week the pupils will have forty tables and other pieces of furniture finished. This school is a fine nucleus for an agricultural college.

Mr. Watson of Hilo, who has a son in the Honolulu postoffice, and a daughter at the Normal school, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Lahaina. He says that he has been twenty-six years on various plantations and that during that time he has found no better manager than McStocker of South Kona for whom he worked on the Oiaa plantation and for whom he is going to work now.

Mrs. Campbell Parker has purchased the Richards lot, about half an acre of the choicest property of the town, for $4200 and deeded it over to the Missionary Board for a town park.

Attorney E. M. Watson came over Monday from Wailuku where he had been engaged in legal work before the Circuit Court in Saturday. He took the steamer the same evening for Honolulu.

Miss May J. Austin has resigned her position at the Baldwin Settlement, Lahaina. She is a very excellent young lady beloved by all who know her. She will leave shortly for the coast.

Mr. Morvay the new assistant manager of the bank is being well received by the Lahaina people.

Harold T. Hayselden, brother of Lahaina's popular senator, has been in town on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Makekai have returned from Riverside, Cal., where they have resided for several years.
