

The Gonzalves Gorman Wedding.

One of the prettiest weddings seen for some time was solemnized on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Roman Catholic Cathedral when Miss Anna Amelia Gonzalves, became the bride of Mr. Percy Alfred Gorman formerly of Japan.

The altar of the cathedral was handsomely decorated with quantities of tall palms and sheaves of white Easter lilies and myriads of white daisies arranged effectively amid the Roman lighted candles.

At 8 o'clock the young bride entered, leaning upon the arm of her father, Mr. M. A. Gonzalves, who also gave her away.

She was preceded up the long aisle by her bridesmaid, Miss Nathalie Rodrigues, and little Adeline Rodrigues and Rose Mary Rodrigues as flower maidens.

The bride wore a handsome confection of white chiffon over white satin with elaborate trimmings of pearls, and a lace wedding veil which had been worn by her mother twenty-seven years ago.

It was caught and arranged by clusters of orange blossoms and pearls.

A muff bouquet of white carnations and lace maidenhair and with cascades of these blossoms on strands of white tulle was carried.

Miss Nathalie Rodrigues, as bridesmaid, wore a dainty blush pink mesaline gown with coral passementerie, and she carried a shower bouquet of Enchantress pinks and maidenhair, cascaded on strands of delicate pink tulle.

Preceding the bridal party the two little flowers girls, dressed alike in lace and lingerie frocks, strewed tiny pink and white roses from baskets carried on their arms, the handles of which were caught by very large bows of white satin.

Large bows of white satin were also worn in their hair. As the bridal party proceeded up the aisle Lohengrin's Wedding March was played on the organ.

At the altar the party was met by Mr. Percy Gorman and Mr. Ernest Gonzalves, his best man, and the Reverend Father Stephen, who performed the ceremony.

It was witnessed by about three hundred invited guests.

After the service the young couple turned and passed out to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and motored to the home of the bride's parents where an informal reception was held for the relatives and intimate friends of the pair.

Among others at the reception were Consul Canavaro, the Reverend Father Stephen, Dr. George Herbert and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bell of Maui, who had come especially to be present at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman left that night for Haleiwa, and returning on Friday departed for Kahului, Maui, where a beautifully appointed home awaited them.—Haw. Star.

Maui Racing.

There is considerable talk among local horsemen, regarding a race for Hawaiian bred fillies, next year. The Hawaiian Star makes a suggestion for the race which seems to be a good one, and should work out all right, with a few slight alteration. It is as follows:

The Maui Hotel Stake, for maiden two and three-years-olds, two-year-olds to carry 100 pounds and three-year-olds to carry 119 pounds.

The purse to be $500 and the distance half a mile.

Entries to close May 1, 1912. Owners to pay $25 when they enter their horses, and $25 on or before June 28.

Owners failing to make their last payment to forfeit the payment already made, and the right to start a horse.

All entry fees over and above the amount of $300 to be added to the stake.

The winner to receive the stake and 50 per cent of the added money, if there be any.

The second horse to receive 30 per cent of the added money.

The third horse to receive 20 per cent of the added money.

He is busy renovating the store inside and out, and perhaps some others will take the tip and give a much needed coat of paint to their buildings. Wailuku is fortunate in having at last someone who is enterprising enough to make an effort to give us good moving picture shows. Mr. Fernandez is here to stay if we give him any encouragement. He has his own electric apparatus for showing his pictures, and he has so far shown good pictures. It is his intention to put on new pictures at each show, and make the prices low enough so people can go two or three times a week. Mr. Fernandez should receive the support of everyone in his undertaking, and enable him to bring vaudeville here in addition to his pictures.
