

High School Opens Monday

Kahului Railroad Assists By Putting on Passenger Coach In Morning.

On Monday morning next, the new High and Grammar School at Hamakunoko will be opened, and it is expected that about sixty children will be in attendance. The building is completed and the structure is well adapted for the purpose intended.

The new school will, as the rural press would put it, "fill a long felt want." There has been, for many years, a demand for just such an institution and a large number of parents are delighted that the school is now an accomplished fact. In the past, it has become imperative for parents to either send their young children, of twelve years or so, away to Honolulu to school, or to allow them to wind up their education at the grammar school stage. There have, of course, been instances where governesses have been employed but, on the whole, the higher grades of schools have been desired.

In order to enable children from Wailuku, Kahului, Puunene and Paia, to attend the new school, the Kahului Railroad Company has decided to attach a passenger car to the local freight that leaves Wailuku at 8:50 every morning. This innovation will be much appreciated by the parents, and will enable the children to reach school at about 9:30 every morning. There are a number of scholars ready to take the first trip on Monday morning.

There will be four teachers in the new school—three paid by the department of public instruction and one by the parents of school children. For the time being, some of the teachers will live in the school building but, later on, cottages will be erected for them.

The establishing of the school will mean that several children who were scheduled to leave for the mainland in the near future, will remain on Maui and receive their high school education here.

Kick About Sick People

When the supervisors met on Thursday last to continue their labors it was stated to them that a rather serious state of affairs exists regarding the care of tuberculosis patients. It was declared by Supervisors Henning and Drummond that a certain patient at the Malulani Hospital, was refused admittance at the Kula Sanitarium, although that institution was not full of patients suffering from tuberculosis.

The statement created rather a sensation, and Supervisors Henning and Drummond spoke out in a very earnest manner about the affair. The statement was made that both hospitals are run by the county, and that the physician in charge of the Malulani hospital has a perfect right to transfer a patient from the Wailuku hospice to the Kula one.

After some discussion, it was put up to the financial committee to look into the matter, and to consider some plan whereby a couple of cottages might be erected near the Kula Sanitarium to accommodate patients who badly need treatment and care. Supervisor Drummond stated that many people who are only suffering from "breakbone fever," or who need a nice rest among beautiful flowers and scenery, are occupying beds at the Kula institution. Drummond announced his intention of visiting the hospital and sizing up the proposition.

Now Working Double Shift

Hugh Howell is making good headway with the new Kihei boat landing, and he has installed a well-boring apparatus that is overcoming the difficulty as regards the hard rock that was encountered on the job.

An expert rock and pile driving man has been secured, and the work is now being rushed to a conclusion. Shifts are working both day and night, and the new landing should be ready for boats within a few weeks from now.

All Maui is looking forward to the completion of the landing, as then the long journey from Lahaina will be obviated. The risk, sometimes, at McGregor's, is too great for lady passengers to take and the Kihei proposition will be most convenient.

Will Bring Oahu Sand

Contractor Wilson will have to ship rock and sand from Oahu for his road job at Nahiku-Keanae. There is a scarcity of the kind of material necessary for the work, and the contractor has decided to charter a small schooner and carry the stuff he requires in the vessel. The road work is going along well and a gang of one hundred men is kept busy on the job. The stretch of road should be completed before very long, and it will be of great importance to the residents of the Nahiku and Keanae districts.

About two hundred tons of rock is needed for one piece of the road and it is impossible—except at great expense—to obtain the material any where near the site of operations.

Man Found Hanging

Yesterday afternoon, at about 4 o'clock, a Japanese happened to go near the school house at Kalului, and he at once noticed a bad odor. Becoming suspicious, the man informed a police officer who at once proceeded to the house. At the rear was a body hanging from a rope that was made fast to a kiawe tree.

The police officer telephoned the Sheriff and he at once proceeded to the scene of the tragedy. That the case was one of suicide there is no doubt. The body had not been identified up till the time the News went to press.

Doubt Duke's Big Records

Duke Kahanamoku's records are almost smiled at in Australia, and some of the fast swimmers there say that Duke's time is impossible. W. L. West, of Wailuku, who met a number of the sporting crowd in Sydney, of course, stuck up for the Hawaiian's records. Some of the swimmers "down under" declared that they would like to have an Australian timer keep tab on the native. West astounded them all by replying that one of the official watch holders is an Australian and a man who has had considerable experience with the stop watch, both in these islands and in Australia.

This statement seemed to stagger the doubters, and they began to think that perhaps Duke's figures for the various distances were correct. Longworth, the wonderful swimmer over all distances, would like to have a go at Duke. There are others, too, who think that they could make the Hawaiian wonder stretch himself. "Alright," said West to a sporty bunch in Sydney, wait till Duke comes and wins everything from twenty-five yards up to the three-quarter mile. Then you will admit that the Hawaiian is a wonder, and that the timers, official course measurers and starters of Hawaii know the game."

Burials Are Not Right

Dr. McConkey, of Paia, has written to the board of supervisors, in the capacity of assistant sanitary inspector, and tells of the dangers of burials that take place in certain districts. The assertion is made that, in some instances, the burials are made near the water supply wells and underground tanks. This is, says the doctor, a dangerous condition of affairs, and one that the supervisors should take note of.

While not wishing to interfere with any old established customs, Dr. McConkey thinks that burials should be in proper graveyards where records are kept and where, at any time in the future, graves can be located, if necessary.

Dr. McConkey told of one instance where the body of a child was buried under the house of the parents. That sort of thing should be stopped, and the sooner something is done to remedy the bad state of affairs the better it will be for the community.
