CHEAP LIVING (?)

PRESIDENT WILSON has reason to exult, for the measure is his Tariff in a more pre-eminent sense that can be said of any other man in connection with any other Tariff in our history. Usually the name of the chairman of the House's Committee of Ways and Means has been attached to the Tariff adopted during his service; and we have seen that Mr. Underwood mentioned in this connection, says The Irish World.

But this is the Wilson Tariff, and no other name fits it. From its inception he has watched its provisos, scanned its list of supporters, and pressed its adoption in terms never used by any of his predecessors in office. The schoolmaster's style has been in evidence at every turn; and both House and Senate, and their Democratic caucuses, have responded to his orders with the promptness of good little boys, who are expecting a good report on their labors.

MILL IMPROVEMENTS.

THE Mill engineers convention in Honolulu can but result in good, and the getting together of the men who "make the wheels go round" is a fine idea. There can be no doubt that a free exchange of ideas will benefit everyone. In the past there has been too much of the idea that improvements should be kept secret. The real scheme should be to make every improvement and invention known at once, so that the whole sugar community can adopt them. What is good for one company is good for the other, and for the whole group as well. We all live off, or on, sugar, and all sensible men know that without the plantations we would be a very small, poverty stricken lot. Anything that can reduce the cost of producing sugar should be made known at once, as we all benefit from such improvements.

SUGAR.

THERE is a lot of truth in Mr. A. Gartley's remark made in San Francisco. When he stated that the people of Hawaii were worrying more (at present) about the low price of sugar, than about the "free sugar" of the future, he hit the nail on the head. With the present price of sugar and no possibility of free sugar, many dividend paying plantations of the past, have had to cut out dividends long before the crop that will be harvested and affected by the change in the tariff is marketed. However, free sugar, if it ever comes, will mean the end of everything. Talk about pines, small farmers and other schemes is all nonsense. Oahu will probably pull along by living on the soldiers, but what about the other islands, where soldiers are not quartered?

SULZER.

THE Progressive Party must feel highly honored by the fact that ex-governor Sulzer, of New York, has been so much approved of by the New York branch of the Bull Moose brigade, as to be offered a nomination to Congress. It would seem to decent people that Sulzer should be content to slip back into the oozy slime from which he emerged when Tammany first got hold of him and selected him as a tool of their interests. Sulzer has been shown up as a grafter and worse. The fact that it is a case of the pot calling the kettle black, has nothing to do with the case. Sulzer should be down and out from now on, and to hear that the Bull Moosers have taken him up shows what a peculiar organization that new party is.

When Mr. Underwood, three years ago, began a political campaign in the interest of Free-Trade, he announced that he would make the fight turn upon the high cost of living, and would claim that this was due to the Tariff. He got enough persons to believe him to secure a Democratic majority in the House; and this success was repeated last year through divisions in the Republican party. Does he or any one believe that this Tariff is going to reduce the cost of living? Its friends claim that it reduces the level of duties by twenty-eight per cent. Most of these reductions are on articles which have risen very little during the last ten years—less than six per cent, says the Canadian official who attends to such matters. The biggest proposed cut is that on sugar, which will not be a cent cheaper under the new Tariff than under the old. The Sugar Trust will make heavier dividends—that is all.

The Democrats talked of a Tariff for revenue, when they were asking for the suffrages of the American people. They first adopted a Tariff which wantonly threw away duties yielding a large revenue, and substituted direct taxation on incomes to fill the empty treasury. The only reason for this was that under that duty a new industry was growing up, which might in time supply the needs of the country. They then seem to have taken alarm at the prospect, and fixed the year 1916 as that at which the duty would disappear.

One thing is certain. It is the last Tariff bill of its kind. American business will never tolerate another product of such haphazard methods. In forming its new Tariff, Germany consulted 2,000 technical specialists. It sought the wisdom and experience of its business men. In America there is universal demand for just this kind of statesmanship in Tariff legislation and it is bound to come in the near future. The pity is that it was not sought in the making of the present measure.

The victorious All Chinese team which has just returned from the mainland and which has been on Maui for a few days this week, is a credit to Hawaii and the lads need only keep up the same line of clean sportsmanship in order to maintain the respect and admiration of the people of these islands.
