

Glorious Fourth Program

At the meeting of the Maui Racing Association that was held last Saturday evening, the program as suggested by the executive committee was practically accepted unchanged. Only $100 more was added to the prize money, and that addition did not bring any opposition.

The liberal sum of $2,350 is provided, and the general feeling is that that amount is ample. The money is divided up in a way that pleases the public and the horse owners. The fortunate winners will receive all that is coming to them, as usual, and the meeting should be a successful one. There was a fair attendance at the meeting on Saturday evening, and keen interest was taken in the various discussions. It seemed to be the idea of everybody to have a good day's racing and to, at the same time, make it possible for a profit to be shown after all is over.

The Maui races are always the best ever and the crowd of people that gathers at the Kahului track is always a jolly one. The picnic spirit seems to exist on the Fourth, and the many parties that are made up for the day, are always out for a good time, which they undoubtedly have every year.

The full program for the day follows:

Plebiscite Appears Certain

On Wednesday evening last, County Attorney Case, Supervisor Henning, Dr. Raymond and several others who went down to see Governor Pinkham about the proposition of the county raising money by bonding itself, returned from Honolulu. They were successful in their mission, and it is understood that, although Territorial Secretary Thayer is to visit Maui and look into affairs, there is no doubt that the bond measure will be approved of by the governor—if the voters decide to ask for the loan.

The amount that will be asked for is $119,000 and it is to be spent, when obtained, on various improvements. The reservoir for Olinda is the principal item, but there are many other things that the voters of the county will have to decide upon, item by item, when the plebiscite is called.

Sixty days must elapse from the day of the proclamation regarding the plebiscite being called. The voters will, long before the voting day, have ample time to discuss the pros and cons of the matter of bonding the County of Maui.

Commerce Chamber Meeting

According to the statement made by Supervisor Henning at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, the county will only have an income of about $200,000 this year, as against $400,000 last year.

With a reduction of fifty per cent in income, the county is facing hard times said the supervisor.

"Then how do you figure to pay interest on the bonds, that may be issued, if so voted for by the citizens of Maui?" asked D. C. Lindsay.

Supervisor Henning answered that within two or three years the various improvements would have to be made, and that there would be a revenue from the improvements works that would pay the interest on the loan. "The expenditure of the county must be cut down to meet the income," finished Henning.

County Attorney Case wanted to know what the bond issue had to do with the matter that the meeting was called for. "If we are to do politics about the bond issue, then let us get busy, right away," said Mr. Case. The matter was then dropped and communications were read. The Hilo Board of Trade and the Kauai Chamber of Commerce asked for the assistance of the Maui Chamber in fighting for breakwater appropriations. Jack Desha, the secretary to the Delegate, wrote saying that nothing would be done at the present session in regard to the matter of a new breakwater at Kahului. He suggested that more data be sent in time for next session.

The Chamber did not take up anything else, except some accounts for the Maui float shown in the Floral Parade. It was voted that the sum of $100 be paid Dr. Aiken at once and that further consideration of the matter will be taken up at the next meeting.

Very Heavy Rains

Maui got a good drenching last week and the heavy rains that fell did an immense lot of good. The rain fell in torrents and all the streams soon ran full to overflowing. All the low lying parts of Kahului were under water and the scene was like a flooded river valley.

At Wailuku on the night of Sunday, April 5, five inches of rain fell and at times the water came down like a broken waterspout. Many roofs leaked and considerable damage was done in some of the stores.

At Waihee it is reported that eight inches of rain fell on Sunday night and there was plenty more on Monday, both at Wailuku, Kahului and other places.

At times a strong breeze prevailed and some roof iron was torn from old houses. At Kahului the residents had a wet time and some people remarked that boats would be more useful than automobiles.

The streams that empty into Kahului harbor bore down so much fresh water that the ocean was discolored for a long distance out from land. The rain was welcome to the sugar planters and the fall rendered irrigation unnecessary for many days.

Picture Bride's Pilikia

Judge Kingsbury spoke out plainly about Japanese "Picture Brides" on Thursday last, when granting a divorce to a woman subject of the Mikado. The woman had been married at the Immigration Station, in Honolulu, upon her arrival in Hawaii. She had never seen her prospective husband, and knew nothing about him till she found herself fettered to a drunken brute, who brought her to Maui, and then, after a few months, deserted her.

"I am sure," said Judge Kingsbury, "that if the higher-ups were really aware of certain practices regarding picture brides, there would soon be a stop put to the practice of importing some Japanese women simply for the purpose of building up a citizenship through the natural birth rate."

Said another prominent Wailuku resident, "Since the time that Japan blocked the departure of male subjects of her country to Hawaii, a steady influx of Japanese women has been noticed. These women could not come in as single and, consequently, the picture bride business began to flourish. Thousands of young women have reached these islands during the past few years and, while some of them have been lucky in their choice of haphazard husbands, many, in fact the majority, have simply waited a short time before securing a divorce on any possible grounds."

"In my opinion it would be just as well for the fifty-cent minister who performs the marriage service at the entrance, to be provided with a divorce court judge at the other door where the separations could be granted without delay."

"The whole thing is a farce, and something should be done to put a stop to the practice of marrying people for what is nearly always intended to be a short time. The Japanese women are, in my opinion, a superior class of female, and it is only through their decency that they are not forced into prostitution. Alone in this country, with no work and unable to speak the English language, the women stand but little show, and a large number of them fall victims to the pimps who originally instigated their leaving Japan for Hawaii."

The woman in the divorce suit before Judge Kingsbury was granted her release and will, it is said, marry a decent member of the Japanese community tomorrow.

The action of the Kahului outfit is not calculated to impress the general public with the sportsmanship of the powers that be at the seaside village. It is thought by many that the Kahului should make up a team of some sort and not act the sorehead all the time.

The first game of the 1914 season is scheduled to be played on Sunday, May 3. The schedule will be announced later on. The teams that have entered are: Wailuku, Puunene and Chinese Athletics. The last named team will be fairly strong as some of the players who would have been on the Kahului nine, had that outfit gotten together, will now play for the C. A. C. team.

The Wailuku diamond is in good shape and some interesting games should be seen there this season. There will be games against teams from Oahu and, possibly, Hawaii, later on it the year.

Rifle shooting on the miniature range in the Wailuku Armory will soon be in full swing. The range is being fixed up and the targets and other necessary apparatus will soon be ready for use.

The riflemen use the small 22 at present and, as soon as they become proficient with the small gun, they will be allowed to start in on the outdoor range where the regulation sized rifle is always used.

The new outdoor range is still being discussed, and as soon as the word is given from headquarters the matter will taken up and brought to a successful conclusion.

One of the arrivals on the Claudine last week was Frederick Anderson, lecturer of the board of health and the Anti-Tuberculosis League. He brought the anti-tuberculosis exhibit to Maui on its second tour to this island. Since its last visit under the direction of Professor Bairos, it has been interestingly augmented by a number of new moving pictures prepared under the direction of the national society for the prevention and suppression of tuberculosis.

The exhibit has been touring the islands for several years now, and is surrounding itself with a romantic history. Its trail has been marked across every county by renewed hope in the breasts of those who are the unfortunate victims of the disease, and by greater efforts to prevent its spread.

The exhibit was recently on Kauai, where it was shown for the first time, almost every village on the island being visited. Thousands of people of all nationalities crowded to the exhibit and quite a number followed through three or four settlements, attending every lecture. Its visit to the Garden Island did inestimable benefit. Several sufferers from tuberculosis who had resisted all efforts to induce them to enter a sanitarium for treatment witnessed the exhibit, and the next day voluntarily presented themselves to the physicians, thus removing that much possibility of infection for other people.

The exhibit is clean and well arranged and, in spite of what may be thought from its subject, there is nothing revolting or repulsive in the pictures, which are instead, intensely interesting.

There seems to be a rumpus of some sort in connection with the Maui baseball series and, from present indications, there will only be three teams in the competition. This is a pity, for four teams are necessary to make up a decent schedule. The Kahului outfit is reported to be out of the running through some mistaken zeal on the part of somebody, and, consequently, the baseball season will be curtailed.
