FARMING AND FARM PROGRESS

Things Being Done and Attempted in the Agricultural Field.

More Molasses Advocated.

Experts are urging the use of more molasses as a ration in feeding both horses and cattle. It is claimed that it is not only of high food value, but that, fed with bran and other grain feeds, it minimizes the danger of prussic acid poisoning, which sometimes causes heavy loss, where damaged feeds are used. Diluting the molasses with water makes it easy to mix with other feeds, and it is also given animals in still more dilute form as a drink, with good results.

Lumpy bran, or other ground feeds, should be regarded with suspicion, as poisons are sometimes formed when these feeds are stored in large quantities, and generate heat.

Report on Hog Cholera Outbreak.

In his official report to the board of agriculture, Dr. Victor A. Norgaard, territorial veterinarian has the following to say concerning the recent outbreak of hog cholera on this island: "Dr. Fitzgerald, under date of Feb. 25, reporting two small outbreaks, one on the Haleakala ranch and the other on the Maui Agricultural Co.'s ranch. The infected premises were immediately placed under quarantine and sufficient hog cholera vaccine secured for the treatment and prevention inoculation of all affected and exposed hogs. The origin of the outbreak remains obscure, no hogs having been introduced from any of the other islands for several months past, nor has there been any transfer of animals between the two places, which are more than seven miles apart. I am therefore inclined to believe that the outbreak is due to a recrudescence of infection already on the premises, which theory is supported by the extremely mild form in which the disease has made its appearance.

"With the timely application of serum there is consequently little danger of serious losses, even though it is doubtful whether the established quarantine will prove effective.

"From Hawaii and Kauai no new outbreaks have been reported, one report investigated by Dr. Elliot proving not to be hog cholera.

"On Oahu the disease now seems to be well under control."

Cassava For Pigs.

In Queensland cassava is used as food for pigs with success and is found to be a good substitute for the potato. The pig eats the cassava either raw or cooked, and digests it equally well in both cases, and uses all the hydrocarbon matter, amounting to about 80 or 90 per cent of the total quantity consumed. All that is needed is to soak the tubers for some hours in cold water, to obtain a food ready for immediate consumption, a food, the nutritive value of which is equal to barley or rice meal. At the same time, cassava must not be considered as a complete ration, as it is necessary to supplement it for young animals, at least, with food containing the phosphates and nitrates wanting in cassava. For this purpose oil cake and ground green bones are used, or, better still, degelatinized bones powdered.—Agricultural News.
