FARMING AND FARM PROGRESS

Things Being Done and Attempted in the Agricultural Field.

Maui Spuds May Break Good Market

Hogs Selling Well—Eggs on Upward Track—Vegetables Getting Scarcer—Market Soon in New Quarters.

Island Irish potatoes have been selling readily at good prices during the week but the price is likely to drop shortly due to large crop on Maui and Kauai, part of which will be sent to Honolulu.

Onions are still plentiful and cheap. Large quantities on hand which are moving slowly.

Hogs are bringing better prices this week than have been offered for several months. Dealers are of the opinion that they will go still higher in the near future.

Tomatoes and cucumbers which were so plentiful a short time ago are getting scarcer now and bring better prices. Bell peppers are rather plentiful and cheap. Large quantities of this vegetable are being brought in from Kaimuki.

Cantaloupes and watermelons are getting scarcer and prices better.

Eggs advanced one cent a dozen during the week. The demand for fresh eggs is good.

Smooth skinned red sweet potatoes are in demand. The white skinned varieties are not so popular. Kauai sweet potatoes are scarce.

During the coming week the office of the Marketing Division will be moved to permanent quarters on Maunakea street between King and Queen streets, which have just been painted. By moving the office there will be more room in the present sales room and it will not be necessary to block the sidewalk with crates and boxes.

An architect is at work drawing the plans for the new sales room and warehouse and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy by the first of September. It is planned to have a suitable building large enough to handle all kinds of vegetables, fruits, poultry and general produce that the Division is likely to have on hand at one time. A small refrigerator plant will be installed for the proper storing of butter, eggs, fruits, etc. Several sanitary steel poultry coops will also be a part of the new equipment.—A. T. LONGLEY, Supt. Ter. Mkt. Division.

Probably Green Corn Instead of Cholera

Those who have looked into the matter are now inclined to believe that the supposed outbreak of chicken cholera at Hamakua, which killed a lot of valuable hens of Mrs. E. E. Boyum, was some other trouble. Miss Rose Crook, of Makawao, who has had much experience with poultry, is confident that the disorder in the Boyum flock was due to the feeding of green corn. Miss Crook states that she has seen a number of instances similar to this, which were undoubtedly due to allowing the birds access to immature corn, as was true in this present case. The mortality and the symptoms are said to be strikingly similar to cholera.

DEMONSTRATION FARM PLANNED

If the plans of the Hawaii Experiment Station can be carried out a tract of land in the new Makawao homestead district, soon to be opened, will be set aside for the use of the station as a demonstration farm. Moreover it is hoped that this farm may be the first to be developed in order that the settlers may have the advantage of the experience which must be gained in opening any new farm district in the Territory. Land Commissioner Tucker, who spent last week on Maui, expressed himself in hearty accord with such a plan.

CROPS SUFFER FROM DROUGHT

Continued dry weather in Makawao and Kula is causing much concern among the farmers of these districts, whose crops are seriously threatened. An unusually promising stand of corn in Makawao is already suffering from the drought, and unless rain comes soon will probably be practically a total loss. The same conditions exist in perhaps lesser degree in the Kula homestead region where all farm operations are retarded by want of rain.

URGES FRESH FRUIT SHIPMENTS.

Senator Smoot urges the Hawaiian pineapple growers to go after the fresh fruit business on the mainland. Hawaii is the only place where the best fruit is put into tins. Senator Smoot points out. Elsewhere, the canneries handle simply the surplus after the fresh fruit market has been supplied. Thus they get a cheaper product, and Hawaii is trying to compete against this kind of product. The Senator spent over a month in the islands, and declares his belief that the pineapple business can be made to approximate in importance the sugar industry if it is properly cared for.

Kuiaha Farmer Has Good Crop of Hay

Experiment that Promises Profits for Homesteaders if Uncertainties Can Be Eliminated.

J. H. Manning, a Kula homesteader put in his barn last Tuesday about two tons of wheat and oat hay which he produced on less than two acres of land. The hay was of unusually good quality, and considerable interest has been aroused in the community over the experiment. Both oats and wheat headed well, and are unusually heavy in grain. No difficulty was experienced in growing either crop the oats were slightly rusted, this according to Mr. Manning, and while the oats were slightly rusted, this trouble was much less than frequently experienced on the mainland. It is estimated that the yield of cured hay was about a ton and a half per acre. The hay was cut last Saturday afternoon, and thoroughly cured by Tuesday.

Prof. Krauss, of the experiment station, is much interested in the experiment and is investigating the feasibility of kiln drying, which is reported to have been developed to a high degree of perfection by the Department of Agriculture in Louisiana. Should it prove practical, thus eliminating the danger of loss through uncertain weather conditions at curing time, Mr. Krauss believes that hay, at the high prices always prevailing in the islands could be made a profitable crop in many districts. Mr. Manning's hay was produced in less than three months time.
