Maui High School Shows Big Increase

Outlook Good for Fine Year's Work —Three New Teachers Added to Staff—Who They Are.

The Maui High and Grammar School of Hamakua opened for the fall term on Monday, September 13. There is a large increase in attendance at this school; there being over 20 per cent more pupils than were enrolled last year. There are three new teachers on the teaching force this year, Miss L. Franc Eaton, Miss Clara C. Pearson, and Miss Pearl McCarthy. Miss Eaton, who will take charge of the new domestic science course, is a former inhabitant of the Islands. Her early life was spent at Hilo. She attended Punahou Academy and also graduated from the Honolulu Normal School after which she taught for a number of years in the public schools of the territory. She then attended Teachers' College, Columbia University, obtaining the degree of B. S. and also securing bachelor diploma to teach domestic science. She graduated from that college in 1911 and since that time has had practical experience in teaching domestic science on the mainland and was also connected with Fabiola Hospital, Oakland, California, in the capacity of dietitian. For two years she has filled the same position at Leahi Home, Honolulu, from which place she comes to Maui. Miss Eaton has traveled extensively as, in addition to her mainland travels, she spent the summer of 1911 in Europe. Miss Clara Pearson, who takes the position in the High School made vacant by Mrs. Beeman's visit to Maine, is a native of Iowa. She received her bachelor's degree from Cornell College in 1911, taking the liberal arts course. She took a post-graduate course at Wisconsin University, specializing in mathematics and voice. She has taught for three years in Iowa and last year taught at Punahou Academy, Honolulu. Miss Pearl McCarthy, who takes Miss Kerr's place, is a native of Honolulu and is a daughter of Territorial Treasurer C. J. McCarthy. She has a sister in the McKinley High School of Honolulu. Miss McCarthy obtained her A. B. degree this year from Stanford University and although she has had no teaching experience, she comes highly recommended by the college authorities in regard to the qualifications which should make a successful teacher. She specialized in French and is to teach that subject in the High School. The other teachers are the same as last year: W. S. Beeman, principal; Miss Mary Couch, Latin; Miss Mary Cooper, grammar grades; Miss Estelle Roe, primary.

Lahaina School to Try Chicken Raising

Boys Will Also Build the Chicken House—Public Schools Get Down to Work.

The public schools of the territory opened for the fall term on last Monday. On Maui, from present indications, the attendance will be about the same as last year. It will probably be another week or two before reports have been received from all districts. George S. Raymond, inspector general of the school department, has been spending the first week of the term on this island, assisting Supervising Principal McCluskey to get his bearings in his new position. They have already visited a large number of schools in central Maui. Some of the schools are handicapped for lack of buildings. This is true at Wailuku, at Puunene, and at Hamakua-poko in particular. At the first named school the department plans to open a kitchen, where simple cooking will be taught, and from which lunches will be served to pupils at a trifling cost, as soon as a building for this purpose is constructed. Facilities will also be provided for the teaching of elementary carpentry. A building to be used as a kitchen is also contracted for at Puunene, but scarcity of carpenters induced the board of supervisors last week to grant further time for this work in order that the contractor might rush work on the teachers' cottage badly needed at Hamakua-poko. On Molokai and at Hana the county is also behind on building contracts, which is interfering somewhat with school work. School Boys to Work. At the meeting of the supervisors last week $19 was appropriated at the instance of R. C. Bowman, vocational instructor, for materials needed for a partition across the school kitchen at the Lahaina school. The boys taking vocational work in this school will construct the partition themselves. They are also to have $18.10 worth of material for building a chicken house, raising at this institution. For Paia it being the intention to take up chicken raising at that school, the board allotted $32 asked which will furnish materials for 150 feet of fence which will enclose the cottages at the Paia school as soon as the boys of the vocational classes can build it.

Bible Stories Told In Pretty Tableaux

Rev. Frank Scudder is Producing Unusual Performance on Maui with Aid of Young Japanese.

Something quite new in the line of entertainment was shown in the Orpheum Theatre on Thursday evening. It was a presentation of bible teaching through the attractive medium of color and action as well as by means of the voice. The life of Samuel was the subject of a series of six tableaux, under the title of "The Voice of the Heart." How the little child Samuel was consecrated by his parents to a holy life; how the little lad Samuel learned to recognize the voice of God in his heart, and grew by obedience to that voice he grew up to be the commanding character of his times, greater than the priest and greater than the king,—these lessons were brought out in such a way that no one who saw them can ever forget. "The Light of the World" was presented in two tableaux; the first representing the world in darkness, with people groping for light. Into the darkness came the great religious lights of the world. First, Moses, bearing a lighted candle, giving such light as he can. Out from the black gowned group in the darkness come two anxious ones, Sorrow and Desire. He shows them that they must obey God's holy law. After Moses come Buddha, and then Confucius, each with his candle, shedding such light, and giving such comfort as he can. But the world still sits in darkness and in the shadow of death. In the second tableau a great light is seen. It is the Light of the World. Attracted by the light Sorrow and Desire enter it and kneel. Their black garments fall from their shoulders, revealing them in white, and a white-winged maiden, named Love comes to show them the way of peace. They must follow Jesus' way of love. She sends them out to bring their comrades out of darkness into the light. A little child also, attracted by the light, approaches Love. Love gives her flowers to take to her little companions, bidding her bring them to the light. After a time they return, each leading his friends, who drop their black gowns, and gathered under the outspread arms of Love, kneel in grateful prayer. Love stretches her hands in invitation to those still remaining in darkness, while in the distance are heard the strains of music, "Come unto Me, and I will give you rest." The tableaux were acted out by Japanese young people under the direction of Mr. Frank Scudder and Mrs. Leslie R. Mathews. Moving pictures played in the interim between the two series of tableaux, allowed full time for re-costuming. The tableaux will be repeated in Paia and Puunene this evening and Saturday evening.

DoRego Goes to Hilo for Automobiles and Horses

Antone "Pakai" Do Rego, the well known politician and business man, was in Hilo the other day. While not divulging the full reason for his being in this city he hinted at automobile deals that might amount to a considerable amount of money. He would appear to be ready to buy cars in Hilo, fit them out as jitney busses and take them over to Maui, there to establish lines of jitneys similar to those in existence in Hilo. Antone Garcia, of Wailuku, Maui, has started business along these lines and he has a couple of machines already in action. His particular field is from Wailuku to Kahului and he has made a cut rate on the ride. Do Rego has ideas of starting something of the same kind and he may extend the scheme to Paia. While in this city the Maui man was the guest of J. G. Serrao and he made several trips of the outside districts. Being also a horse dealer, the Mauian is keeping his eye out for likely animals. Garcia picked up a bunch of horses on this island a few weeks ago and he made a good profit on them when he sold them on Maui. Do Rego would not mind looking over a likely bunch of quadrupeds in the same way if anyone has a few to sell.—Hawaii Herald.

Katsunuma, popular official at the federal immigration station.

A class of about a dozen men has been formed at the Gymnasium under the direction of the new director, L. R. Mathews, the first meeting being held last Wednesday evening. Maui Theaters

The big 5-reel features at the Valley Isle this week have been: "Beulah," "Are You a Mason?" and "M'Liss." Next week commencing with Monday the following will be the bills with some possible alterations in case the features are held back in Honolulu to further satisfy the demands of the Honolulu movie fans: "Pretty Mrs. Smith," "The Fairy and the Waif," "Jack Chanty," and "The Lone Star Rush," all captivating five-reel features of unusual interest. The greatest attraction of next week will be great five-reel spectacles of "Damon and Pythias," at the Valley Isle Theatre only, next Tuesday, September 21. The reels will arrive here next Tuesday morning from Honolulu and will be played in the evening under the auspices of the local Knights of Pythias, and on Wednesday afternoon it will be shipped to the Gaiety Theatre, Hilo, for a run of several days. Four hundred years before the dawn of the Christian era, the immortal drama of Damon and Pythias was created and ever since that eventful day the drama has lived and grown in popular favor in all countries wherever the order is established. According to advance posters, the following may be mentioned: "Spectacular, stirring, gripping are its scenes; with its colossal groupings, classic dances, games, the thrill of the chariot race, battles upon land and sea, cities built and destroyed, and through all these most stirring scenes, with dramatic fire and touch of sentiment, runs the story of human friendship which has lived for ages as the grandest and loveliest story ever told of the tie that binds, almost equalling the grandeur of the story of the Cross."

GRASS EXPERT VISITS MAUI.

Last week Mr. C. A. Sahr, of the Hawaii Experiment Station staff was on Maui. He traveled over the Hana, Haiku, Kula, and Lahaina districts. Mr. Sahr had not before been on Maui, and his trip was for the purpose of familiarizing himself with the country. He has been connected with the station at Honolulu for a number of years, working with field crops, especially the grasses. As a result of the try-outs of a large number of grasses which he has made he is in a position to give definite advice to those who wish to get land into grass as to what grasses are best for their conditions. As everyone knows the staff at the Station in Honolulu is always ready to help the farmer in any way within its power, and it is believed that coming in direct contact with the people and becoming perfectly familiar with the country, as Mr. Sahr has on this trip, will enable him to increase his usefulness.

Automobile Ordinance Being Drafted For Maui

A new automobile ordinance is being drafted by County Attorney Bevin and Inspector of Chauffeurs P. J. Goodness, to be acted upon by the next meeting of the board of supervisors. Under the proposed ordinance a better regulation will be had of cars and drivers in the rent service, than now obtains. A yearly registration of all cars is also provided for. It is also proposed among other things, to require suitable dimming of head lights to prevent the danger of collision from blinding by powerful lights. Because there is no record of examination of chauffeurs except recently, it is also proposed to require a re-examination or registering of all persons now driving machines in the county.

Partridge, wife of the field superintendent of the Haiku Fruit & Packing Company, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury, when her machine overturned on a sharp turn in the road. Mrs. Partridge had her infant child with her at the time, which also escaped injury.
