

Cooper Slayer Saves His Neck

John Ginza, Confessed Murderer, Is Allowed To Plead Guilty To Second Degree Murder—Insanity Defense Is Feared

To clear the criminal calendar of the circuit court, it was necessary to have only two jury trials, and one of these was an appeal case from the district court. Most of the defendants pleaded guilty, among whom was John Ginza, the confessed slayer of George Cooper of Hana.

Attorney Murphy was appointed as counsel for the Japanese, and he offered to have his client enter a plea of murder in the second degree. County Attorney Bevins agreed to accept this plea, which was done. Almost immediately Judge Edgington sentenced Ginza to life imprisonment in the Onahu prison. Ginza was taken to Honolulu to begin serving his sentence the following day.

The acceptance of a plea of second degree murder was something of a surprise, as it was thought that the county attorney would refuse to accept it. Also, some believed that Ginza's attorney would make an insanity defense. It was partly on account of the belief that it would be impossible to secure a conviction of first degree murder, that Ginza was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge, it is said. The physicians who examined Ginza, it was thought, would have testified that it was possible his brain had been affected when he was a child by a hard fall. The Japanese has a large cavity in his forehead as the result of the fall.

Ginza killed the Hana bookkeeper a little over a month ago after lying in wait for him all night. His motive was a five year old grudge over a small sum of money of which he thought he had been defrauded.

Francis B. White, an American of Dutch descent, who before his arrest for passing forged writing posed as a federal inspector of hulls and boilers, plead guilty and was sentenced to six months imprisonment and to pay a fine of twenty dollars.

Julio Santos and Antone Garcia, a Spaniard and Porto Rican, who had a knife and razor fight, were both fined fifty dollars, after pleading guilty to assault.

The first criminal jury trial was of Frank Mendes, a Filipino indicted for having sexual intercourse with a Punoene Portuguese girl under fifteen years of age. The trial occupied most of Monday, during which one of the small sensations was the reading of a letter which the mother had written to the defendant. The Filipino was found guilty and sentenced to not less than three years imprisonment.

In the appeal case of Ten York, charged with having opium in his possession, the appeal was dismissed and the fine of $100 upheld.

Work Is Started On Fair Grounds

Work has been started on the construction of the stalls for the livestock and the coops for the poultry exhibits at the fair grounds. T. Burtlem is in charge of the construction work and has already built about sixty stalls. He will also begin the construction of a number of tables for the use of other exhibitors in the tents and buildings.

At the meeting of the fair committee held yesterday afternoon, Dr. Fitzgerald stated that thirteen cups for awards to the exhibitors of livestock had already been secured, and that he expected to get a number of others. The cups will all be similar in design, and will have the names of the donors inscribed on them.

The veterinary also stated that he had received definite assurance from Manager Carter that the Parker ranch would have an exhibit at the Maui county show. This will consist principally of white face cattle, it is thought.

It is estimated that with both the Maui and Hawaii live stock exhibitions that 150 stall will be needed on the fair grounds.

Manager Cameron is in Honolulu this week, where he is reserving space for the Honolulu exhibitors who want to be represented at the Maui fair.

Dr. Raymond Is "Stumping" Molokai

Dr. J. H. Raymond, the lone Democratic candidate for election as senator from this island, is making a campaign trip to Molokai this week. He went to the settlement at Kalapapa on the Mikahala yesterday, where he expected to remain for about two hours. Last night he intended to go to Halawa and today to address meetings at Wailua and Pukoo. Tomorrow evening he will speak in the Pioneer theatre in Lahaina.

Hawaii As New York Knows It

Things Hawaiian as interpreted by New York show producers is typically evidenced in a program of the Empire theatre of that city, which has recently been sent to J. Garcia, by a friend who is visiting the metropolis. In the fifteenth scene of a musical comedy show it is claimed that the "set" is to represent "Wakala, Hawaii." Some of the music numbers are as wonderful as is this new spelling of Waikiki. Among these are the following: "Hulu Hulu Dancers, A Hawaiian Hans, Wakaki Billie, Vilani Luke and Dancing to a Ukalahi Band." That "Ukalahi Luke" ought to be almost as wonderful a treat for the people of the metropolis as is the "Ukalahi Band."

Republican Rally Is Well Attended

Kuhio, Breckons and Smith Make Characteristic Party Talks To Tentative Wailuku Crowd—Raymond's Defeat Urged By Speakers

While there were no great outbursts of enthusiasm, even when Prince Kuhio was speaking, the attendance at the Republican rally held in the Valley Isle theatre last Tuesday night was large, and an attentive interest in the words of the speakers was shown. Prince Kuhio, W. O. Smith and R. W. Breckons were the speakers. On the platform during the meeting were all of the Maui candidates. They were the candidates for election as senator Harry Baldwin and George Cooke, and the representative candidates, Waiohole, Brown, Joseph, Walsh, Paschoal and Tavares.

A touch of oratory was added to the meeting by the introductory remarks of W. R. Crockett, who acted as chairman. Charles Wilcox was Hawaiian interpreter for the English speakers. None of the local candidates made talks, although it was announced that they would address a Wailuku meeting before the campaign was over.

Smith was the first speaker and he devoted himself to advising that the islands continue to elect members of the party which has always stood for a high protective tariff for sugar—upon which, he said, the industrial life of Hawaii depended. He made it a point, he said, of wanting protection carried to such an extent that even the small industries would be developed. Smith declared it wrong to believe the sugar tariff was only for the good of the sugar plantation men. "It effects you and everyone of us," he affirmed.

Attorney Breckons awoke interest by telling the crowd a story or two and by cutting apologies regarding the Democratic party and its policies. "Thank God For Wilson," was his battle cry, which he called a text. He admitted that he had taken the text from the Democratic speakers on Oahu, but that his interpretation of it was quite different. He referred to the policy of the United States in Mexico and the Lusitania sinking with a

License Transfer Is Granted Today

At a session of the Maui Liquor License Commissioners today in the Town Hall, the transfer of the Ah Nim restaurant license at Waihei to Ah Hu was approved, after a hearing. This was after an agreement had been reached between W. R. Crockett, administrator of the Ah Nim estate, who also applied for a transfer. Ah Hu's application was for another license. The agreement between the administrator and Ah Hu is understood to have been the payment of $170 to the estate for the liquor now in stock.

The Grand Hotel made application for the privilege of keeping an ice chest with beer on the lawn of the hotel, from which customers could be served at the tables in the yard. The commissioners frowned upon the application, making it plain they did not favor serving liquor away from the hotel building. The Grand Hotel then withdrew its application, before the request was voted upon.

W. A. BALDWIN IS LOW BIDDER ON ROAD CONTRACT

W. A. Baldwin was the lowest bidder for the construction of the Haiku-Pauwela-Kuiaha-Kapakalua road this morning, when the bids were opened in the office of the loan fund commission. His bid was $3,350; time fifty days. The other bids were as follows: Hugh Howell Engineering Company, $4,980; time seventy-five days; J. C. Posa Jr., $4,350; time ninety days; J. A. Ahleon, $6,215; time seventy days. The engineers' estimate was that it would take seventy-five days to complete the work. The length of the road to be constructed is 350 yards.

"Roosters" Will Crow For Maui

So-Called "Ad Club" Adjunct Of Chamber Of Commerce Is Organized To Noisily Boost For This Island—First Appearance At Fair Banquet

"Maui Roosters" is to be the suggestive if not phonetic name of the jollification and noise making adjunct of the Maui Chamber of Commerce in the future, according to a decision which was reached last night when the organization came into life at the home of D. H. Case, where most of the members of the Maui civic delegation met to organize.

Every since the Hilo trip, the more youthful and exuberant members of the Chamber of Commerce have felt that Maui should have a "yell section." For like of a better name, it has been referred to as the "Ad Club Section," as it was hoped to rival the Honolulu organization of that name, when it came to making a noise and having a good time.

At the meeting last night the suggestion met with hearty approval of all, and steps were taken at once to draw up a set of by-laws and to organize. It was also decided to appear in full uniform at the Maui County Fair banquet on November 9th, and "make a noise."

The by-laws, while semi-humorous in tone, give an idea of the intentions, a designs and purposes of the "Roosters." The by-laws are given below:

Name: Maui Roosters.

Object: To boost Hawaii in general, and Maui in particular.

Pledge: Every Rooster chosen by the Maui Chamber of Commerce as a delegate to the Annual Civic Conventions pledges himself to attend all regular sessions of the Convention and crow first, last and all the time for Hawaii and Maui.

Officers: A Dictator, Assistant Dictator, Musical Director, Confidence Man, Ink Slinger, and Office Boy.

Membership: Only members of the Maui Chamber of Commerce, who sympathize with the Roosters and pay one dollar into the Treasury, shall be eligible to membership.

Applications: Must be in writing, contain a copy of these by-laws, signed by the applicant pledging support to same, and endorsed by at least five members.

Meetings: Both regular and irregular, upon call of the Dictator, or on demand of ten members.

Quorum: A quorum shall consist of one or more officers and any number of the ho! polie!

Funds: All funds shall be handled with care.

Mrs. S. D. Heapy Has Passed Away

Mrs. S. D. Heapy, well known and well beloved by many Maui residents, passed away suddenly at the Queen's hospital in Honolulu last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Heapy came to Maui about twenty years ago with her son Stafford, her father, J. A. Moore, at one time principal of the Union School, and her sister. She lived here a number of years and until after the death of her father, when she removed to Honolulu.

For many years she was the matron of the Kallani Home for girls in Honolulu, but recently she has been teaching at Mana, Kauai, where she was taken ill and afterwards taken to Honolulu for treatment. News of her death came as surprise to her Maui friends, for she was always apparently in robust health, in spite of her advanced age, who was between sixty-five and seventy years.

A wireless was received this morning by Rev. Dodge from her son, that luku cemetery on Sunday afternoon at the body would be interred in the Wailuku cemetery on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, as it was her wish that she be buried beside her father and sister, who both have last resting places in the Wailuku burial grounds.

Miss Clemens Making Haleakala Crater Tour

Miss Mildred Leo Clemens, the cousin of the late Mark Twain, the humorist, is making a six-day horse back trip over and around Haleakala. She is accompanied by Young Walker, the guide, of Paia. She started on her trip last Thursday morning and intended spending one night at the Haleakala rest house and then going through the crater to Kaupo. From there she will come back to central Maui by the way of Hana and Nahiku over the ditch trail. Before starting on the east Maui trip, Miss Clemens was for several days the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walsh at Kahului.

Banker Not Sure Of Hughes' Victory

Far from convinced that the Republican candidate for president is sure of election, C. D. Lufkin, cashier of the Wailuku National Bank has returned from two months and a half tour of the United States.

The banker was asked: "Did you come back convinced that Hughes would be the next president?" Enigmatically, he answered: "I wish I were." Afterwards, Lufkin said that he felt sure the presidential race would be very close, with the results still very much in doubt.

Mrs. Lufkin did not return with her husband from the states and will not do so for another month or two. She is in the east.

Tuna Club Plans For Its Opening

Commodious And Convenient Quarters At Kihei Will Be Meeting Place For Sportsmen From All Over The World—Has Sixty Members

The Hawaii Tuna Club will formerly be the Barracuda Lodge on November 1st, in ample time to get everything in running order to accommodate local members and the many visiting devotees of rod and reel who are booked to arrive from the mainland and England for their favorite sport in Hawaiian waters.

Barracuda Lodge is the new home of the Hawaii Tuna Club, at Kihei, in the center of the famous Molokini voters and formerly the manager's residence of the Kihel plantation. It is a well built house, with a wide cemented approach, located in fine grounds, from which a magnificent view of Haleakala, the West Maui mountains and a wide expanse of water is obtained.

The house contains a number of large, airy bedrooms, with closets, bath room and showers, kitchen and three pantries and servants' quarters. The club room and dining room extend the whole length of the house. There is also a ten foot veranda on three sides of the building.

The dwelling stands a short distance back from the wharf and within easy access of the beach, which is considered one of the finest in the territory. A start has already been made to lay out the grounds in an artistic manner.

The club home has been completely screened, and a number of changes made in the interior which will greatly add to the comfort of the guests. The rooms have been newly furnished throughout, and the club room made most attractive, the latest periodicals and other paraphernalia for the sportsman's enjoyment. The culinary department will receive particular attention, fish dinners being made a specialty. The wide verandas will be utilized for sleeping quarters, which, with the regular bedrooms, will provide sleeping accommodations for twenty members.

There will be power launches, sampans and other boats always on hand at the pier at Kihei, for the convenience.

Will Honor New Regimental Officer

A banquet is to be given this evening at the Maui Hotel in honor of F. F. Baldwin, who has just been commissioned colonel of the 3rd Regiment, N. G. H., to succeed Harry Baldwin who recently resigned. To make the appointment, Brigadier General Johnson paid a visit to the Maui regiment this week.

The banquet is also to be in the nature of a reception for Capt. A. R. Harbold of the United States Army, who has been detailed to duty with the militia regiment on this island. Capt. Harbold is married and has three sons. His family will come to Wailuku to live as soon as he can get a suitable home.

Fifty covers are to be laid for the banquet tonight. All the guests, will be the commissioned officers of the National Guard on Maui. The banquet will be served in the new banquet hall of the Maui Hotel.

WIDOW GETS INSURANCE

By a directed verdict, it was held in the circuit court yesterday that a life insurance of $1,700 should be paid to Mrs. Maria Carvalho, by a Honolulu Portuguese benevolent society. The litigation arose because the adult children of her deceased husband, by a former wife, had claimed the insurance because she was living apart from her husband at the time of his death. It was not proven at the trial that this was through any fault of hers. D. H. Case represented the widow and Attorney Murphy the children of the deceased. A. D. Castro of Honolulu came to Wailuku to also represent the society.
