AT THE THEATERS

"The Trouble Buster"
"Little Miss Merry," the rollicking, mischievous, optimistic little girl who draws you to the theater every time her name appears on the boards, will be with you again in her latest photoplay triumph, "The Trouble Buster."

You know her, everybody knows her—Vivian Martin needs no introduction. She is firmly established in the hearts of the amusement lovers of America. Remember her previous triumphs? You can't forget such success as "Her Father's Son," "The Right Direction," "The Wax Model," "The Girl at Home," "Little Miss Optimist" and "The Sunset Trail," and with "The Trouble Buster" she's going to break right into the middle of your heart. A masterful combination of pathos, laughter and charm with the sweetest little star in motion pictures. Vivian Martin, the girl with personality plus, shows us all how well a young lady can get along in the regalia of the sterner sex. Just take another glance at the exhibition date and be on hand. If you miss "The Trouble Buster" you'll have the supreme pleasure of listening to your friends talk about a fine picture in which Vivian Martin wears boy's clothes—has all kinds of trouble and fun and finishes up with a firm and tighter grip on her admirer—Orpheum, Saturday next.

Theda Bara in "Heart and Soul"
Theda Bara in "Heart and Soul," a special super de luxe William Fox photodrama will be shown at the Orpheum theater on Monday. The photoplay is founded on Sir Rider Haggard's book "Jess" and is filled with thrilling action throughout.

The story tells of Jess (Theda Bara) who when a child is taken by her mother to the Hawaiian sugar plantation of her uncle. Her little sister, Bess, goes with her. Enroute the mother dies and exacts a promise from Jess that she will always look out for the welfare of her younger sister Bess.

When the girl grows to young womanhood Bess is wooed by Martin Drummond a cruel planter and renegade whose estates border on that of the girl's uncle. Bess spurns him hoping to win the love of John Niehl, a young American. Niehl pays little attention to her as his love is for Jess.

Jess learns of her sister's love for Niehl and recalling her vow to her dying mother she leaves home to overcome her own heartbreak, leaving Bess and Niehl to know each other better.

Bess still burning Drummond is captured by the latter who has started a revolution against the United States Government. Niehl goes to rescue her but is wounded and captured. With Jess he escapes and they make their way back to her home only to find it in the hands of Drummond.

Jess faces a crisis. Should she care for the wounded man she loves or go to her sister and rival? Duty to her oath wins. She rides to a distant fort and brings a detachment of United States soldiers to the rescue. Niehl meantime has been captured again by Drummond and with the girl's uncle, ordered shot.

Just as the firing squad is about to shoot, Jess returns with the American troopers. Drummond mad with hate, fires into the charging soldiers. Jess falls and is taken to the house dying. She places Bess' hand in Niehl's and tells him to look after her little sister. She dies smiling.

Drummond is later slain by a slave boy whose hate he had earned by his cruelty.

Devotes Her Life to Righting Father's Wrong
Dedicating her life and her fortune to making right a wrong done her native town seventeen years before by her father, a noble-minded young woman is fought at every turn by hatred of her very name which has lasted all these years. Aided only by the young minister and a few friends, she finally sees love and charity triumph in "An Alabaster Box," the Greater Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, which will be the attraction in the Wailuku theater on Sunday.

This tragically human story of a village of hate was written by two of the most famous woman authors in the country, Mary E. Wilkins Freeman and Florence Morse Kingsley, and is given by a cast of exceptional strength made up of Alice Joyce, Marc MacDermott, Harry Ham Patsy de Forrest, and Frank Crane.

"The Pinch Hitter", Stars Charles Ray
"A Corking baseball play" is the way Rozeman Bulger, baseball expert of the New York World, describes "The Pinch Hitter," a Triangle picture produced under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince and starring Charles Ray, which will be exhibited at Wailuku theater Friday next.

Sessue Hayakawa in "The Call of the East"
The allurements of far-away Japan—the strange call of the East—the ancestral traditions and weird customs of the great nation of little brown men who are heeding the call of the West—but always with the deep laid customs of old Pippin buried beneath the Western veneer—the story of a great love, a tale of longing, suffering, and ultimate happiness, a tremendous story of the West and East, the finest, strongest photoproduction that the great Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa, has ever appeared in—that's what you will see when "The Call of the East" is thrown on the screen at this theater. Wailuku Orpheum Wednesday, next.—Advt.
