"TWO EQUAL THINGS"

"Two things which are equal to the same thing are equal to each other." No rodent steals from this country's resources enough to count at all in the total. Yet all the rats together steal annually to the extent of $200,000,000. No rat gives back in any form of service, the value of his theft. He is only and solely a pest.

No hoarder steals from this country's food supply enough to make a difference in the total. Yet enough hoarders could play havoc with our food supply, defeat the Allies, and wound the honor of a country that has said it will keep enough at home to feed its own people. The hoarder does not give back, in any form of patriotism, the value of this theft. He is only and solely a slacker.

AT THE THEATERS

Mabel Taliaferro in "Draft 258," Cabanne's Sequel to "The Slacker"

—Seven Parts

William Christy Cabanne, whom you remember as the author and director of "The Slacker," featuring Emily Stevens, has produced another special feature for the Metro program titled "Draft 258." It presents a theme that holds an interest for all—old and young. The title suggests the theme. It is not any better, but it is just as good as Mr. Cabanne's production of "The Slacker" which was highly commended by critics and public alike. Mabel Taliaferro, the accomplished little actress who has furnished entertainment for the millions on the speaking stage and who has been seen on the screen in some of Metro's best productions, is in the featured role. Walter Miller, who played opposite Miss Stevens as "the slacker" in the picture of the same title has the principal male role opposite Miss Taliaferro in "Draft 258." Others in the supporting cast are: Eale Brunswick, Eugene Borden, Sun Balfour, William H. Tooker, Camilla Dalberg, Baby Ivy Ward, Sidney D'Albrook, Robert Anderson and Edwin Boring. Miss Taliaferro presents the role of Mary Alden who lives with her mother and two brothers. She, one of her brothers, and her sweetheart, John Graham, are employed in a department store. Mary is a true patriot. Matthew, her brother, is a "soap-box orator," and in his speeches he argues against the Government's action in declaring war. He is discharged from the store. He is urged to enlist but scoffs at the idea. When the draft numbers are announced, George Alden, Mary's other brother, holds the first number "258" and fails to report for examination. Mary goes herself and tries to enlist in his place.

What happens to her two brothers and how they are made the best patriots by Mary is told in this most interesting war drama. At the Maui theaters next week.

Delightful Marguerite Clark as Bab Archibald is a somewhat hoydenish schoolgirl who greatly resents the privileges allowed her only slightly older sister,—just because she is a mere twenty months older and a "debutante."

Resolving to marry Leila her sister off at any cost, she proceeds to spoil any chance Leila might have had in a strange and extremely humorous manner. She is not often allowed to go to the theater and it is not strange that on going with some of her schoolmates she should fancy herself in love with the leading man.

Hearing that the play is failing, Bab calls in the aid of her old friend and standby, Carter Brooks. He is a publicity man, and after thinking a few moments conceals the following plan. Adrian, the leading man, shall apply to Bab's father for a position in his factory, repeating one of the lines from the play, "the world owes me a living and I must have it." Her father will forcibly throw him out and the actor and the play will be brought into the newspapers as Brooks will arrange to have plenty of reporters present.

How the plan is carried out and would have succeeded had not an English nobleman come at the time appointed to ask Bab's father's permission to marry Leila, and been forcibly thrown out, while the actor was made to spend a whole day at hard manual labor, makes a situation of unusual fun and interest.

"Molly Entangled" is a story of flowing hay-fields, spreading shade trees, cooing doves and the love of a colleen for her brawny "broth of a boy." It is a happy tale filled with Irish wit, Irish joviality and good fellowship. It was Vivian Martin's Irish blue eyes and open smile that won for her the part of "Molly." As we see the picture unfold, we feel it must have been such girls as "Molly" who caused the Irish to write so many beautiful melodies.

Although he tries his best to be a villain, G. S. Spaulding in the part of "Jim Barry," turns out to be a hero at the end of the play. It is he who unites "Molly" and her strapping "Barney" for better or for worse. It is he who relieves the pain and anguish she has been suffering as the result of a wedding pronounced by a priest at the hour of midnight.

But, you will have to see dainty Vivian Martin in the part to really enjoy it.—Adv't.

---an individual car

To the very smallest detail, the Chevrolet reflects the ideals of the makers to produce a really high-grade car at a popular price.

That the Chevrolet is more commonly compared with cars selling at much higher prices is justification for the conscientious effort of its manufacturer.

The new model Chevrolet "Four Ninety" Touring Car and Roadster, attain a standard of excellence uncommon of cars at these prices. This is a claim we would be delighted to prove—we could ask no greater favor than to do so.

Would you have a good-looking car? The Chevrolet has it in full measure. Would you have strength? Vanadium steel is used wherever unusual strength is required. Would you have comfort? Proper spring suspension together with comfortable upholstery and roominess meet your comfort-wishes to the fullest degree. Would you have power and low upkeep? The wonderful valve-in-head motor with which each Chevrolet is equipped provides power in excess of ordinary requirement or emergency; and the direct-application-of-power principle insures maximum power on minimum fuel. Twenty-five miles per gallon is a common thing for this Chevrolet. And the car is fully equipped.

Suppose you let us demonstrate that we have not overstated Chevrolet quality.
