YANKS TAKE GERMANS BY RUSE

American Army on Marne, July 31—Germans attempted to advance against the Americans last night and this morning but attacks were fruitless. The German lines are gradually giving way on both right and left flanks. Hard fighting continues. The Americans pretended to be retiring from the town of Serings, and the Germans advanced 2 companies. The Americans closed in and surrounded Germans and killed or captured every man. High explosive and gas shells sprayed German lines over a wide area.

Washington, July 31—General March told newspaper men that the Allies' sole object on the Soissons-Reims salient was now to kill as many Germans as possible. The German aim is the same. Whatever objective either side had at the start has now been submerged by developments. The salient is greatly flattened by German withdrawal since Saturday. The length of the line has been reduced by 10 miles and is now 54 miles long. The maximum German retreat to date is 14 miles.

WHAT THE WAR IS COSTING

American war expense is now 50 percent higher than England's individual burden. Taxation in America is half of British. Monthly cost of war to America is about $1,500,000,000 and British $1,000,000,000. American war debt is under $12,500,000,000, while that of British is nearly $37,000,000,000. American population is double that of England.

AT THE THEATERS

George Beban in "Jules of the Strong Heart"—Story of Lumber Camp

George Beban, famous for his characterizations of Italian and other foreign parts is to be seen on the screen of the Wailuku Orpheum Saturday in "Jules of the Strong Heart." Mr. Beban is known to every patron of motion picture theaters. In this he presents the role of Jules Lemaire, a happy-go-lucky French Canadian.

In the supporting cast with Mr. Beban are seen Helen Eddy, Charles Ogle, Raymond Hatton, Guy Oliver, Ernest Joy, H. B. Carpenter and Edward Martin. Jules Lemaire arrives at the camp of the Nemo Lumber Company in the heart of the Canadian woods. He carries with him a little two-year-old baby, and, to all inquiries concerning same, he gives an evasive answer. Tom Farnsworth is boss of the camp, and disliked by the lumberjacks. His daughter, Joy, is the favorite among the members of the camp. Big Jim Burgess is in love with her, as are Kendall, the timekeeper, and Jules himself. The three clash over the girl, and there follows a time of excitement in the Nemo lumber camp. Jules is the favorite of Joy's and in "Jules of the Strong Heart," who will witness the adventures and love romances of men of the lumber camp.

George Walsh Fights and Smiles in Typical Feature, "The Yankee Way"

George Walsh, he of the winning smile, and Enid Markey, known favorably to all picture fans, occupy the leading roles in the Fox production "The Yankee Way." Literally as well as figuratively the picture starts with a "punch." Dick Mason putting a forcible end to the annoyances a girl is having in a restaurant, through the flirtation of a hoodlum.

As a result, Mason spends a night in jail, and his father, in anger, exiles him to the Balkan kingdom of Lithuania. On shipboard Dick discovers the girl of his adventure and his interest in the trip mounts.

When Dick arrives in far-off Lithuania he goes immediately to see Count Vortsky, the Minister of Finance, who has been carrying on a plot with the Bulgarian Ambassador. Vortsky only awaits word from Col. Mason's representative—his sons that he will sell. Dick agrees to give his final decision in the council room next day in the presence of the Princess Alexia, ruler of Lithuania.

Dick discovers that the Princess is no other than the girl of the cabaret. Vortsky, to whom the Princess is engaged, stirs up a revolution, but Dick and a few able Chicago assistants commence a counter movement which wins the day—and the Princess—for himself. Wailuku Orpheum Monday.

Jack Pickford in Judge Willis Brown's Story, "The Spirit of '17"

Jack Pickford, whose latest achievements before in the camera in "Tom Sawyer," "The Varmint" and others, have won for him a place of highest regard in the minds of the picture-going public, is to be seen on the screen of the Wailuku Orpheum on Wednesday of next week, in "The Spirit of '17," written by Judge Willis Brown, and directed by Julia Crawford Ivers and William S. Taylor. Judge Willis Brown is noted throughout the country for his excellent work in the juvenile courts of Chicago.

The story deals with the subject of labor disturbances originated by German agents and quelled by a mere boy and a handful of Civil War veterans. Jack Pickford presents the role of Davy Glidden, son of Superintendent Glidden of the Old Soldiers' Home.

Mrs. John Edwards and her daughter, Flora, arrive at the Home to pay Mrs. Glidden a visit. Davy has long worshiped Flora, and rejoices over the arrival. The Captain tells stories of the German spies to Davy. Davy's suspicions are aroused by the actions of two men sulking about in the vicinity of the mine. A little later he sees an aeroplane rise from the spot where he had seen the men. He tells the Captain. The Captain recognizes the men as Carl Bender and Frank Sehmale, two who have posed as Swiss citizens, but who are in reality German spies. His adventures in rounding up the spies and defeating their purpose are related by this most interesting picture.

At the Wailuku Orpheum on Wednesday of next week.

"The Wild Strain"

The only daughter of prim, sedate parents—and then playing truant for an evening to take the bareback rider's place when Colonel Bull's "greatest circus in earth" played the town!

But that was with the way with Winifred Hollywood—always setting the town by the ears, and fairly scandalizing her righteous parents. And when she rode away one night, rode hard after adventure and romance when most of the town was sleeping, and entered "Pete's Chapel"—that shady resort not to be mentioned in the same breath with the name of a Hollywood—then things did begin to happen. But it was grim necessity that impelled her—to foil a gang of bank robbers—and for love. In this dramatic photoplay by Geo. Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester, the passing events keep one in breathless suspense as to just what is around the corner.—Adv't.
