Guild In Prison Works In Garden And Is Better

Reports From Honolulu Say That Defalcations Exceed Million Dollars and Total Not Yet Known

John Guild, formerly secretary and director of Alexander & Baldwin and honored member of the business and social communities of Honolulu is now No. E-512 in the Oahu penitentiary. He is employed in garden work and his physical condition is reported as improved.

Events have moved rapidly in the Guild business tragedy. On Friday afternoon of last week the grand jury found two true bills of indictment against him, one for embezzling bonds from the Episcopal Church and the other for embezzling $37,000 from Alexander & Baldwin in 1917. On Saturday morning Guild was taken before Judge Banks and pleaded guilty to both indictments. He was sentenced to serve in the Oahu penitentiary at hard labor two terms of not less than five nor more than ten years, to run consecutively. This would mean that with allowance for good behavior he may be released in between seven and eight years, if he lives to finish his sentence.

Dramatic Court Seen

As reported on Saturday by the Associated Press the scene in court was highly dramatic. Shortly after 9 o'clock Guild entered the judicial building supported by J. J. Balch and G. G. Kinney. When Judge Banks entered he strove to rise but the judge, noticing his condition told him he might sit. Assistant Prosecutor Stafford read the indictment charging embezzlement from the church and in reply to the query of the court: "You have heard the reading of the indictment, are you guilty or not guilty?" He replied: "I'm guilty," and repeated the words a second time. Then was read the indictment charging embezzlement of $37,000 from Alexander & Baldwin. The same question was propounded and Guild replied again, "I'm guilty," stressing the word guilty.

Plea For Leniency

Then E. M. Watson, counsel for Guild made a plea for leniency in which he said in part: "This defendant was a friend of every man, woman and child in this community and I am informed that any sentence you may pronounce will be his death sentence." He then presented to the court the certificate of two physicians and asked Judge Banks to read it and make it a part of the record. He continued: "The defendant has made all possible reparation and turned over all the property he had to the losers, every piece of real estate and every cent of money.

He has performed, perhaps more charitable acts than any other individual in this community, acts of word and deed as well as gifts of money, always treating others with kindness and giving freely of his time.

"I can't explain; I can't attempt to explain.

"He has afforded the company every possible aid in tracing the shortages. I ask the court to extend any leniency it may see to be proper."

Attorney Stafford then said that there are still $7000 of bonds belonging to the church unaccounted for that might be found. As to the embezzlement from the company the figures were colossal, approximately $750,000. Only one indictment had been secured for such offenses though more than a hundred might have been; it was desired not to clutter the records. He explained Guild's system. First at the office, last to leave, working Sunday mornings, having duplicates of the stationery and blanks of the other offices, retyping them to suit his necessity in covering up the peculations he was responsible for which could only have been done by a man trusted as was he. He said that three of the church bonds that had been traced were not the bonds originally purchased by it.

Judge Pronounces Sentence

Judge Banks then said in part: "I fear every much the weight of responsibility the law places upon me. There is the dual responsibility to the community and the man accused. The law must be stern but must never be inhuman. Many things must be taken into consideration in pronouncing sentence, but nothing has been shown this court to call for leniency. There was no justification; there was not that temptation that comes to persons in poverty or distress; he was not the victim of bad environment. His crimes were premeditated and carried out with consummate skill. This is one of the most terrible deeds in the history of this community." He then pronounced sentence.

Sorry Spectacle

In court Guild presented a spectacle of abject moral and physical weakness. His hands trembled like leaves in the breeze, his eyes were red and swollen and he wept and sobbed his body from time to time.

After sentence he was taken from the room supported as he entered and put in a car with Arthur McDuffie, chief of detectives and driven to Kalia. He paused as he walked up

Bailey Out And Walsh Stays In

Important Changes Enter Into the Primary Election Campaign As Time For Filing Draws Near End

Charley Bailey will not be a candidate for member of the house of representatives. J. J. Walsh has not yet filed his nomination papers as a candidate for short term senator but said this morning that he would do so soon. Antonio de Rego was talking yesterday of filing nomination papers for short term senator. Guy Goodness will probably not be a candidate for representative. These are the outstanding phases of the political situation.

Practically ever since Bailey first announced his intention to be a candidate there were made efforts to persuade him not to and those efforts were redoubled after the resolution of the board of supervisors asking resignations from candidates before the primaries. He is regarded as one of the best road supervisors that any district in Maui has ever had and he was wanted where he is. Lahaina is well pleased with what he has done and those who use the Lahaina district roads want him to stay, especially while work is being done on the Lahaina side of the Pali road. Among those who urged him to retain his present office was Manager A. W. Collins of Pioneer Mill Company. Sunday at the ball game Bailey said he had altered his determination and would not make the race.

Reports as to the candidacy of J. J. Walsh have been bandied back and forth merrily in Wailuku for several days past. It was said that he had finally determined not to file and thus make the race a three cornered one, and such report was contradicted, only to be reasserted. This morning when called up at the Kahului Store and asked how his campaign was going, he replied: "Fine," to the query as to whether he had filed his papers came the reply given in the opening paragraph of this article.

Bailey's retirement lends encouragement to several of the many candidates for representative for he was admittedly one of the strongest in the bunch of contenders. There are reports that Levi Joseph will give up the race but no confirmation of such report could be secured about the court house this morning and Joseph is at his duties on Molokai.

If Antonio de Rego shall file for the senate as a Republican it will bring a fourth element into the present contest from Peruvia J. Goodness, L. Ben Kaumeheua and J. J. Walsh in which more interest centers than any other phase of the election.

Ford Denies Coal Shortage But Won't Pay Trebled Price

DETROIT, Aug. 29—Henry Ford said today that the closing down of the Ford plant on September 16th, would inaugurate the first protest against coal profiteering. Ford declared that he feels he is doing the manufacturers and workers a real service and denies there is a real coal shortage. He stated that coal brokers possessing an enormous supply have formed a company and that he is able to obtain enough coal for a hundred acres if he pays the price. Ford said the offices are flooded with offers of delivery at a hundred to 300 percent above normal.

Saturday the Ford Motor Company announced that all plants would close on September 16th owing to the lack of coal. The shut down affects upwards of 50,000 workers in the three Ford plants and, indirectly, several hundred thousands throughout the country. Assembling plants will also be closed making the total of Ford employees thrown out of employment 85,000. Others affected are concerns dependants on Ford orders.

BONUS BILL FIRST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—Enactment of the former service men's bonus bill before adjournment tomorrow is planned by the Republican senate leaders, it was announced last night.

to the prison gate and tears flooded from his eyes.

Figures Still Increase

From other than Associated Press sources it is reported that the audit of Alexander & Baldwin's books show that Guild's peculations are in excess of a million dollars and the end has not been reached yet.

He concealed his speculations and losses by telling brokers that the accounts were for clients of Alexander & Baldwin, thus concealing also the true reason for his using the checks of the firm for the accounts he opened. He is said to have dealt with all of the Honolulu brokerage concerns except two.

Other reports say that Guild went wrong in Scotland, was assisted out of his plight and sent to the West Indies where he went wrong again before coming to the Islands.

HONOLULU, Aug. 28—The buying by The Bank of Hawaii from the Bishop estate the mauka-ewa corner at Bishop and King Streets, now occupied by the Bishop Park auto stand for a consideration of $250,000, closed one of the biggest downtown real estate deals that has been consummated here for some time.

The property purchased extends 110 feet on each street, and the price paid is equivalent to $20.66 a square foot. President Cooke said that the property is at present under lease and that it may be five years before the new bank building is started, but there is a possibility that it will be put up at an earlier date.

The property extends along King St., from Bishop to the alley or private right-of-way on the waikiki side of the Hawaiian Trust building, and 110 feet on Bishop St., opposite the Young hotel.

Hapai, Treasurer; Matthewman For Attorney General

Henry C. Hapai for territorial treasurer to succeed A. Lewis Jr., resigned. Judge John A. Matthewman to succeed Harry Irwin as attorney general.

These were the endorsements made by the Territorial Central Committee yesterday, is the report brought from Honolulu by Judge Ray J. O'Brien this morning. There were four dissenting votes to the endorsement of Judge Matthewman.

Henry Chase Hapai is 49 years of age and has been connected with the territorial or the provisional government since he began his business career. For many years he has been registrar of public accounts in the treasurer's office and he is regarded as thoroughly familiar with the office and its duties from every angle.

Judge Matthewman was expected to meet opposition in appointment because of the active part he took in the campaign against Arthur M. Brown when the election of William H. Heen followed. Ordinarily he is a thorough going party man but he was prominently identified in the anti-Brown movement, especially in the publicity work against Brown.
