SCREEN COMMENT

There are two pictures that you do not want to miss during the coming week, namely Thomas Meighan in "The Bachelor Daddy" and Harold Lloyd in his latest three reel comedy "Now Or Never."

"A Trip to Paramount Town" is a very interesting picture dealing with those that make the famous features both at their homes and in the studio. You will see your favorite star at work and play.

We are very fortunate to be able to present to the theatre goers of Maui The T. Daniel Frawley Players with Miss Adele Blood.

Mr. Frawley has played Maui before and has several old friends that will be delighted to see the veteran back again. Full particulars of both productions will be found in this issue. Be sure and book your seats early at the Maui Drug Company Wailuku, and the Puunene Store for Kahului.

"THE BACHELOR DADDY"

Richard Chester, owner of a silver mine in the South, is nearing his wedding day, his fiancée being Ethel McVae, daughter of an aristocratic, but poor widow. Sully Lockwood, his private secretary, also loves Dick, but keeps her secret locked away in her heart.

A month before the date set for the wedding, word comes that some desperadoes have threatened to attack the mine if the corporation does not come through with the tribute they demand. Dick goes South taking Charles Henley, his lawyer, with him, and leaving a petulant, dissatisfied sweetheart to wait for him.

Joe Pelton, Dick's foreman, a widower, lives in a cabin with his five motherless babies. Dick arrives and sees that the situation is serious. He realizes that there must be a fight with the bandits if the future is to be safe for the mine folk. He spends much time with Pelton and his children.

The bandits demand silver, supplies and cattle, which Dick refuses. Then the battle starts. Dick sees that the women and children are safely herded into the storehouses. During the skirmish, a little child escapes out into the firing line. Dick goes out to rescue the baby and is shot down. Pelton drags him back to the office door, only to be shot down himself. The soldiers arrive, just as the bandits are about to destroy the buildings with their inmates, and the bandits are captured.

Pelton, fatally wounded, begs Dick to take his babies. He complies, and after Pelton's death takes the children back with him. Back in his home again, Dick prepares a surprise for his sweetheart, believing she will love the youngsters as much as he himself has come to adore them. Ethel not only dislikes children, but refuses to marry Dick unless he sends them away.

The next day he tells Sally that Ethel will break their engagement unless he sends the children away. Sally reminds him that his promise to his fiancée was made before he took the children. So Dick arranges with different schools for the care of the children. The only problem is the baby! Sally takes the infant home, and Dick goes to her house to see the baby, to discover that a strange feeling for Sally begins to stir him. On the night before his wedding, Dick begs Sally to let him take the baby home, promising to bring it back the next morning.

When Dick is about to put the baby to bed, he discovers that it has a fever. The doctor comes and asserts that the baby has the mumps! Dick sends for Sally, who cheerfully mothers the infant. Ethel, his fiancée, is hysterical. She and her mother go to Dick's house to see him. They find him and Sally watching the child. The engagement is broken, and Dick gathers his babies back from the various schools, and decides to settle down with them. He engages Sally and her mother to take care of the children. Dick falls in love with Sally. They are married, and in due time a brand new pair of twins arrive, to make the family happy.

Maui Players Will Make Debut Soon

The Maui Players, an innovation to Maui in the form of a local talent stock company, will make its debut to the Islands public when it presents the play "Clarence" taken from the novel of the same name by Booth Tarkington, at the Kahului theatre Saturday night, October 28.

True to the spirit of the famed writer of youthful fiction, the play is one that portrays the life of the younger generation as only Tarkington can do it. It is full of fun from start to finish, throughout the four acts. Mrs. T. B. Linton adapted the novel to the stage.

The business management is in the hands of Mrs. P. H. Ross.

The play "Clarence" is being presented tentatively to the forming of the company into one that will offer local dramatics to the Maui theater goer's at various times during the year. Its success and the support given it will be a criterion upon which will depend the continuance of the company.

The cast is made up of clever, intelligent Maui people with the plan to develop the talent that is here and at the same time give to the public an opportunity to lend their aid to the worthwhile undertaking by giving their wholehearted support to the project.

Three brakes on many cars ~ and one is always set

As much as 20% of the power at the rear or driving wheels of the automobile may be lost through the use of an incorrect oil. Too heavy an oil, or one lacking in certain qualities, acts as a brake on the car.

The ideal oil is the thinnest oil which will keep the bearing parts separated, and at the same time offer in itself the least frictional resistance to the engine power going to the driving wheels.

This oil, providing it has "oiliness," stability and purity, will give perfect lubrication and permit the development of the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.

Zerolene fills all these requirements perfectly.

The Ideal Oil

All bearing clearances decrease under the heat of operation.

Analysis of Zerolene shows that the differences in its body at the various engine temperatures, from cold to operating temperature, follow in close relation the decrease in bearing clearances.

For this reason Zerolene oils have at all operating temperatures exactly the required body to splash and flow freely into the fast-moving, small-clearance bearings to provide an adequate film of lubricant.

Because of this and its "oiliness," stability and purity, Zerolene gives perfect lubrication under all conditions of engine operation, and permits the development of the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.
