Johnny's Opinion of Grandmother.

Grandmothers are very nice folks,
They beat all the aunts in creation.
They let a chap do as he likes,
And don't worry about education.

I'm sure I can't see it at all,
What a poor fellow ever could do
For apples, and peonies, and cakes,
Without a grandmother or two.

Grandmothers speak softly to 'mas'
To let a boy have a good time;
Sometimes they will whisper, 'tis true,
'T'otherway, when a boy wants to climb.

Grandmothers have muffins for tea,
And pies, a whole row in the cellar,
And they're apt (if they know it in time),
To make a chicken pie for a "feller."

And if he is bad now and then,
And makes a great racketing noise,
They only look over their specks,
And say, "Ah, these boys will be boys."

"Life is only so short at the best,
Let the children be happy to-day;"
Then they look for a while at the sky,
And the hills that are far, far away.

Quite often, as twilight comes on,
Grandmothers sing hymns, very low,
To themselves as they rock by the fire,
About Heaven, and when they shall go.

And then, a boy stepping to think,
Will find a bit tear in his eye,
To know what will come at the last;
For grandmothers all have to die.

I wish they could stay here and pray,
For a boy needs their prayers every night;
Some boys more than others, I s'pose;
Such as I need a wonderful sight.

FROM PHOENIX.

A letter of date November 7 was received from Phoenix last Saturday too late for any use in THE CITIZEN of that day. After referring to the notice work carried on all day of election by the contesting parties, the letter says:

To the credit of the place and of the people, we have it to say that, in no place and at no time, from the time voting began in the morning till the last ticket was counted out of the ballot box the succeeding night, was there any strife seen or tumultuous noise heard. I have been in New York, San Francisco and San Diego on election days, but in neither of these places did I ever see an election pass off so quietly and with so much harmony. Though liquor was to be had in abundance, yet very little, comparatively, was drunk; every person appeared to be abroad on his good behavior.

Our correspondent gives incomplete returns, but enough to show that Colonel K. S. Woolsey is elected Joint Councilman for Maricopa and Yavapai counties; G. S. Oury to the Assembly for Maricopa, and that the county officers elected are: T. C. Hayes, Sheriff; M. H. Hamilton, Treasurer; C. F. Cate, Recorder; P. L. Walters, District Attorney; N. Sharp, Surveyor; S. Strode, W. Kirkland, G. A. Wilson, Supervisors.

CHARLES SUMNER has recently pronounced a sentiment that every editor will appreciate. Speaking of editors he says: They must comment upon public affairs at the moment, and deal with them as they appear. Other people bring to criticize those articles, the long after-knowledge, the light of subsequent events; they are wise after the fact, where the editor writing in his office at midnight had to be wise before the fact.

MR. W. E. SMITH who succeeds Mr. J. W. Strachan as agent of the Western Union Telegraph Company in this city, arrived here on the steamer Sacramento and took charge of his office yesterday. Persons who have business at the telegraph office will find Mr. Smith as attentive and agreeable as his predecessor. The San Diego office is fortunate in having such gentlemanly agents.—[San Diego Union, Nov. 2.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. November 8. It is rumored in army circles that General O. O. Howard will be promoted Major General, vice Meade, in December, and be at once retired with full grade of Major General, on account of long and faithful services and honorable wounds received. The retirement of Howard would leave a vacancy, which will probably be filled by the promotion of Terry or Canby.

FLATTERING TO AMERICANS.

Love of the Almighty Dollar—Marriage and Climate in England.

A refined gentleman of great observation in England and the United States writes us as follows, under date of London, October 16, 1872. It is well worth a perusal by the public although only intended as social correspondence. Here is the letter:

I hope to shortly get away from here in some direction. I am fretting and fuming very much under the constraint which keeps me here so long. No such friendly interchange of heart here, as we used to have in Nevada. Englishmen themselves admit there is hardly such a thing as friendship here in the sense we know it on the Pacific Slope. Every one for himself and all for money. Money, money, money is the eternal cry. It raises up an impenetrable wall between husband and wife, parent and child, brother and brother, and sister and sister. Englishmen themselves admit to me it is scandalous to talk about Americans worshipping the almighty dollar. Englishmen of culture, travel, experience, observation and thought, who have been in America, admit to me that there is nothing in England like the warm, hearty sympathy man have for one another in America.

Marriage for love's sake alone, except among the poor, is hardly thought of here. It is expected that every marriage among people above the low-water poverty mark, involves the question of "settlements" as a matter of course; and the girl who has not some definite fortune thinks of marriage as something that can hardly possibly happen to her, unless she be exceptionally handsome, bright, or clever in some way. I have met lots of English girls and of good impulses, and if their family and society would let them, they would generally marry for love as bravely as any American girl would, but they can't. An American girl can marry a poor man and live in furnished lodgings with him in two rooms, or one if necessary, and not lose her station in society, nor the respect of her friends; but for an English girl of any social position to do that here would be to become a pariah. Her own sisters wouldn't visit her.

This London climate is to me perfectly awful, and yet this is the healthiest city in the world, but it is a good deal like living under ground to dwell here. The suburbs are delightful, and the country in England is almost paradisaical—such beauty of grass and trees and water and general scenery, you never saw.

THE re-election of Congressman McCormick by the people of Arizona, without opposition, is a deserved compliment to that gentleman, and will give satisfaction to all citizens both within and without the Territory. Mr. McCormick has served the Arizonians, while in Congress, with ability, fidelity and zeal. His past record is therefore a good guarantee of his future conduct. He is in favor, we believe, of General Crook's policy toward the hostile Indians—prompt and decisive. The Government must protect them within the reservations, but out of them they must be treated like hostile tribes; parleys and presents are of no service for subduing them, but rather exemplary punishment. If Mr. McCormick will urge these views at Washington, he will materially assist to rid the Territory of the plunderers and murderers who infest it. Arizona is just now beginning to open to the world her hidden treasures, which will eclipse the most fabulous discoveries hitherto made. A torrent of emigration will pour within its borders as soon as roads are open for unimpeded travel. The whole Pacific coast will share in the new trade. It is therefore absolutely necessary that the Apaches be placed under military control.—[Alta California.]

A NEGRO who was suspected of surreptitiously meddling with his neighbor's fruit, being caught in a garden by moon-light, nonplussed his detectors by raising his eyes, clasping his hands, and piously exclaiming: "Good Lord! dis yere darkey can't go nowhere to pray any more widout being starved."

Greeley After the Election.

The New York Tribune of the 7th instant contained the following:

A CARD.—The undersigned resumes the editorship of The Tribune, which he relinquished on embarking in another line of business six months ago. Henceforth it shall be the endeavor to make this a thoroughly independent journal—treating all parties and all political movements with judicial fairness and candor, but courting no favor nor deprecating the wrath of any one.

If he can hereafter say anything which will tend to heartily unite the whole American people on a broad platform of universal amnesty and impartial suffrage, he will gladly do so; for the present, however, he can best command that consummation by silence and forbearance. The victors, in our late struggle, can hardly fail to take the whole subject of Southern rights and wrongs into an early and earnest consideration and to them, for the present, he renails the subject.

Since he will never again be a candidate for any office, and is not in full accord with either of the great parties which have hitherto divided the country, he will be able and will endeavor to give a wider, steadier regard to the progress of science, industry and useful arts than a partisan journal can do. He will not be provoked into the indulgence of those bitter personalities which are the recognized bane of journalism, but sustained by a generous public, he will do his best to make The Tribune a power in the broader field it now contemplates, as when human freedom was in peril, it was in the arena of political partisanship.
HORACE GREELEY.

Artesian Wells.

The U. P. company have been experimenting in artesian wells along the line of their road in Wyoming. The first well put down was at Point of Rocks, and depth of 1,012 feet attained. Water stands in this well within seven feet of the surface of the ground and is strongly impregnated with sulphur, which leaves it soon after being exposed to the air. This well is four and a half inches in diameter, and furnishes, as far as known, an unlimited supply of water. The next well is at Rock Springs, and is 1,187 feet deep and six inches in diameter. The water flows fifty feet above the surface of the ground—water good and very abundant. The next well is at Bitter creek. It is seven hundred feet deep and will flow seventy feet above the surface of the ground. This water is good and very abundant. The last well that has been successful, has just been finished at Washakie. It is six inches in diameter, six hundred and ten feet deep, and flows over the surface a large supply of water. The exact height to which the water will raise above the surface of the ground has not been ascertained. These results unquestionably point to the means which in time is to reclaim the great American desert, and make a large portion of these great plains and mountainous regions, where water is not to be had at present, productive and valuable.—[Ex.]

Change of Medical Officials.

The following appeared in The Washington Republican of October 29:

Acting Assistant Surgeons R. Sonig and Milan Soule are relieved from duty in the Department of Arizona, and will report in person to the commanding general of the department of California for assignment; Acting Assistant Surgeons Wm. E. Rust and John B. White are relieved from duty in the Department of Colorado, and will report in person to the commanding officer of the Department of Arizona for assignment; Acting Assistant Surgeons W. H. Corlesier and Geo. A. Benjamin are relieved from duty in the Department of California, and will report in person to the commanding officer of the Department of Arizona for assignment.

A JACKSONVILLE (Illinois) barber found a whetstone in the hair of a rural customer's head he was shearing. "I've missed that thing ever since last haying time," explained the farmer, "and I looked over a ten acre lot for it, but darned if I didn't forget all about stickin' it over my ear."
