LOCAL MATTERS.

OTTO REICHENBACH advertises to give lessons on the piano. Try him.

CONTRACTORS will find some matter to figure upon in our advertising columns.

GREEN CORN has made its appearance in Tucson.

CALIFORNIA volunteers will find an advertisement of some interest to them in to-day's CITIZEN.

Up till yesterday, the days of this week have been very warm. Yesterday a cool breeze prevailed nearly all day and flying clouds were numerous.

JOHN BAKER has a neat and pleasant bath house on Mesilla street, and he gives warm and cold water baths for the low price of fifty cents.

THERE will be good music at the Park Gardens to-morrow (Sunday) evening, and Mr. Levin invites the public to come and listen to it and be happy under the green trees and amidst the beautiful flowers.

LARKIN W. CARR'S large flock of sheep is at Gila Bend and will be brought up this way soon.

Gov. Safford's four Angora goats should arrive here in a couple of days.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR of customs—J. W. Hopkins—hands us this item of local interest: From and after the 1st of July next, the duty on green fruit will be the same as under the old law—from ten to twenty per centum ad valorem.

EIGHT buckboards for the mail service between Tucson and Silver City, New Mexico, ought to reach Tucson in a few days. They are in charge of George Blair and left Yuma on the afternoon of the 18th. They are light and new, and for the present will be commodious enough for the business.

M. I. JACOBS & Co. received yesterday 60,000 pounds assorted merchandise suited to this market and season. The goods came via Guaymas, but the firm think their house will ship little if any more freight that way, as the delays and expenses of customs' regulations amount to more than the small saving in freight.

CONSIDERABLE building is now going on in Tucson, and much improvement has been made within the past few months. It is worthy of note to observe how much has been done in this town in the past few years in the way of new buildings and improvements on old ones. Business houses as well as residences have been made much more convenient and comfortable.

C. O. BROWN says he has had recent advices from the Oro Blanco, and that the ore in the bottom of the last shaft sunk, is worth from $75 to $500 per ton. About one dozen arrastras are in operation. Mr. Brown has sent for quicksilver and intends as soon as it arrives, and it should in a few days, to go to the mines and give personal attention to the work of reduction. Nearly every day, some one comes into town from the Sierrita or Oro Blanco mines with quantities of gold.

THE Duffield will come up before Judge Osborn yesterday for proof of its validity. The testimony of several witnesses was taken. The document was held to be no legal will and rejected by the court. To comply as far as practicable with the wishes of deceased, Judge Osborn offered to appoint H. S. Stevens and W. W. Williams administrators as they had been named executors in the rejected will. Mr. Stevens declined to accept, and if Mr. Williams refuses, then the public administrator will be appointed.

THE CITIZEN last week noticed that P. Lazarus had opened a wholesale and retail grocery and liquor store in Tucson, and in an advertisement he this week tells the public something about his stock and business. He has all and more than he says he has. Among his goods, is a fine lot of picture frames with glass already fitted. The frames are mostly gilt and black walnut and of many sizes. As they came by mistake and are not in his line, they can be purchased very cheap.

WEDNESDAY was San Juan's (St. John's) day, and as is their custom, the Mexican people celebrated it with zeal in their peculiar way—which mainly consists in riding horses at breakneck speed from early morning to late at night. Considerable merriment is drunk and music is discoursed in tones modulated by the inspiration of the libations. We don't hear that any one was hurt or accommodated with public apartments. In the evening, a very pleasant dancing party came off at Levin's Park, in which the citizens generally shared.

S. H. DRACHMAN has at his store a lump of gold bullion worth $120 and several pounds of silver. The gold came from the mines southwest of Tucson and was brought in within a week. Mr. Drachman will try and find time to visit the mines in a week or so for business purposes.

So many of our citizens are now engaged in mining and looking after mines, that it is difficult to keep track of all their movements, and the best of it is that without exception, so far as we can hear, all are meeting with success.

In the way of fruit, we notice a very poor quality of apricots in town and they are offered at a cent apiece at retail. They are grown in Sonora near Magdalena. Within a month, this market should be well supplied with a very good article of grapes. It seems as if some of our farmers would turn their attention to the growing of fruit, for by it larger profits could be made than from any other products. Many people who have no use for barley and but little for corn, would be liberal patrons of fruit growers. There can be no doubt but our soil and climate are well adapted to many kinds of fruits.

PERSONAL—As will be seen by Yuma dispatch, P. R. Tully is due here Monday morning.

Col. Taylor, clerk and James Daily arrived here from Prescott yesterday morning.

Gov. Safford left on Monday for the purpose of looking at some land to the southward. He is due here any day.

Briggs Goodrich and family returned to Tucson from Florence early this week. He intends to remain here and we believe engage in the practice of the law.

Judge Hayden arrived in town on Monday evening and left for his home on Salt river, Tuesday evening. The Judge has a plan matured in his mind to compel Congress to aid the Texas and Pacific railway, and we hope he'll work it up to success.

Stock Killed by San Carlos Indians.

On the 20th, Leopoldo Carrillo was advised that the Apaches had killed a beef and a fine bull valued at $300, on his ranch some fifteen miles northeast from Tucson. His vaquero caught the Indians killing the stock and they fired on him a couple of times, but he escaped and reported the facts to Camp Lowell. Mr. Carrillo furnishes us the following memoranda of his and the military pursuit and what was discovered:

I went immediately in pursuit with five men. On my arrival at Lowell I found that an hour before, Capt. Hamilton with fourteen cavalry and my herder, who brought the news, had started out. I at once started for the place where the Apaches killed the stock. At 9 at night, I came up with Capt. Hamilton, who was at the foot of the mountains waiting for daylight to follow the tracks. In the morning, after leaving two soldiers to protect the ranch and four with the herder to guard the stock, the Captain with nine soldiers and myself and my five men followed the track through the canyon over the roughest of ground. When on top of the mountain about five p. m. and resting, they discovered a smoke about 400 yards away in a westerly direction. The Captain divided his force and moved to the place of the smoke and discovered that the Indians had left about an hour before. After this, camp was made for the night, whereupon a shout was heard from the top of the mountain, and immediately several Indians appeared with a flag. The Captain then showed a white flag and at 6 o'clock, an Indian came into camp armed with a needle gun, and holding a pass dated San Carlos June 14 and good for seven Indians. The pass was not limited as to time. After a few questions, the Captain let him go to call the others: At 7.30 p. m. eleven other Indians came in all armed and dressed like U. S. soldiers, one of whom showed another pass of same date and for same purpose signed by the same officer—Lt. Babcock. To some questions put by Captain Hamilton, the Apaches replied that they were sent out to look for the outlaw Chuntz; and that the beef they had was taken from hostile Indians.

After further questions, Mr. Carrillo says it was perfectly clear that these San Carlos Indians killed his cattle and charged it upon others.

Lieut. Babcock, in charge at San Carlos will doubtless investigate this affair, for it ought to be done thoroughly. If the trusted Indians commit depredations when intrusted out on duty, they must be checked and without unnecessary delay.

Since the foregoing was mostly in type and too late for additional particulars, we learned from Capt. Hamilton that he at once dispatched two soldiers with details of everything to Lieut. Babcock for the latter's information and to enable him to act intelligently on the return of these Apaches to San Carlos. After hearing Capt. Hamilton's full statement, we are of opinion that the course he pursued was wise and is likely to work to the best interests of Mr. Carrillo and the public interest. Next week we hope to give in detail Capt. Hamilton's actions and his reasons for not arresting these Indians whom he believed to have killed the stock and then lied about it.

Fourth of July in Tucson.

A few of the citizens have talked over the subject a celebration of the Fourth in Tucson and designated several committees to provide means and manage the exercises. It is proposed to give the children a benefit and make them the prominent actors in festivities. A triumphal car fitly decorated containing appropriately dressed little girls in number equal to the States and Territories, is to be paraded through the principal streets as the central figure of a general procession. Afterwards, all will proceed to Levin's Park where the remainder of the day will be spent so as to best entertain the children. If it seems desirable, a ball for the older people will be given at the same place in the evening. This is in substance what has been told us of the proposed exercises.

Some spirited horse-racing is also blocked out. Tom Gardner's Grey Eagle and Smith Turner's bay horse are pitted against each other for $500 a side with a forfeit of $250 put up. The race will be one half mile and come off about 2 p. m. on the old track near town. Considerable interest is manifested and a few thousands will probably change hands.

With an attractive procession, a juvenile jubilee, a ball for old and young and horse-racing, a reasonable amount of enthusiasm should be excited and the day enjoyed by nearly all classes and ages in Tucson.

It is reported that the barley crop in the Gila and Salt river valleys, at least in some places, has not met expectations either as to quantity or quality. Thomas Childs, below Gila Bend, says his barley is much lighter than last year, and that owing to unexpected labor on his ditches, will cost him four cents per pound. It seems the floods of January and February deepened the channel of the rivers so much that the water would not run into many of the ditches. Mr. Childs says the Gila channel at some points is four feet deeper than one year ago, and that in consequence his crops suffered, and that his vegetables will amount to little or nothing. Many of the ditches in Salt river valley are without water for the same reason, and the flood did some damage not yet repaired to the ditches about Florence.

VEN some man slaps me on the shoulder and say, "I was glad to hear you was so well," and den sticks behind my pack his fingers to his nose, I had my opinion of dat vellor, or any uder vellor.

A GERMAN, being asked how much saur-kraut he had put up for Winter use, he replied, "I see not got much; little more as ten barrels, shust for sickness."
