LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING AND ITS SEVERAL FORMS.

It is Not Bad for Young Married Folks, and Would be Good for Bachelors and Also for Groups of Girls, if Only They Could be Persuaded to Try It.

Light housekeeping has become almost a scandalous term, because of its abuse here and elsewhere; but, nevertheless, there is a great deal of such housekeeping in New York that is eminently respectable, says a writer in the Star.

MIXED DRINKS.

They Have a Bad Effect on Some of the Ball Watters.

Evidently the managers of the inaugural ball made a mistake when they decided to have more than one quality of champagne at the supper.

pears to have been the experience also of some of the gentlemen who consented to do duty at the ball, for they were drunker yesterday than on the night before—such a thing were possible.

A quartet of them found their way into the Milliner's shop. This quartet, late evening and called for supper. During the repeat they got to grossly abusing one of the waiters employed in the restaurant—probably because he was sober.

In about two minutes a lively battle was in progress, and proprietor Senatza ran to the door and blew a loud, shrill blast upon his strong-angled police whistle.

The police did not seem to recognize the particular object of the whistle, for none of them responded. Then Mr. Senatza tried another key, and blew another blast. He continued to blow, but his efforts to entice a policeman were unavailing.

Not so, however, with the people on the street. They responded with a will, and in about six or seven minutes there was a pushing, crowding mob on the sidewalk in front of the restaurant, all trying to get a glimpse of the battle that raged within. From the outside it looked like a hot one, but the drunken ball watters seemed to be doing all the fighting, and the house merely trying to preserve order.

Finally a couple of them, fearing arrest, managed to get to the front door, where they were greeted by men in the crowd and yanked outside. They struggled through the muddy streets and escaped, but Constable Brissell came along about this time and arrested the other two.

The two men that ran away from the restaurant were pursued by special officer McLanahan, who caught and undertook to get them to the police station. They fought him all the way, however, to Second and I streets, where they were taken by officers White, who had learned of the trouble and were passing the scene. The prisoners were booked up. They gave the names of R. McDonald and John Burke.

IRRIGATION DISCUSSION.

The District Delegates Prepare a Bill for the Legislature.

It Will Provide for the Creation of a State Association of Irrigating Districts.

The irrigating district delegates assembled at the Clunie building yesterday, and continued in session all day.

There was some lively discussion over a proposition to amend the Wright irrigation law, so as to permit irrigation districts to take stock in private canals and ditches.

Will S. Green, of Colusa, and Messrs. Osthaus and Merrill opposed the proposition vigorously. H. H. and Mateo argued for the other side.

The matter was finally laid over for future consideration, without any agreement being reached.

The association decided to present a bill to the Legislature to create a state association of irrigation districts and to provide for the creation of a State Board of Irrigation to manage and direct the affairs of the same; and to define the powers and prescribe the duties of such board; and to appropriate out of such board; and to appropriate out of such board.

It is proposed that the duties of this State board will be to supervise work in all plans that are presented for consideration under the Wright Act, to provide a form of bonds, to designate a bank at which all moneys to be raised for the purpose of the act, and to receive the same; and to define the powers and prescribe the duties of such board; and to appropriate out of such board.

"BACKWOODS BELLES."

THE CHARMING "C. C.'S" GREETING TO "WALL FLOWER."

Why "Me and Jack" Were Not Married—Sparkling Items About Lakoport.

Dear Miss Wall Flower: I feel myself highly honored to be allowed to make the acquaintance of your illustrious self.

How seldom we are able to meet with those who thoroughly understand us and appreciate our poor efforts as literateurs, and who are able to cope with the emanations of our minds in an intelligent manner.

You asked me to tell you all about my wedding. Me and Jack were not married as we had hoped to be, on account of the fire on the night of December 10th. I had a perfect little poem of a bonnet still at the milliner's, which was cremated with the rest of the things.

It went silently floating over the placid waters of the lake, in a dense cloud of smoke, and was accompanied by poor Jack's mustache, a porcelain bust in itself, which he had left at the barber shop to be dyed.

Apropos of Jack, it seems to me your remark about the crookedness of Jack's legs was rather unkind. Are you sure your most respected pa isn't a little bit crooked-eyed, and therefore not able to see straight? Let me assure you that Jack's legs are just as straight as your own.

I suppose you know all about the fire. You know it was first discovered by a young man of unquestionable character, who lived at 224 W. Third street, and was doing out at such an unseasonable hour, I am not prepared to say. He was evidently so deeply engrossed in the solving of a mathematical problem, with an old gentleman from whose house he was seen to come, that he did not note the fire until it was too late.

One good old lady who has the happy faculty of finding out everybody's business, is dreadfully distressed because she can't find out where her young man could have been so late. She has offered a reward to anyone who will furnish her with suitable information, $1,000 in gold, a year's tuition in the Lakoport Polytechnic Institute, a pair of hoops, her diamond ring and a Swiss cheese. The scene at the fire was better than a New Orleans "Mardi Gras."

People were out in all sorts of fantastic costumes; some decidedly neglige. One poor old fellow had, in his dazed, sleepy state, put on his clothes wrong side before he discovered his mistake. He went back to get a hat at a half at the Court House corner, where those who saw him thought the shock of the fire had "turned his head" and he had lost his wits.

Of course you know we have a dancing school and a writing class. I mention the dancing school first, because it is of more importance to you, but I must not forget to mention the writing class. The dancing master has quite a class of old maids, young maids, married women and widows to whom he has been teaching and initiating them into the mysteries of the mazy dance. When they complete their course they will be able to dance anything from the Highland fling to an Irish jig on a platter.

You must be a Native Son or Daughter, a native son or daughter of "terrestrial globe," and you are not an eligible party if unmarried; if married, you are fitted to crown almost any position held. If you are neither of the above, you are like the man who fell out of the balloon, you are "not in it." I am not a Native Daughter; I was "borned" in Scotland. Pike County, Missouri, in the year 1870. Pa says he is powerful glad I'm not a Native Daughter.

Don't you think the "Folks'" concert given at Somerset Hall? It was the best concert ever given in Lakoport. The elite of the town was there, and those who had not attended were invited very strongly that we unhappily have a class here who don't take advantage of a good thing when it is within their reach.

Our honorable Association will meet Monday morning for Sacramento to take his seat in the Legislature and do great things for Lakoport County. It is not positively known whether he will bring his boots (gun boots), overalls and jumper or not before leaving his ranch. The brethren of our town will not want half of the appreciate the barnyard aroma carried into the legislative halls by the festive grangers.

Dear Miss Wall Flower, do come and see me. I have combined efforts in the field of literature and have written the world. I'm going to study "Volapuk" and then organize a class here, and your hearty co-operation would be most appreciated. We might also start a class in modern sciences, give readings in metaphysics to a select few and teach the politicians the art of making a speech upon lands for purpose of making surveys outside of districts, etc.

Winter Clearing Sale!

The large idea in our offerings of merchandise at this period of the year is to turn to account the conditions which, under old notions, made the mid-winter dull.

The old notion to wear out the goods in the store if they did not bring the full price is, happily for the masses, done away with by the modern merchant, who says clean up the stock with the passing season, and go into each new season with all things fresh.

When demand slackens good bargains come. They are here---peerless, irresistible.

SPECIALS TO-MORROW!

BLANKETS, COMFORTERS, LADIES' WRAPS.

Everything in the shape of Winter Goods at cut prices. And Remnants, fragments of remaining stocks, odd pieces, as we call the dust of this great merchandise movement—gold dust to you at present prices.
