

TO STOP GAMBLING.

Officers Higgins and Frazee Assigned to Down-Town Beats.

The Board of Police Commissioners Meet and Adopt Two Resolutions by Judge Cravens.

The Board of Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon. The Mayor called the meeting to order and stated that the board had been requested to meet by a number of citizens, who had come to believe that unlawful gambling was going on, and who wanted to see that the law was enforced on the part of the police officers. He read Section 229 of the Penal Code, which provides that it is a misdemeanor for any officer to shirk his duty when it is known to him that the law is being violated. He stated that several citizens had suggested to him that the Police Commissioners direct the Chief of Police to place officers Higgins and Frazee on the beats where the faro games were running.

Chief Drew remarked that he did detail officer Frazee to duty on a down-town beat some time ago, but changed him to beat No. 6 again at the request of many of the residents in the eastern portion of the city.

E. M. Leitch handed the following resolution to the Mayor and asked the commissioners to adopt it:

Resolved, That officers Higgins and Frazee, and they are not, be assigned to the Board of Police Commissioners for the purpose of suppressing gambling in Sacramento, and said officers are hereby directed to immediately enter upon their duties under this resolution and to consider themselves as solely under the direction of the board.

Chief Drew objected to the adoption of the resolution. "I don't think it would be a good idea to do this," said he. "If this board places two of the officers on special duty, and allows them to go wherever they please, they will antagonize the rest of the force and leave a part of the city without protection. I have no objection, if you wish, to placing these two officers on any two beats in the city."

WARM FOR THE CHIEF. A. S. Hopkins said: "There's no reason why gambling should not be stopped. If I was a police officer, or if I was in your place, Chief Drew, I'd resign if I couldn't stop it."

S. E. Carrington said that there was a general impression among the people of Sacramento, that the police officers would do their duty if they were not afraid their heads would be cut off. If the board would only issue an order directing the officers to do their duty, and hold them responsible if they did not, they would quickly put a stop to every faro game that is running in this city.

"I suppose you mean to say that I will not direct them?" said Chief Drew, inquiringly. "I think there are strings on you or your orders," replied Mr. Carrington.

Chief Drew—"I can tell you there are no strings on me and there never were."

John Bradley—"I'd like to ask, Mr. Mayor, that if you do not direct Chief Drew, why hasn't he stopped gambling? Why hasn't he taken the pains to direct his force and place them where they ought to do some good. If he meant what he said he ought to personally see that his men were enforcing his orders."

Chief Drew—"My officers have something else to do besides watching one particular place. They have large beats, and it is all they can do to get around them."

C. G. Brown asked permission to say a few words, and he advised the board to license gambling. "I'm an old gambler," said he, "and I've gambled in this city for seventeen years. They have slanted my place but the rest of the fraternity are running their faro games."

HOKKY-POKEY, TOO. Grove L. Johnson favored the resolution introduced by Mr. Leitch, and was willing to suggest that the board should have the effect of closing the leading games of faro in town. He believed "hokky-pokey" should be stopped, but it was not on the list of the list of unlawful games. He had prepared a bill, though, and had handed it to Assemblyman Bremer, which provided for the amending of the game, and that of the law, so that "hokky-pokey" would be included in the number of games which the statutes made unlawful.

Judge Cravens said he did not think the resolution proposed by Mr. Leitch just the proper thing. The police force of Sacramento was very small in proportion to the size of the city, and the officers had more territory to cover than any reasonably disposed person could claim they should guard properly.

"I have a couple of resolutions here," said the Judge, "which I think will do just as well as the one which Mr. Leitch has presented."

The resolutions read: That each and every officer on the police force is hereby instructed to diligently endeavor to suppress all unlawful games in this city, and especially on their respective beats, and to arrest and prosecute any persons who they have reasonable cause to believe are engaged in such unlawful gaming, and to report their activities to the Police Commissioners.

Resolved, That the detail of policemen be changed that officer Robert Frazee be placed on night-watch on beat No. 2, and officer Daniel Higgins on beat No. 4, and the Chief of Police is directed to carry this into effect immediately.

All parties seemed to be satisfied that the resolutions would have the desired effect, and upon motion of Mayor Comstock, they were passed unanimously. The board then adjourned.

METEOROLOGICAL POINTERS. Signal Service Officer Barwick Discs on the Weather.

It is a well-known meteorological fact, says Sergeant Barwick, that when stratus clouds move from the northeast mountains toward the valley, light sprinkles of rain are invariably sent down. The present sprinkle (5 a. m. yesterday) occurs with an exceedingly high barometer—higher than it has been any time this season—which is an evidence that no settled storm of any magnitude can take place unless the barometer falls in the barometrical condition of the atmosphere. For that reason there will, in all probability, not be enough rain to appreciably measure in the Signal Service ombrometer.

The temperature has risen all over Central and Northern California yesterday, which was the warmest day since the 7th of this month, when the self-registering thermometer recorded a maximum temperature of 77°. The highest and lowest barometer readings at 5 a. m. and 5 p. m. yesterday were 30.37 and 30.41 inches; the temperature at the same hours was 39° and 32°. The highest and lowest being 55° and 36°, as against 47° and 39° on the same date last year.

The highest and lowest one year ago today was 39° and 28°, with 1.02 inches of rain, which was not exceeded during that month (January, 1890) but upon one occasion, which was on the 25th, when 1.34 inches was precipitated, the total for January, 1890, being 6.32 inches.

The barometer at Red Bluff at 5 p. m. yesterday read 30.36 inches, being higher than in this city, with cloudy weather and .06 of an inch of rainfall. If a storm of much magnitude occurs with such a high barometer in Northern California it will be the first time that such a thing has happened since regular observations have been recorded.

THEY WILL BOX. The Much-Talked-of Johnson-McCord Match Now a Certainty.

Excitement in Amateur Circles Over the Affair—Dispute Between the Sacramento and Olympic Clubs.

Local amateur athletic circles were all agog yesterday over the receipt of official information from San Francisco to the effect that the Olympic Club of that city had at last given its consent for a special boxing match between Robert McCord, the hitherto Pacific Coast middle-weight champion, and William Johnson, of the Sacramento Athletic Club, who defeated McCord at the last coast tournament.

It will be remembered that after McCord was defeated, it was stated that he had not trained for the contest, and was not in condition to do himself or the Olympic Club (whose representative he was) justice, in a contest with Johnson, who was in magnificent trim. This tournament was Johnson's first experience in the roped arena, and naturally his friends and clubmates in this city were elated when the news came that he had defeated such an experienced pugilist as McCord—who, by the way, had held the championship against all comers for several years, and was believed to be invincible. But Johnson did not relish the statement that the contest would have resulted otherwise had McCord been in condition, and he publicly expressed his determination not to claim any honors until McCord had been given a chance to win back his lost laurels.

JOHNSON'S COURSE APPROVED. The Athletic Union approved the stand Johnson had taken, and decided to put up a trophy for the two gladiators to contest for in this city. But the Olympic Club objected to this, and stubbornly refused to grant the trophy. The proposition was asked to come to Sacramento. When asked for an explanation, the Olympic Club stated that they had refused that they "didn't want to fight the tournament over again." But at the same time they soothed McCord by presenting him with a handsome medal for his loyalty to the club in endeavoring to keep the championship at home.

The friends of both Johnson and McCord gave up all hope of arranging the match. Of late, however, it was rumored about that if the Sacramento Club would permit the match to take place at the Olympic Club, McCord would be permitted to meet Johnson. This was just what the local club would not agree to, as the members of the Olympic Club had already witnessed one contest between the men, and it was the Sacramento Club's turn now. That there was some foundation for the rumor became evident last Saturday, when Oscar Tolle, a prominent member of the Olympic Club, came to this city and saw Johnson in the company of the officers of the local club regarding the match.

IT IS SETTLED. Mr. Tolle, of course, was looking out for the interests of his club, but when the local clubmen explained the situation to him he agreed to make the match. He should take place in the rooms of the Sacramento Athletic Club, and he promised to lay the matter in his proper light before the directors of his club. That kept his promise, and was successful in settling the dispute, is apparent from the following letter received from him yesterday by one of the officers of the local club:

SAN FRANCISCO, January 15, 1891. I have just last night and advocated your club. Our board, in my presence, gave McCord permission to fight a match with Johnson if (McCord) wishes a match. Our Board of directors furthermore will foster the idea and cheer of your club in having a match in your club rooms. So far so good. You will receive notice to your already prosperous club. Yours, etc., O. A. TOLLE.

As McCord had at all times expressed himself as ready and anxious to fight the match, there is no reason to believe that he will change his mind now. The match will take place in the rooms of the Olympic Club, and will be witnessed only by members of both clubs.
