A GOVERNOR'S RESIDENCE.

The State of California should provide a residence for its Governor. There is every reason in favor of it, and no really substantial objection to it. It is said with great force that a poor man ought to be able to accept the Governorship of the State, but unless the State provides him with a house he cannot do so, without posing as a niggard, and we doubt if he could practice mean economy and do it without shaming the State. It is not at all to our credit that the Governor of the State on being elected should be obliged to go out house-hunting and begging citizens to give up their homes, that the Chief Executive may have a place in which to live suited to his station and the dignity and importance of the State. We have had one case in which no suitable residence could be procured within the means of the incumbent of the office, and he was compelled to make his home in a hotel during a large part of his term.

The State once set about the building of a gubernatorial mansion, but a bachelor being just chosen for Governor the enterprise was abandoned and the building converted into what is now the State Printing Office. It would have been the part of wisdom to have gone on and finished the construction as a mansion, and we think we reflect the public thought of this day that it was impolitic and grave error to do as we did do, since a State printing office should have been located in a different kind of a structure. However the conversion has been made and the cost discharged, and the question now is, shall we build or buy a building suitable for an Executive mansion?

If precedents count for anything, we have plenty of good examples before us, South Carolina, North Carolina, Nebraska, Maryland, Virginia, Missouri, New Jersey, Illinois, Wisconsin, Georgia, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, New York and thirteen other States of the Union provide their Governors with appropriate residences, and all of them furnish the same, care for the grounds and pay some part or all of the cost for lights and fuel. It is said by the few opponents of the proposition under consideration that the maintenance of an establishment worthy to be called a Governor's mansion, entails upon the Governor a heavy expense for service and keeping up the establishment. This is incorrect, for an occupant can maintain a portion or only a small part of the mansion, as he chooses, but it is the right thing to do to furnish it to him to occupy so much or as little of the structure as he pleases.

The bill for the purchase of a mansion does not fix the price to be paid, but it establishes a limit, beyond which the Governor shall not go in purchasing the property that was occupied by Governor Waterman during the most of his term. It is the belief among well informed persons familiar with real estate values, that property suitable for the purpose can be purchased for very much less than the State can buy land and build. The State never builds as economically as the private individual. Moreover, if there is a suitable property that can be purchased and occupied at once, it is far better to take it, than the present Governor may occupy it, especially when it is conceded that the State could not duplicate the property as cheaply as it can be bought.

The RECORD-UNION would not for a moment advocate a private claim or scheme, or any that is not of patent State interest, and whether the owner of the H-street property desires especially to sell or not, cuts no figure with us in the case. The questions are: Is that property well situated? Is it suitable for the purposes desired? Is it to be had at a fair figure? Every one of these questions can, we are convinced, be answered in the affirmative with strict adherence to the truth. No better situation could be selected in this city; the residence is spacious, high, constructed in thoroughly approved manner, is in complete order, and we apprehend can be had at a fair market valuation. However, there is no compulsion about the matter—the bill places the whole subject in the hands of Governor Markham, and he can be trusted to make no bargain that will be inimical to State interests, and we well understand that he will do as well for the State as if he were buying for himself. The bill should pass, because it is a public need. The Governor of this State is not properly housed, and none of our Governors have been for twenty-five years or more, except the last, who rented the property in question, and could only do so after beseeching its owner to move out to accommodate. It is time to provide the Governor's mansion. We have waited too long altogether, and there will probably present no better opportunity than the present in which to secure as suitable a dwelling for the Chief Executive. The cost will be less, we are certain, than a similar building could be erected for under State direction, and that must be the conviction of every one who has any knowledge of State experience in the matter of erecting public buildings. To repeat; we need a Governor's mansion, the State should supply the need as speedily as is possible, and it should provide for its furnishing, and reasonably also for its care.

ELECTING THE STATE PRINTER.

The Los Angeles Times reproduces the RECORD-UNION's article advocating the passage of the bill providing that the office of Superintendent of State Printing shall be filled by election. But the Times objects to the statement we made that such a system will secure to the State competent Superintendents, because the craft will inspire the political parties to put up only competent men. The Times says that, as a matter of fact, political conventions very often nominate incompetent men and those who are lacking in many independence. But the error of the Times resides in the fact that the cases to which it refers are not those in which a workman is chosen. Unquestionably, we have many instances of conventions nominating men for ministerial and executive offices who prove to be weak and incompetent. But in the case of one who must, under the law, be qualified as a master job printer, or rather as a master workman, and who is recognized by his craft as such, the risk of a really incompetent man being chosen will be exceedingly remote. The reason is obvious. The printing fraternity know who are and who are not competent; they will be on the alert always to prevent the choice of an incompetent man. The printers are pretty evenly divided among the political parties. Each party convention will, therefore, feel the necessity of putting forward a candidate who will be as good as the best its opponent can possibly select. As a result, no matter what party triumphs, we will have a competent man in the office.

What the RECORD-UNION meant by independence in the candidate, or the successful one, it thinks it stated so clearly that those who read with ordinary care cannot fall into error. What we said and mean is this: that the official who does not owe his position to the appointment of some other official, and who is responsible only to the Legislature, is by the ordinary necessities of the situation made independent, as compared to the man who is subject to another, and that other subject to the appeals of all his political friends, to force upon the appointed official, men to serve under him who are not of his choosing.

PAYING THE INDIANS.

Hiram Price in the February Forum charges that during the four years ending October 10, 1883, agreements were entered into between Indians and different attorneys, and were approved by the Government, by which these attorneys were to receive from the Indians $755,221.28 for collecting from the Government money said to be due to the Indians. If this is true it should make all Americans blush for shame. Whenever money is due to a tribe of Indians the fact is known to some officer and department of the Federal Government, and the money can be drawn and paid in proper installments without the intervention of an attorney. If not, then our system of bookkeeping is radically wrong.

In 1883 the Secretary of the Interior recommended that an officer be appointed whose duty it should be to see that the payments are made, but Congress has taken no action in the matter. The matters and things Congress neglects really are so many as to make the sum total of resulting hardship and wrong a national disgrace.

Mr. Price adds with severity some comments upon our Indian policy that are not wholly justified when he says: Most people are under the impression that we are paying large sums of money every year out of the public treasury for the support of the Indians. It will doubtless be a surprise to such to learn that a very large part of the money appropriated by Congress for the Indians belongs to the Indians and is held in trust for them; so that in fact we are, to that extent, merely given them their own. The regular Indian bill generally appropriates about $5,000,000. But after deducting the money which the Government only holds in trust and the necessary expenses of transportation and distribution, it will be found, by careful examination of the accounts, that the Indians get from the Government for their subsistence only about $7 per capita yearly, or a fraction less than two cents a day. The pay of the army amounts to about $1,000 per annum for each soldier. The principal business of these soldiers is to prevent Indian outbreaks. We thus limit the Indian to two cents per day for food, making him sufficiently hungry and desperate to commit some depredation; so that the soldier may have something to do to earn his pay. This we dignify with the title of statesmanship; but from a common-sense, business stand-point, it looks very much like saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung-hole.

But it is to be taken into consideration that the Indian can be and should be a producer—the soldier is not. The aim of the Government under its later and wiser policy is to put the Indians upon lands to be held by the individual, and not by the tribe; to outfit the Indian with tools of agriculture, and to supply him with instructors in the art of tilling the soil. In other words, our policy is to cultivate self-helpfulness in the Indian, and this policy, in a large degree, removes the edge of Mr. Price's criticism that we do not at once pay over to the Indian the whole sum that is in his due. Were that done he would, in seven cases out of ten, be a pauper before the time for another payment came about. The very best use we can make of the Indian is to make him help himself.

MAKE HOME HAPPY.

LOOK AT THIS RANGE, AND THEN THINK FOR A MOMENT OF THE GREAT strides mechanical genius has made for this world in the past forty years. We present to our many readers in this issue a cut of the famous CYCLONE GARLAND RANGE. This Range has just been awarded gold medals at the principal exhibitions of the Eastern States. It stands without a rival as a Fine Baking and Cooking Stove.

The above CYCLONE GAR
