THE NEW UNITED STATES SENATOR.
Hon. Charles N. Felton was yesterday elected United States Senator from California to fill out the unexpired term of the late George Hearst.

Very naturally inquiry arises concerning the cause which led to Mr. Felton's choice. We do not think that any one needs to look far, or with effort, to discover the one and chief reason for the selection. Mr. Felton was really the choice of the State at the outset.

Later, when other citizens contested for the Senatorship, there was some diversion, and a great deal of debate as to chances; but the people who read public thought, and keep note of the beat of the public pulse, never for one moment doubted that Mr. Felton was the preferred candidate of the State.

Political far-seeing among the men who make political methods a study, pointed out Mr. Felton as the winning candidate from the beginning, and the prophets of this order did not, it proves, judge amiss.
They simply read the thought of the State, which finally found reflection in the expression of the legislative convention. Mr. Felton will take up the Senatorial toga and adjust himself to its wearing without any embarrassment whatever; he will assume it conscious that he made an open and dignified contest for the place.

It is never well to build too lofty our hopes and expectations concerning the capacity of our Representatives and Senators in Congress to sway legislation in the direction of State interest. California is but one of the least of the factors of any national movement. We are great in our own estimation, and base our claims on territorial grandeur and natural advantages that justify all our pride in the State, but amidst the millions at the East we are by no means esteemed of the importance with which we credit ourselves. The tasks of our representatives in the two houses of Congress are, therefore, those of much embarrassment and difficulty in securing for us those things we desire at the hands of the Federal Government. But we believe that Mr.

Felton will strive to meet public expectations in accomplishments in Congress for this State. He has the courage to ask, the ability to defend, the persistency that will not be denied, and the industry that distinguishes the diligent, conscientious official. We congratulate California therefore on the selection her Legislature has made, and in doing so wish to disavow entertaining any thought to the disparagement of the abilities of the gentlemen who were in the contest with Mr. Felton at the close of the battle. It is the right of any citizen to aspire, and honest ambition to succeed to positions of high distinction is to be applauded.
The opponents of the successful candidate made against him a strong fight, and that he has won in no wise reflects upon them. They understood as well as did political seers that the possibility of success for any one of them was very remote, so long as Mr. Felton remained in the field.

The close of the Senatorial contest, with such eminent credit, suggests to us improvement of the opportunity to say that all assertions connecting the railroad company with the success or with the defeat of any candidate for the Senatorship are absolutely false, and are known to be by those who make them. That this is the simple statement of the truth, we know positively. The railroad company had nothing whatever to do with the contest, and has had neither part nor concern in the overthrow of the ambitions of the unsuccessful or the triumph of the chosen.

DIVIDED AMERICANISM AN OFFENSE.

The cry of the hyphenated Americans still goes up. The people who are self-respecting and patriotic are becoming heartily weary of this thing. Next to the New Orleans atrocity is the offense of prejudiced Americans--but who are as prejudiced in name as they confess by their actions --in appealing to a foreign power to make demands upon their adopted country. In this matter we are not at all considering the disgrace of mob violence at New Orleans, or condoning the acts of the people in overthrowing the law and substituting force and passion for it. But we are considering that alarming and exasperating evil, divided Americanism, the American-ism that prefixes its title with a foreign designation. We have repeatedly entered a protest against these subdivided designations of citizenship. There are but two classes of people in the Union, exclusive of the Indians--Americans and aliens.
We cannot too emphatically condemn the action of a mass-meeting of Italian subjects and American citizens in San Francisco on Tuesday night, by which a direct appeal was made to the Italian Government, and to certain Princes and titled functionaries of that country, to proceed in a certain manner against this Government. In the San Francisco Alta California of yesterday we find a letter upon such action, written by an adopted citizen of Italian nativity, which so reflects our views upon this question of divided allegiance, that we quote liberally from it, and commend with emphasis the fine spirit of its protest. The writer says:

I find what purports to be a translation of a call for a meeting of "Italo-Americans" to take action with reference to the recent events in New Orleans. In that translation appears the following: "We must invoke the intervention of the Governments of our native and adopted land, in order that through their action our satisfaction be given and full reparation made by the State of Louisiana and the Federal Government at Washington." This is an error. The words do not appear in the call as it is printed and in the language of the call it is: "We must invite the intervention of the Government of our native land, and of our adopted land, without any reference to our adopted land." As a law-abiding man, irrespective of the question of citizenship, I have no sympathy with mob violence, but I have still less sympathy with men who, having responded to the call, and taken the oath of the land of their birth, and sworn allegiance to the Government of that country, now swear that allegiance which they voluntarily assumed by appealing to the Government of another country. I know very well that personally to be American citizens. An appeal to the Government of another country, in order to force upon the Government of this country a foreign power, and to the interference of a foreign power, which they voluntarily assumed by appealing to the Government of another country, is an appeal to the Government of another country, in
Government of another country.

This ought to be the thought and expression of every adopted citizen. If his allegiance has reservation; if his oath was premeditated false, and if he considers his native land still entitled to the highest measure of duty, he is out of place, a cheat and a menace to the republic. If he continues to voice the spirit of divided Americanism, he will invoke a policy that will make his class impossible.

Professor Max Muller declares it to be a fact that history demonstrates to be undeniable, that intolerance of religions is more prevalent in modern than it was in ancient times. The general belief runs counter to this expression. What Professor Muller means is that liberal thought is more intolerant of dogmas than ever before, but intolerance, in its commonly accepted meaning, refers to manifestations that amount to persecution for opinion's sake. It is true that men's convictions are more settled and deep in this day, and therefore there is intolerance of untruth, but we cannot think that the conclusion reached by Professor Muller, that it is an intolerance of infinite danger, and precisely of the character that preceded the Inquisition, is sound. Liberal thought, intolerance of error, is strong because of the tolerance of its expression. It is not of the intolerance that burned men to save their souls, or racked them to make them rectant. There is no martyrdom in this day because men do not think alike, and Professor Muller errs when he classifies unbelief and free expression as assaults.

WE CAUTION ALL AGAINST THEM.
The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm--a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head--has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm.
Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will notify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price, 50 cents. M.W.F.
