In the appeal of Borland vs. Oakland Lodge, No. 103, the action of the lodge was reversed.

The sum of $250 was appropriated for the Hall Stock Company of Sacramento.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session a number of proposed amendments were submitted, discussed and finally voted down.

Subordinate lodges are to instruct their delegates to the next Grand Lodge whether or not to vote yes or no on the proposition of lengthening the terms of subordinate lodges to one year.

An amendment was passed authorizing lodges to refund advance dues when a member withdraws.

It was decided, after some discussion, to hold the next session of the Grand Lodge at Santa Cruz, Propositions to meet at Santa Rosa, Nevada, City, Stockton, Oakland, Eureka and San Francisco were made, but the little city by the sea was victorious.

The annual election of officers will take place this morning.

AT THE ART GALLERY.

Yesterday the members of the Grand Lodge and other visiting Knights went in a body, some in carriages, to the Crocker Art Gallery, under an invitation from the Directors of the Museum Association.

The visitors inspected the paintings, sculpture, and curiosities and the work of the pupils of the School of Design, with all of which they were greatly pleased.

They held a meeting before leaving the gallery, and by a unanimous vote of thanks to the Directors of the association for having afforded them such a treat.

When one of the Knights to a Record-Union reporter yesterday, "I had no idea that Sacramento—or any other city in the State, for that matter—possessed such a fine gallery of art as that which we witnessed to-day. And they tell me that this valuable building, with its wealth of rare paintings and other works of art, was given your city from Mrs. E. B. Crocker. Why, such munificence is so rare as to almost cause one to doubt the truth of such a statement. However, Sacramento has something of which she may be proud, aside from the distinction of being the home of a lady with such generosity and public spirit. The lot includes handsome silk and plush parlor suits, divans, sofas, bed loungers, rockers, easy chairs, etc. They will also sell a large lot of second-hand furniture, including bedroom and kitchen furniture, crockery, glassware, carpets, stoves, ranges, etc.

REV. FATHER GRACE.

The Young Men's Institute Tender Him a Reception.

He Gives an Interesting Recital of What He Saw in Europe—The "Passion" Play.

Young Men's Institute, Council No. 11, held its weekly meeting last night at the Y. M. I. Hall, instead of Wednesday evening, which is the usual meeting night. This change was made to accommodate Rev. Father Grace, to whom a reception was given.

The reverend gentleman is an honorary member of the Institute, he having been initiated on the day he and Rt. Rev. Bishop Manogue took their departure from this city for Europe, now nearly a year ago. Since his return it has been the determination of his council of the Institute to give him a reception and welcome, for it is needless to say no pastor has ever been held in higher esteem by his friends and parishioners than has Father Grace, and in an especial degree by the members of the newly-instituted organization of the young men of the Catholic Church.

This fact was evinced in an emphatic way when he was inducted into the Institute on the day of his temporary separation from his flock by the emotions he so cordially and so graciously expressed, and he could but bow his head in reverence to those he really knew to be his sincere friends.

The pastor's friends had cherished the memory of that occasion, and had looked forward to the time when, on his return, they could again cordially greet him and welcome his return to his pastorate.

Last evening was the occasion, and only the bad state of the weather operated to hinder the affair. The program of the evening was a well-selected programme of exercises prepared by a committee appointed at a previous meeting. The routine work of the customary business meeting was expedited in order that as much time as possible might be devoted to the special recitations.

At the end of the meeting President Gormley prefaced the meeting of reception by a well-timed address of welcome to Father Grace, who occupied a seat by the President, and in the course of the evening. The applause that greeted the gentleman when he arose was long and hearty, and it was some time before he could proceed. Then he feelingly expressed his gratitude for the kind and hearty way in which he was received by those whom he so highly regarded, both as members of the congregation over which he in part presided, and as personal friends.

His remarks were, however, especially devoted to some of the members of the Institute, and some of the scenes he had witnessed during his absence from home. He told of his visit to Rome.
