CALIFORNIA'S EXHIBIT AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Yesterday the RECORD-UNION expressed the opinion that unless a collective exhibit can be made at the Columbian World's Fair by California it would be better for the State to refrain from exhibiting at all. The reason for this belief is obvious. California's products, shown with the products of other sections in a department and distributive exhibition, will be swallowed up and lost.

That is to say, while our contributions would add materially to swell the entire exhibit of the United States, California would not receive the benefit contemplation of which is a chief motive in our exhibiting at all. California is not wanting national pride, but her collective exhibit will do more to enhance the exhibits of the nation by far than if she played a minor part in the distributive or general exhibition. All the conditions here are so dissimilar to those of States east of the Sierras, that to exhibit conjointly with the other States will not present us in the light that will make our showing intelligent to the observer.

But this is not all; the Constitution forbids the use of State money except it be for a State institution, and handled by a State agency responsible to the State.

Under that provision of the organic law, the bill appropriating $300,000 passed the Legislature, and under it the State Commission to manage California's interests has been selected. In order to make the $300,000 available, therefore, the State Commission must have control of the California exhibition, and if that cannot be secured, the Controller of State will not be authorized to draw his warrant for the money appropriated. The legal obstacle to a distributive exhibition is, then, insurmountable. Yet it is telegraphed to the coast that the Commissioner appointed by the late Governor Waterman upon the National Board opposes a collective exhibit by California, and is pro-

National Commission, against it, either, as we have said, to emphasize the importance of his position, or because he has fallen down under the pressure at the East in favor of a departmental fair.

But the considerations of law which we have set forth really end the controversy, and there is no profit in debating it with Mr. DeYoung. For the State Commission, which is one eminently representative and thoroughly trustworthy, cannot and should not touch the State money, except to promote a collective exhibit of California products at the Columbian World's Fair.

The official reports made from consular returns and State statistics show that in the cotton goods trade wages are no higher in Massachusetts than in England, when the hours of labor are taken into consideration. But we were told that the McKinley bill was to advance wages presently, in precisely such lines of industry. In the Dry Goods Economist a German manufacturer writing under date of March 12th, says the New York Post, "explains the reasons why he has decided not to establish the manufacture of his goods, 'all-wool Henriettas,' in the United States after having made a personal examination of the conditions in this country. The chief reason why he determines to stay at home is 'the high duty on raw wool, yarns and dyes, which handicap the American manufacturer in his competition with foreign-made goods, and which preclude any possibility of his being able to work for export. This,' he continues, 'makes the American manufacturer absolutely dependent on the American market only. The German, French, or English manufacturer, on the other hand, is free; all materials are his disposal, raw wool being free, while the duty on yarn is sufficiently small to permit of yarn being imported when the required quality is not available in one of the three named countries.' On the subject of wages he says: 'I have myself visited the manufacturing cities near New York as well as the more distant places;

I have visited several mills, and I believe that I have thereby attained a clear idea as to what are the conditions in the weaving industry in the States of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. As far as piece dyed dress goods are concerned, the wages in Pennsylvania for weaving all-wool Henriettas, the most important article in this branch, are hardly 25 per cent. higher than in Germany. But what weight can 25 per cent. higher wages have when the import duty on the goods is from 80 to 100 per cent.?"

BARON FAVA resided in the United States ten years as Minister from Italy.

In that time he ought, if a fairly intelligent man, to have gained considerable knowledge of our system of government, of its character, of its Federal and State relations, of the decisions made concerning Federal and State liabilities, etc.

But Fava has reached Paris on the way to Rome, that he has unbossed himself, disclosing and he is either a dissembler or else is ignorant of the American system of government. Really, he appears to understand less concerning it than the ordinary immigrant of six months' residence in the United States. Of course Fava's ignorance is assumed, and for a purpose.

It was never intended that political considerations should out any figure in the offices of the State Board of Health.

But it is an interesting fact that since the creation of the board more than thirty-five years ago the Secretary of that body, the only salaried officer in it has been a Democrat until yesterday, when for the first time a Republican was chosen. It has been a long holding by one political party, which has not, therefore, the slightest reason for complaint that for the first time in the history of the State a
