

SUNDAY CONCERTS.

The Committee Decides That They Are Popular.

Last Year's Officers Re-elected—What It Costs to Run a Season's Concerts.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of citizens was held at Mills & Hawk's office last evening, for the purpose of taking steps to inaugurate a season of open-air concerts in Sacramento this summer.

The call was for a meeting of last year's committees and others interested. The result was that a great many responded.

General J. G. Martine called the assembly to order, and that those present might understand what expense was attached to giving a season of concerts, he requested the Treasurer, J. E. Mills to read the report for the season of 1890.

Mr. Mills' account showed that $1,208.85 had been collected, and this amount, together with $26.42 left over from the season of 1889, made the total sum $1,235.27.

Twenty-three concerts were given at a cost of $1,116. Electric lights, gas, repairs, etc., made the total disbursements $1,225.15, leaving a balance of $10.12.

OLD OFFICERS RE-ELECTED. The election of officers for the coming season was then proceeded with, as follows: J. G. Martine, President; J. E. Mills, Treasurer; and Edgar M. Sheehan, Secretary.

CLERGYMEN'S REMONSTRANCE. The attention of the President was called to the following communication: "To the Chairman of the Committee on Summer Evening Concerts: Learning that a meeting of your committee was to be held this evening to consider the matter of giving concerts during the summer, we, the clergymen of Sacramento, representing the religious sentiment of the community, would respectfully urge upon you the propriety of discontinuing the Sunday evening concerts, for the reason that the moral effect of such gatherings on the Sabbath is bad."

The letter was signed by G. P. Tindall, A. C. Bane, W. G. Hoskinson, M. S. Boyce, Arnold T. Needham, W. Ward Willis, C. H. Beechgood, C. L. Fisher and G. E. Kralsted.

VIEWERS EXPRESSED. E. J. Devlin said he thought the communication should be answered, and suggested that those present express themselves on the question as to whether or not they favored concerts on Sundays. He, for one, did.

J. B. Gilbert said there was no doubt in his mind but that the great majority of people in Sacramento desired Sunday evening concerts. It was the only night that most of the men who worked hard, could attend. In the morning, after supper, they were tired, and as general rule were in the habit of retiring early in order to obtain a good night's rest.

He thought that Sunday evening was a time eminently fitted for holding concerts, which were an appropriate ending to a day of rest.

General Martine didn't believe that Sunday concerts ought to be given, either in the city or at Oak Park, but he proposed to abide by the wishes of the committee.

J. E. Mills said it made no difference to him whether Sunday concerts were held or not. He knew how tired it was the only evening many people could attend.

M. J. Dillman favored the holding of concerts on Sunday evening, and he believed they did no harm. He thought it would be impossible for the Canvassing Committee to raise money enough if it was decided not to hold them on Sundays.

F. M. Woodson, Charles Barton, J. C. Cotton, J. A. Moynihan, C. W. Baker and others spoke, favoring the idea of giving concerts regularly on Sunday evening.

It was finally resolved, as the sense of the meeting, that the music committee, when appointed, should arrange to hold concerts on Sunday.

It was decided that the Sunday evening concerts commence at 6 o'clock, and conclude at 8 o'clock, or shortly before, thus enabling those who desire to attend church to do so after the concert is over.

The following were selected as the Executive Committee: The President, Treasurer and Secretary and M. J. Dillman, J. B. Gilbert, J. A. Moynihan, J. L. Siller, F. M. Woodson, J. C. Cotton, F. H. Giesecke, Edward J. Devlin, Charles T. Barton, E. L. Hawk and C. W. Baker.

The selection of the music committee on order and canvassing was deferred until the next meeting, which will be held in Moynihan's parlors to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock.

AMUSEMENTS. The organ and pianoforte recital at the Congregational Church last evening by J. C. Dunster—late organist of the Royal Chapel, London—and his daughter drew a good audience. The entertainment was one of excellence. Mr. Dunster is an organist of great skill. His touch is strong, vigorous, and as need is, delicate, and his playing is marked by feeling and refined taste. He is certainly one of the best organists who has visited the city.

He plays with that intelligent comprehension of his theme that distinguishes all true interpreters of the works of masters of music. As a pianist he is also superior. He is in his playing overmuch of strength, perhaps, especially noticeable in his accompaniments. But his execution is very fine, often his method is so direct and abreast with the most cultivated taste. Miss Dunster is also an accomplished pianist. Her playing of Chopin's "Impromptu" in A-flat major was one of the best examples of accurate and tasteful execution that has been given here in a long time. As a vocalist, she has a pleasant soprano voice, and is well marked by feeling. It is indeed a very sympathetic voice, of good quality. She is not in tenutation what is desirable; at least in the one she gave. It is not probable that the audience were able to understand the words. With a voice so well under control, this is surprising. The genu of the evening was Mr. Dunster's organ solo, "O gloriosa Virginia," a writing of Mr. Dunster's, which so pleased that he was compelled by the audience to repeat it.

The first annual recital given by the pupils of Miss M. T. Wood, took place at M. L. Hammer's music rooms last evening, in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen. The program was as follows: A Duet, "O Sanctissima," Miss Jessie Litzberg and Bertha Teichert; "The Mallets," (Lecoeq), Miss Clara Meiss; recitation, (selected), Miss Sophie Litzberg; "Wild Rider," (Schumann), Walter de Maranville; "Dew Drop Waltz," (Albani), Miss Ethel P. Wynn; "Duet," (Leaves), "Serenade," (Schubert), Louis and Charlie Ellis; Gold King March, (Holst), Cindie Coleman; vocal solo, "Little Dog Under the Wagon," (Phoebe Litzberg, Mazurka Polka, (Kohler), Bertha Teichert; "The Music Box," (Muller), first piano—Miss Lulu and Miss Coleman; Master Harry Wood. Second piano—Miss Mattie Coleman, Ethel de Maranville, Master Walter de Maranville; waltz, (Chopin), Charles Elkus; "Birds' Allegretto," (Schubert), Emma Bueck; duet, "Mermaid's Song," (von Weber), Grace Klotz and Mabel Bradley; Polka, "Dance of the Fairies" (Mozart), Ethel de Maranville; Schottische, (Beethoven), Josie Litzberg; Romanze, "When the Twilight Gently Fades," (Goe), Elizabeth G. Wood; recitation, "The Star of the Sea," (Kennedy), Miss Mattie Coleman; "Hurry Luck," (Blake), Miss Lottie Hopper; "The Spindler," (Spindler), Louis Elkus; recitation, (selected), Miss E. Jeannette Burke; "Le Tourbillon," (Tito Matei), Miss Edith Bradley; piano quartet, "Gladie," (Holst), Miss and Master de Maranville, Miss Bueck and Master Wood.

The D. C. O. K. Club will give a dance at Liberty Gardens, Highland Park, on Thursday evening.

GOT THERE JUST THE SAME. Steve Lang Has Taken Up Quarters in Sing-Sing.

Steve Lang, who has been sent to the New York Penitentiary for fifteen years for counterfeiting, is the same creature who attempted to run the Fourth Ward polls at a city election here three years ago. He is the fellow who abused and browbeated decent citizens, and posed as a political light on that occasion, and is the same "Mr. Lang" who explained how these same Fourth Ward decent citizens had put upon him, and how he had been the defender of the right-of-way to the polls.

He is the same Steve Lang who sought to rule the town on election days, bullied old citizens, and threatened to knock their heads off for attempting to reach the polls.

He is the same "Mr. Lang" who managed the local baseball club, and was fawned upon and upheld by certain parties.

He is the same Steve Lang who ruled the roost and crowded over the whole town for a year; the same Steve Lang, "Mansuetor" Lang, who was always a bully and rowdy. He has at last brought up where he belonged years ago.

Drunken Young Rowdies. While returning from the outskirts of the city on Sunday evening, a gang of young rowdies on an electric car assaulted and badly beat a Chinaman who was on another car. Even the presence of ladies did not seem to restrain the young hoodlums.

It is said that similar acts of hoodlumism were committed by them earlier in the evening. The chain-gang will stand a few more recruits.

A New Labor Element. A. Menke, the hop-grower, has discharged all his Chinese and has employed Japanese in their stead. He will have all his hops picked by Japanese, and they think they can pick hops better than the Chinese.

THE SPRING MEETING. It Promises to Be an Unusually Interesting One.

Arrival of a Large Delegation of Turfmen Last Night—Pools on To-day's Races.

There is every indication that the Capital Turf Club's racing meeting which opens here this afternoon will prove a success. The recent attempt of a few schemers in San Francisco to break it up, and the dismal failure that attended their efforts, have had the effect of attracting the attention of the public to the Sacramento meeting, and it is expected the result will be altogether advantageous to the club.

Last evening's local train from San Francisco consisted of eleven coaches, and they were also closely packed that even the aisles were filled. And there are plenty of horses here, too, to make it interesting for all during the week.

There arrived from the Bay on Sunday (Hart, Stone's Marigold, Mystery, Cheerful, Larchetta, Protector, Kidder, Tyngall and last, but not least, the wonderful little two-year-old Centella; Siebenhaller's Sheridan and King Hooker; Danny Miller's Ida Gloom and two two-year-olds; Winters' great Yo Tambien, Dolly McCoon, another great one, Leah and Norretta; Harrison Brothers' Kylo and Hello; Savage's Jackson and Porter; Ashie's Geraldine, Toro and two two-year-olds.

Turfmen are looking forward to Centella, Yo Tambien and Dolly McCoon to pull down some Eastern standards this year. Sacramento, however, will come pretty close to proclaiming what these youngsters were selected as they will be in much better form than they were at the Bay District meet.

TO-DAY'S RACES. The race will commence at 2 o'clock this afternoon—all standing events—there are three in number. Pools thereon were sold at the Golden Eagle billiard rooms last night, as follows: First race, 2-year olds, five-eighths of a mile—Dolly McCone, 120 pounds, $20; Stella, 115 and Toro, 123, as a field, $5.

Second race, one and one-quarter miles—Sheridan, 107; $22; Hotspr, 129, $18; Larchetta, 109, $2.

Third race, five-eighths of a mile—Revolver, 119; $20; John Treat and Appalus, 119 each, as a field, $10; Captain Al, 147, $14.

A great many persons were present, considerable interest was manifested, and a large number of pools were sold.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM. A Gang of Footpads and Burglars Again Infest the City.

It was probably the same footpads who held up a citizen in front of the Perry building late on Sunday night (as mentioned in these columns yesterday morning) whom Dr. Fowler encountered on Sixth street, between L and M, at an earlier hour.

One of them struck at the doctor with a sand-clab, and although he missed his aim at the latter's head, it caught the doctor on the shoulder and knocked him down.

He commenced to yell for police, and the footpads commenced to run, hence they did not have the satisfaction of going through Dr. Fowler's pockets.

Evidently there are strangers in the city, for on the same night the residence of Mrs. H. C. H. on G street, between Tenth and Eleventh, was entered by a burglar. He did not get anything, however, having been frightened off.

THE WEATHER. A Low Barometer, With Rain in the Far North.

The Signal Service temperature at 5 A. M. and 5 P. M. yesterday was 52° and 73°. The highest and lowest was 77° and 51°, with fresh southerly winds and a partially cloudy sky. The barometrical readings at 5 A. M. and 5 P. M. were 30 inches and 29.88 inches.

The highest and lowest temperature one year ago yesterday was 82° and 55°, and one year ago to-day, 89° and 55°.

Quite a low barometer, accompanied by steadily falling and light rain extended over Washington, Oregon and Northwestern California yesterday, which accounts for the falling barometer in this city.

Mohr & Yoerk. The best place to purchase picnic supplies. Cooked corned beef, cooked ham, all kinds of sausage and other delicacies.

LOST—Thursday night, a bay mare, weight 1,000 pounds, left foot white, also white strip on the face. Finder please return to H. C. Ross, Highland Park, and receive reward.

IN HIS OLD PLACE.

A. H. Starr Re-Elected Building and Sanitary Inspector.

The Mayor Wants to Economize at That End of the Line—A Little Tit.

At yesterday afternoon's session of the City Trustees Mr. McLaughlin wanted to know what was going to be done by a Building and Sanitary Inspector.

Mayor Comstock said he preferred to take no action in the matter until the Board of Health should organize and recommend some person for the place. It was the paying of so many high salaries that made taxes so high.

Trustee Conklin said that, in his opinion, a Sanitary Inspector would be necessary during the hot summer months.

Mayor Comstock thought there was no necessity for a Building Inspector to walk about, draw $100 a month, command a few good balconies and overlook others that are much worse.

Ex-Building Inspector Starr assured the Mayor that while he was in office he did his duty fully, fairly and impartially.

The Mayor took issue with Mr. Starr on this point, and called attention to several instances in which it was claimed he had neglected to abate nuisances to which his attention was called. He defied the Mayor to specify one instance in which he failed to do so.

Mayor Comstock mentioned the names of a couple of persons, and Mr. Starr declared that in those cases, after full inquiry, he came out with a "Yes," said the Mayor, "you came out on top because you had a majority of the Trustees with you."

"And," replied Mr. Starr, "you voted with me, because you couldn't afford to do otherwise."

"I don't like this way of referring to members of the board," said Mr. McLaughlin. "Your remarks, Mr. Mayor, would imply that the majority of the old board were ready to knowingly uphold a derelict official. That is a serious charge."

The discussion then took a wide range, the Mayor declaring that he was opposed to paying $100 a month for building inspection, and that he wanted to see more economy practiced.

Mr. McLaughlin said he was as much in earnest for economy as the Mayor, but some things had to be done.

Mr. Starr said he had kept his own horse and buggy, and was often kept busy from 7 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the evening, and paid other necessary expenses out of his own pocket.

Mr. McLaughlin said the office of Sanitary Inspector was a very necessary one, and that the Board of Health had nothing to do in recommending any person for the place.

He concluded his remarks by moving that the board go into an election for Building and Sanitary Inspectors. Carried: yes—McLaughlin and Conklin; no—Comstock.

Mr. McLaughlin then nominated A. H. Starr, in his opinion, the official just elected could be dispensed with, he should vote to do so, but at present he thought such officer unnecessary.

FRUIT SHIPPING. A Device Which Will Carry and Preserve Fruit Intact.

A very ingenious and neatly arranged device for carrying fruit for Eastern shipment has been invented by T. S. Fitch, of Alameda. With it fruit, like peaches, apricots, pears or oranges, can be kept firmly in place in the box, and, at the same time, each peach or pear is entirely by itself. The frame that accomplishes this is made of straw-board, eight frames, each holding six peaches, fitting in the ordinary sized peach box. In the bottom of each frame six holes are cut with a die, shaped like a "U," the length of the radiating points depending on the size of the fruit for which the frame is used. The fruit—an orange or peach, for example—is pressed into each hole, the cut cardboard points bending and binding so as to hold the fruit in place.

By this method of gathering the crop from the tree and packing in the shipping box, but one handling is required; the picker takes his fruit, as they come, the steeper and packs as fast as he picks, filling the crates ready for immediate covering, thus avoiding any exposure of the fruit to the hot sun, drying winds and gritty dust.

BROOKS' CONTEMPT. The Defendant Attempts Escape by the Habeas Corpus Route.

G. W. Brooks attempted to free himself from Judge Craven's contempt decree yesterday by means of habeas corpus. The matter came on for hearing before Judge Van Fleet, Elwood Bruner and A. J. Bruner appearing as attorneys for Brooks.

Brooks was arrested and brought before Judge Craven some time ago on a charge of battery, but the complaining witness, P. R. Hanson, suddenly disappeared. It was asserted that Brooks persuaded the witness to leave town, and he was cited for contempt.

Judge Craven's order was returned, and he was fined $10. Brooks' attorneys argued that inasmuch as the alleged contempt did not occur in the presence of the court, and hence should have been presented by affidavit, which had not been done, Judge Craven had exceeded his jurisdiction, and asked for the discharge of their client.

Judge Van Fleet intimated that he would sustain the lower court unless compelled by law to do otherwise. He took the matter under advisement until to-day.

NEW BOARD OF HEALTH. The Trustees Turn to and Elect Another Set of Doctors.

At yesterday's session of the Trustees Mayor Comstock read the declaration of Dr. G. Tyrell to serve as a member of the City Board of Health elected recently.

Mr. McLaughlin then moved that the action of the Trustees two weeks ago in electing four members of the Board of Health be reconsidered, and it was so ordered.

The board then proceeded to a new election, and the following were chosen on the first ballot: Drs. Tyrell, Bruner, Gardner, Baldwin and C. B. Nichols.

THE NEW BOARD ORGANIZED. The old Board of Health held its final meeting last evening at Dr. H. L. Nichols' office, closed its business, and adjourned sine die. But the members of the new board were on hand, and were soon called to order by Secretary H. L. Nichols of the old board. The members—Dr. G. G. Tyrell, M. Gardner, W. H. Baldwin, A. E. Bruene and C. B. Nichols—were all present.

Dr. Nichols nominated President of the board Dr. G. G. Tyrell, and in doing so congratulated the community in having an opportunity to secure the services of so able and experienced a physician for the place.

Dr. Tyrell was elected by acclamation, and in taking the chair returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him.

For the position of Secretary Dr. Gardner nominated Dr. C. B. Nichols, and Dr. Bruene nominated Dr. W. H. Baldwin.

Dr. Nichols received four votes, and Dr. Baldwin one, and the former was declared elected by a vote of five to one.

Dr. Baldwin nominated J. H. Moore for Plumbing Inspector, and Dr. Bruene nominated a Mr. Liebling.

Before proceeding to a vote Dr. Nichols moved that the matter be postponed until Friday evening.

The motion prevailed.

Dr. Bruene moved that the board recommend to the City Trustees the appointment of its Secretary, Dr. C. B. Nichols, as Health Officer. Carried.

After transacting some minor business the board adjourned.

SURPRISINGLY GOOD. Entertainments at Pythian Hall That Cost Nothing.

"Free show!" This is rather an unusual sign to have out, here, where it was in black and white in big letters over the entrance to Pythian Hall, corner of Ninth and I streets, and the reporter stopped on his regular news-gathering tour last night to investigate. He had not heard of a free show since last Fourth of July. Stepping aside he was astonished to find the hall crowded and standing room at a premium. And it was no ordinary free-show audience, either. There were some of the best people of Sacramento there.

An amusing and large entertainment and white-neck-tied band the new arrival a programme, and did the best he could for him in every way, beating him where he could get a view of the stage. And all free.

Well, the curtain was up, and a fine, many-colored gentleman, about 35 years of age, stood in the handsomely dressed stage, and was addressing the audience on the subject of playing cards.

He lectured attentively, for he was a splendid talker, and interesting in the extreme. He illustrated his lecture, too, with colored cards on a large sheet of canvas, and he was an artist in his line. This gentleman was Dr. Delimitus McClary, Surgeon-in-Chief of the Columbian Synagogue, and in account of his gift of second-sight, and ability to perform what appear to be miraculous cures by the laying on of the hands, he has attracted a large audience.

The doctor frankly stated that he was giving this free show, and lecturing himself for the purpose of raising the syndicate and his son "Duke." He lectured for nearly an hour, but, strange to say, devoted very little time to "grinding his axe" in the usual manner.

He principally to giving his remarks a thorough insight into the wonders of the human body and the life it is heir to.

After the lecture, the lights and amusement portion of the programme was given, and it was really a surprise. It consisted of a variety of comic acts, songs and dances, and a few musical numbers. Ber. Durant, a very clever Irish comedian, opened the olio and kept the audience in roars of laughter with his funny songs and heavy-sounding dancing.

Richmond gave a fine musical act, playing on all sorts of instruments, and his little three-year-old daughter, Carrie, sang a solo that won her several encores. Al. Keser gave a good exhibition on the banjo, and there were several other specialties. The show wound up with a very funny farce.

The entertainment was a meritorious one all through.

Dr. McClary announces that he will continue to do his interesting and useful remainder of this week, and invites the public to come and see them.
