

DAILY RECORD-UNION MONDAY, MAY 18, 1891 ISSUED BY THE SACRAMENTO PUBLISHING COMPANY Office, Third Street, Between J and K. San Francisco Agencies. This paper is for sale at the following places: L. P. Fisher's, room 21, Merchants' Exchange, California street; the principal News stands and Hotels, and at the Market-street Ferry. Also for sale on all trains leaving and coming into Sacramento.

Weather Forecast. Forecast till 8 P. M. Monday: For Northern California—Fair, weather; except light rains in Eastern Nevada and at Ketchikan, cooler, except nearly stationary temperature along the coast.

THE SWIMMING BATHS. When the RECORD-UNION more than two years ago began its agitation for the establishment of swimming baths in Sacramento, it had abiding faith in the accomplishment of the enterprise. The fruition of our hopes is about to be realized, and we entertain a pardonable degree of pride in consequence, for we are convinced that the baths are greatly needed, that they will contribute to raise the standard of public health, and will afford the people wholesome, healthful recreation.

It is needless to travel over the ground illustrating the beneficent character of the baths. The fact is confessed by all the people. All that remains is to consider the final steps now being taken preliminary to their opening. The gentlemen composing the directory of the corporation we believe are acting with fine spirit, unselfishness, and with an eye-sight to making the baths accessible to the largest possible number, and to contribute to the pleasure and physical comfort of all the people. They should, therefore, have the cordial support and hearty encouragement of all our citizens.

Of course, as was anticipated, there was wide diversity of opinion as to what would be the best location for the baths. But now that a site has been chosen, there should be generous, hearty, unanimous concurrence in what has been done by the directors. We believe they have acted wisely, certainly economically. The location chosen is more central, more easily accessible by the mass of the people, than is true with the swimming baths of San Francisco, Oakland or Chicago. The distance from the very center of population does not exceed two blocks. The site chosen also gives both car lines carriage of the people, and thus avoids all possible antagonism. But above all, it conserves economy of expenditure, enabling the institution to be conducted upon the plan everyone favors; that is, so as to open its benefits to the people at the smallest possible individual cost. There are a few citizens who have been heard to say that the site is ill chosen; that would be said no matter what location might have been agreed upon; it is still said of the post-office, of the Pavilion, and of every other public institution we have. But we are confident that a year hence there will not be so much as a single voice of this character in the matter of the swimming bath.

What is now needed is that the people shall come forward and subscribe to the stock of the association. It is a perfectly safe investment; there is involved in it philanthropy and public spirit; it means progression, and a nearer approach to the plane of a metropolis. It means enhancement of sanitary benefits, greater contentment with Sacramento and less reason for going abroad for indulgence in a natural, rational, health-giving, bodily developing exercise.

The sum of money the association really needs has not yet been subscribed. If it can write $5,000 more of stock before the foundations are laid, we will have a better built, more convenient and in every way more desirable swimming bath. With three or four, or at least half a dozen exceptions, every one of those who have subscribed for stock ought to increase their number of shares, and there are fully one hundred citizens who could name who have not subscribed at all, who ought to do so, and who will be directly benefited by the enterprise. In this matter, which means so much of permanent good for the city, let not solicitation be waited for; indeed, the directors say they have no time to solicit for shareholders. They give their time now to the full extent possible; let the individual orders, therefore, come in for ten or twenty shares in large number, and at once. There is scarcely a young man in the city who cannot take ten shares with ease; there are a hundred men and women who have taken no stock who ought to do so immediately and experience a sense of proprietorship in one of the most beneficent of local schemes. Of one thing let the people rest assured, the stockholders who put up the $18,000 now written have elected a Board of Directors that is a guarantee of clean administration. The baths will be "run" for the people; the people of the homes of the city. There will be no catering for mere gain, no favors or discriminations. Our children will have full opportunity to be taught an essential physical accomplishment, without which man is unarmored and helpless in the presence of one of the four principal elements of existence.

These baths are going to contribute incidentally to another good, that is, drainage. The water constantly flowing from them will dilute sewage and flush a long sewer line. It is a legitimate and beneficial use, and the flow must be disposed of, and the city will thus have a new reason for speedily providing, as it must do in any event, proper means for disposal of the city drainage. If, as there is every reason to anticipate, several new manufacturing establishments are put into operation in Sacramento, the drainage from them must be taken care of also. So that these enterprises all contribute to the settlement of the drainage question, a settlement that we believe to be not one-third so difficult as has been supposed, and that can and must be accomplished in the very near future.

posed, and that can and must be accomplished in the very near future. CLOSE THE DIVES. The limit expires to-day for the filing of petitions for license in cases where the law has not been complied with. The public says to the Trustees to-day, "Grant no petitions for low groceries, for dives, for drinking places in disreputable quarters." The public sentiment is such to-day that it demands the closing of all these resorts for cut-throats, thieves and rascals, in fear of whom men walk the streets at night in pile of their lives. Though petitions be piled mountain high, they should be refused.

The Trustees have the power, as other municipal corporations have done, to wipe out the whole of these places. If there are no such resorts the criminal element will leave the city for more congenial places. They must not be longer tolerated here to awe the people and disgrace the city. "Close the dives!" that is the demand of the people of Sacramento to-day; "Blot out the low resorts!" that is the voice of public opinion, and the Trustees, we entertain the belief, will, as good citizens, apply that remedy for the evil.

THE FULL REPORTS of the Charities National Conference at Indianapolis are now reaching us. We have not examined any proceedings of any convention where more practical good sense has been manifested. The papers and debates clearly disclose that the economy and beneficence of organization of charities is becoming deeply impressed upon the people. The RECORD-UNION will endeavor to present in brief form all the material facts developed at the convention. President McCulloch in his valuable opening paper presented the startling fact that, exclusive of those in jail, the dependent classes average 250,000 out-door, and 110,000 in-door paupers annually in this country, while over 3,000,000 people are supported by charity, in whole or in large part every year. This gives us some idea of the extent of the field of operations. The direct loss to industry by reason of this contribution by it, is placed at $50,000,000 of productive power, and not less than $60,000,000 in cost of maintenance additional. There is not, therefore, merely a sentimental consideration in this matter, but one of economics. His idea is that each State should keep an accurate register, with constant postings, of all dependent classes, inmates of charitable institutions, etc., with all the facts concerning them and their support fully set forth. From this data can be established a basis for the most economic policy, and for the best order of relief, the cost of crime, and the best means of reducing it to a possible minimum.

In considering the death sentence of Bell, who brutally murdered Jacobson for the purposes of robbery, the San Francisco News Letter asks, "Is the death penalty enough?" Well, certainly the death sentence is not enough. We want speedier execution. The rule is, that the wretch who knifes or pistols a human being in order to filch his purse, though convicted, outlives the witnesses. However, what our contemporary means by its inquiry is, that so much is made of the convicted thug that death is really but small punishment if we are to judge from the bravado and cheerfulness and often the proud dramatic attitude with which cut-throats approach the scaffold. Life imprisonment at hard labor, the News Letter thinks, would be more deterrent. Perhaps it would. But under the new system just adopted by California, the convicted murderer is to be transferred to one of the State prisons where the execution must take place. This will effectively clip the wings of bravado and give to the death penalty a great deal more of terror than in the past.

THE RECIPROcity arrangement with Brazil confers upon that republic certain specific advantages of trade with the United States. This must tend to influence other South American States with like products to seek the same advantages. If they fail to do so they must suffer loss. So that reciprocity by the United States with one South American State is the stepping stone for reciprocity with others. The same effect will follow the extension of the doctrine everywhere. Reciprocity with Spain will stimulate Portugal to ask for a like convention, and France and Italy will feel the impulse also, and so the new commercial era will broaden naturally and rapidly. Nothing can check the expansion except stupid legislation crippling export trade under the plea of protecting some one at home, at the expense of true protection, which augmented export is.

THE QUESTION is already being asked in the cities, "Where shall I go this summer?" The best response to make is, "Remain at home as long as health and prosperity attend. There is need for recreation, for change and rest, and all that; but that is not what is meant by the 'go' question. It has become too much the mere fashion to 'go' for the sake of going. An outing to woods, seashore or broad valley fields or to mountain canyons is a very different thing from the fashionable 'go,' that means no change except that which flows from the pocket."

"THERE is room," says the Philadelphia Times, "for wide application of the reciprocity idea with our American neighbors." And why not with any people where we can so covenant as to enlarge our export trade, and thus protect home industry? Why should we stop short with "American neighbors"? Is there any sentiment in trade?

A SAN FRANCISCO journal observes that "liars are born, not made." That is an erroneous statement. Put a truthful man at work upon the local of a "live" San Francisco newspaper and note the result.

In the w- of the revolution the United States had 28,467 men.

WILL THE POLICE DARE? Dive-keeper Yates is Thoroughly Astonished. A fair sample of the effrontery of some of Sacramento's dive element was had Saturday night during a war of words between a negro named Yates, who keeps a deadfall on L street, and special officer William McLaughlin. McLaughlin had arrested a colored individual named Cole for disturbing the peace. Yates accosted the officer on the street about an hour later, and wanted the latter to "pick up" Cole and have the charge reduced to drunkenness. This McLaughlin refused to do, whereupon Yates became furious. "What?" shouted the dive-keeper, "Do you mean to say you won't?" "That's what I said," replied McLaughlin, firmly. "What?" is the police department going to try to buck me?" roared Yates, the whites of his eyes fairly gleaming. "I don't know anything about that," was the reply. "Can the police force afford to buck a gin me?"

McLaughlin now became exasperated and a lively exchange of words ensued, which came near ending in blows. NATURAL GAS. The Right Kind Has Been Struck at the Well. There is real gas at the natural gas well, at Fifth and R streets. The announcement that the public could inspect the well during yesterday attracted a large crowd of interested citizens to the scene of operations. The tube is now nearly 1,000 feet deep, and the indications are that a large reservoir of gas will be tapped. Already several tributory openings have been struck, and each succeeding one has yielded better than the one preceding it. When seen yesterday a heavy stream of clear water was flowing over the top of the tube, and the gas bubbles were to be seen in plenty. During the forenoon several tests of the gas were made, and it was found to be of the proper burning quality. A miniature reservoir with a burner attached, was filled, and when a match was applied to the burner it flared up readily. Operations will be resumed at the well shortly, and it is believed that it will only be a short time before still better results are obtained. It is very encouraging, indeed, and those who have invested in the experiment are jubilant.

A ROTTEN HOLE. The City Jail to be Condemned as a Public Nuisance. Health Officer Nichols yesterday inspected the City Jail, and the result is that he is prepared to officially condemn it. He found that the ventilation and sewage of the place was simply awful, and declared that it was as much as one's life was worth for a person to be confined to it for a matter of days. It is a matter of fact that nearly all officers whose duties have required them to remain at the jail of late years have lost their health. Frank Rider was a strong, robust man until he became night jailer, but during the past year he was sick much of the time, and has not yet regained his former vigor. Officer Higgins had to give up the duties of night jailer on account of his health, and officer Farrell said there till he became physically broken down. The building is not fit for a Receiving Hospital, in its present condition, but it is possible that it can be made so. Sanitation, like charity, should begin at home, and it behooves the Trustees to take the city's public institutions kept in proper condition.

THEY WERE TOADSTOOLS. Serious Result of Looking for Mushrooms Out of Season. Reference was made in the RECORD-UNION yesterday to the poisoning of a family named Flynn, caused by eating mushrooms, or what was supposed to be such. The fact was developed yesterday that it was the family of Daniel Flynn, residing at 1836 Second street. It appears that a neighbor had been out mushrooming (or rather toadstooling), and gave some of his catch to Mr. Flynn's family. The "fruit" was partaken of by Mrs. Flynn, her boy and young daughter, Neely. All three were made more or less sick, but Miss Neely's case became so serious that a physician had to be called in, and finally she was pronounced out of danger. "Why anybody should expect to find mushrooms at this season is a mystery, for he might as well hunt for ripe cherries in January. "Leaves have their time to fall," etc., but toadstools have all seasons for their own—and death.

SWIMMING BATHS. Woodland is Thinking of Emulating the Example of Sacramento. The Woodland Democrat wants the citizens of that progressive place to erect swimming baths, and says: "Why should not Woodland have a swimming bath? It is something that our town needs, since the one connected with the flour mill has suspended operations. There is one in Sacramento, and so far as we know, it is doing well. Their cost some $5,000. Of course we could not ask for one so expensive here. It would not pay, as the town could not afford it, but it is no reason why I considered one of the attractions of the city during the summer months." The Sacramento baths have not yet materialized, but the steps have just been selected and work will be commenced at once. They will cost, however, nearer $25,000 than $5,000. Still, this fact should not deter either those from erecting swimming baths on a smaller scale. Every community should have something of the kind.

Greek Vandals Punished. Deputy Sheriff William E. Elliott and night watchman John Howard of Rio Vista, on complaint of several fishermen, arrested on Sunday a week ago, two Greeks for illegal fishing. The officers found the Greeks in the act of fishing near the mouth of Three-mile Slough, and immediately arrested them. The Greeks were brought to Rio Vista for trial, and on Monday morning, says the News, Judge Ingersoll fined them $50 each.

The spring fisherman who carries a jug with him may not get many bites, but he is sure of nips in abundance.

SPECIAL NOTICES. I HAD a severe attack of catarrh and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from ringing in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks I could hear as well as ever, and I can say to all who are afflicted with the worst of dis-eased ear, that Ely's Cream Balm and its cure, is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh.—A. E. Newman, Grayling, Mich.
