

ACTIVE REPUBLICANS.

They Will Not Wait Until Next Election to Organize.

Steps Toward the Formation of a Permanent League--Patriotic Speeches and Cheers for Blaine.

For years the Republicans have talked of a permanent organization in the shape of a club or league, but no sooner was an election over than this was lost sight of.

During the past week or so, however, the subject has been taken up with more activity and earnestness than heretofore, and the result was that a meeting was called at the Court-house last evening to talk the matter over, and if possible effect such a permanent organization as is desired. There were present at the meeting W. A. Anderson, J. O. Coleman, T. W. Sheehan, E. W. Roberts, State Treasurer McDonald, William Govan, W. W. Coons, J. McKinnon, W. H. Ennis, R. E. Harmon, T. W. Huntington, C. S. Houghton, M. A. Howard, E. A. Cronch, W. D. Knights, Chris. Green, J. W. Guthrie, E. H. McKee, Harrison Bennett, A. J. Gardner, G. W. Ralston, C. C. Van Fleet, J. B. Devine, Ed. Weinrich, J. C. Pierson, F. R. Dray, W. M. Petrie, W. W. Rhoads, Frank B. Ryan, Controller Colgan, T. B. Reid, C. H. Hubbard, W. W. Douglas, H. D. Gamble, O. W. Erling, M. W. Hawk, O. G. Turrill, Frank T. Johnson, Dugald Gibbs, Wm. J. Davis and others.

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION. J. O. Coleman called the meeting to order, and briefly stated its objects. He said he believed every loyal Republican was in favor of such an organization and he hoped the meeting would result in much good.

Chris Greer nominated W. M. Petrie for temporary Chairman, and despite Mr. Petrie's protest he was elected unanimously. Harrison Bennett was elected temporary Secretary.

Mr. Petrie upon assuming the chair thanked the gentlemen present for the honor conferred upon him. He said that it was with pride that he could say that he was old enough to help organize the Republican party in its earliest stages, and he had been a constant Republican ever since. There was a disposition on the part of political organizations to break away from themselves at times and to become disorganized parties.

Mr. Coleman suggested that before proceeding further in organizing it would be better to hear some expressions from prominent Republicans present with reference to the best plans to be adopted and so forth.

This suggestion seemed to meet with general favor, and Chairman Petrie first called upon Senator Dray.

A GOOD IDEA. Senator Dray said he was in accord with the feeling that had been thought about this meeting. There was a talk in San Francisco to make an effort to have the next National Republican convention on the Pacific Coast. He thought it would be a grand thing. The Republicans and Democrats would be pleased alike. He said he realized that the Republican call that the party lines over there were loose and the holding of the convention on the coast would act as a great tonic. He would like to see Sacramento organized, and help the movement, and permanently organize. It would even be a big thing to undertake to get the convention here, State Treasurer McDonald was called upon, but only spoke briefly. He explained that he was a stranger here, and came rather to listen than to talk.

E. W. Roberts was heartily in favor of the idea for a permanent organization, and exhorted the Republicans to get together and show the world that they were solid here.

Chris. Green said that the Farmers' Alliance and labor parties do not wait until just before an election to organize, and he did not see why the Republicans should. It was proper that Sacramento, as the capital of the State, should take the initiative in organizing a permanent Republican club.

W. A. Anderson said he was a worker and did not believe much in talk. However, he considered this a proper time to organize the Republican party of Sacramento, and not wait until just before election. The point made by Mr. Green regarding the Farmers' Alliance organizations was a good one, and the club should be taken. A permanent league or club would amalgamate the party thoroughly and would prevent those members from straying off to the Alliance and other side issues.

Controller Colgan was introduced, but like Treasurer McDonald, preferred to listen rather than talk.

Chairman Petrie at this juncture reminded the State officers that among Republicans there were no strangers, that were friends, and he hoped there would be no differences among them about giving their views.

Frank D. Ryan called the attention of those present to the fact that many of the internal differences of the party that arise around election time are settled if there were a central or permanent organization. He did not believe in waiting a day. Now is the time. Other cities throughout the State were called upon, and in a short time steps could be taken toward a permanent State organization. Regarding the plan of organizing, Mr. Ryan thought the best way would be to have an Executive Committee, and have that committee formulate a plan.

"CAN'T BE BEAT." W. H. Ennis was in hearty accord with the organization idea, and predicted great things. When the Republicans are organized, he said, it is impossible for any other political body to carry Sacramento. After the local club was on its feet, so to speak, the next thing to do would be to get the entire county in line. A county organizer could be appointed, who would go about the county and get them all together.

C. H. Hubbard was called upon and spoke briefly. He was in favor of Sacramento taking the lead in this matter, and promised his support and co-operation in organizing.

General Sheehan, W. W. Rhoads, Dr. Huntington and F. E. Johnson spoke briefly in favor of the proposition. Mr. Johnson moved that they proceed at once to elect officers and organize.

NAMING THE CLUB. Mr. Green moved as an amendment that they proceed to name the proposed organization first, and he suggested that it be called the National Republican League of Sacramento.

J. O. Coleman lived the Republicans or to go a little slow. A temporary organization had already been effected, by the election of a Chairman and Secretary, so there was no need of Mr. Johnson's motion. The step was an important one, and the smaller details should not be overlooked. He then moved that the chair should appoint a committee of five or seven to consider the whole matter, and report a plan for permanent organization at an adjourned meeting.

three cheers for James G. Blaine, and they were given with a will--and with a "tigh" attached.

DON'T CARE TO WAIT. After adjournment Chairman Petrie called back Mr. Coleman, Senator Dray, Mr. Green and several others, and announcing his intention of appointing the committee right away instead of waiting a day, asked them to assist him. After consulting with Messrs. Sheehan, Mr. Petrie appointed the committee as follows: F. R. Dray, W. A. Anderson, T. W. Sheehan, J. O. Coleman, C. S. Houghton, Chris. Green, W. W. Rhoads, Frank D. Ryan, A. A. Van Voorhies, R. T. Davlin, T. W. Huntington, Grove L. Johnson, W. H. Ennis, Joseph Steffens and C. H. Hubbard.

This committee will hold meetings this week, and, after agreeing upon a plan, will call for a general meeting of Republicans and submit its report.

Wickham.

Mr. Green moved as an amendment that they proceed to name the proposed organization first, and he suggested that it be called the National Republican League of Sacramento.

J. O. Coleman lived the Republicans or to go a little slow. A temporary organization had already been effected, by the election of a Chairman and Secretary, so there was no need of Mr. Johnson's motion. The step was an important one, and the smaller details should not be overlooked. He then moved that the chair should appoint a committee of five or seven to consider the whole matter, and report a plan for permanent organization at an adjourned meeting.

Senator Dray agreed with Mr. Coleman, but he thought the committee should consist of fully fifteen. The organization was not for the purpose of advancing the interests of any living man, and the organization should be put in the hands of competent men. In conclusion, Mr. Dray moved that a committee of fifteen be appointed to report at a future meeting a plan of organization and a name for it. He also thought that when the committee makes its report a call for a general meeting of Republicans be issued.

On motion of Mr. Houghton the Chairman was given one day's time in which to appoint the committee.

The motion to adjourn to the call of the committee was then carried, but before they filed out Chairman Petrie proposed

HEISEN'S FENCE.

Road Overseer Basler Not Guilty of Malicious Mischief.

No More Slogging Between the Attorneys, but Some Rather Warm Arguments.

There was a large crowd of spectators in Justice of the Peace Starr's Court yesterday, when the trial of Road Overseer Basler, S. S. Harding, J. W. Cox and A. Ward--charged with malicious mischief, for breaking down Charles Heisen's fence--was on.

It was evidently expected that there would be some more slogging between the District Attorney Ryan and Lawyer Hiram Johnson. But the crowd was doomed to disappointment. The legal gentlemen appeared to have recovered from their wrath, and everything ran along smoothly, much to the disgust of the expectant spectators.

The defense occupied most of the day, the testimony all going to show that the road which was obstructed by Heisen's fence was a public highway.

WARM WORDS.

The arguments made by the opposing attorneys to the jury were somewhat heated and personal, but not enough so to bring on another set-to like that of Monday. Mr. Ryan referred again to the alleged unauthorized use of his name on the part of the defendants, and placed in a very unpleasant position. He had given the Supervisors advice regarding this fence, and they had ordered Road Overseer Basler to remove it. Mr. Basler and his assistants simply carried out the wishes of the Board, and consequently had no malice in the matter. The District Attorney, however, made some caustic remarks regarding the complaining witness, Heisen. He accused Heisen of making use of a criminal court to get possession of some land that did not belong to him. He was too mean and vindictive to go about it like a man, and bring suit in the civil courts. When Basler had fired.

REMOVED THE FENCE.

Said Mr. Ryan, Heisen had him and his assistants arrested for malicious mischief. The case was tried before Justice of the Peace Starr, and the defendants were discharged. Then the Supervisors ordered the fence removed again, and again was the Road Overseer and his assistants arrested, and the case brought before Justice Starr, but the defendants demanded that the District Attorney insist that there was nothing malicious in the act of the defendants, and that the road was a public highway.

Lawyer Johnson made the closing argument for the prosecution. He said that the question of whether or not the road on which Heisen's fence stood was a public highway really cut no figure in the case, but, at the same time, the evidence showed that it was not a public road, and consequently

HEISEN HAD A RIGHT.

To protect his property. He denied all of the charges made against Heisen by the District Attorney and attributed them to spitefulness. It was plain, he thought, that Basler had overstepped his authority, and that the fence was broken down Heisen's fence, and opened a way through the latter's land for the accommodation of three or four sand-haulers.

After Judge Starr had heard the jury the court-room was cleared for the twelve men to deliberate. They soon rendered a verdict of not guilty, and the defendants were discharged, respectively joyfully and Heisen scowled a deep, dark scowl.

It is stated that the litigation over the matter is not ended yet, and that Heisen now proposes to take the District Attorney's advice and commence civil proceedings in the Superior Court.

STRIKING BOATMEN.

Their Places Promptly Filled by a New Crew.

When the steamer San Joaquin No. 2 was about to leave here on her last trip to San Francisco her crew of fourteen men struck for higher wages--$45 a month, instead of $40--and they got it; that is, they got the raise, but they did not get the work any longer than it took the captain to run his boat to San Francisco.

Yesterday morning they were informed that their terms could not be complied with, and they walked ashore and left the boat without a crew. The Post of last evening, referring to the incident, says that if the men thought to embarrass the California Transportation Company they made a sad mistake, for in half an hour a time a new crew had been shipped and the barge went out only a little behind her schedule time.

"The strikers thought that they had a cinch on the company, and when the new got on the dock one at a time they started in to kick their heels. This little piffness was interrupted by the arrival of officers Mahoney and Dover from the north harbor station.

"The retiring crew attempted to maintain that they deemed their rights when the sailing hour of the vessel arrived. By main force and with Miss Mary they made a dash for the barge to bank the new crew off, but a display of brass buttons and hard fists checked their ardor, and they were ordered to get into the fold and landed at the station, charged with disturbing the peace.

"This step effectually silenced the row, and the San Joaquin left without further trouble.

"One of the officers of the company said that $40 a month was the required salary of the men until July, when $5 was added to their wages.

"He said that the men had been carried through the winter at that amount, and he thought it was hardly a square deal for them to jump the company while there was little or no work to be done."

THEY DID HIM UP.

A Tourist From the Buckeye State Falls Among Thieves.

Yesterday morning a tenderfoot from Ohio, named James Maples, dropped into the city, and some time ago was found hiding in a dive at Front and C streets, in the "Grand" Hotel building.

Just why strangers should strike out from the depot straight for the dive quarter is a mystery, but they do it every day, especially when bent on a "rag" of them, and instead of being attracted eastward by the beauties and odors of Chinatown, he switched off westward.

Possibly Chinatown is the wall that diverts tourists in the latter direction. At all events, the wanderer from the Buckeye State soon found himself with his abdomen up against the back of his dive and calling for beer for the crowd.

Going to the rear of the place, he was held in a trugger style by a powerful thief, while two others cut out the pocket containing his scanty supply of coin. He was then allowed to go, after being warned not to "pipe to the police."

But the warning was not heeded, for Maples went straight to the police station and stated his story. Officer Simmons went out with him and soon arrested Jimmy Smith, Jack Ryan and a confederate named Lewomy, who were booked for robbery.

It will be a long testimony against that of the prisoners, and there is danger that they may not be convicted.

LAST NIGHT'S VICTIM.

About 9 o'clock last night Dan McKirver, who arrived from Amador City during the day, naturally drifted to L street, where he loaded up.

He was going up the street afterward when he resolved to "take a look" on the back of the head that "peeped" him. On the back of the head of his senses which L-street whisky had not stolen, he made the discovery that he had been robbed of $36 and a silver watch.

He reported his experience to the police, but was too drunk to give a description of the men that assaulted him.

BRIEF NOTES.

The river is falling slowly. Yesterday it marked 18 feet 1 inch.

James A. Murphy, for whom the police were looking, and who is charged with having retained for his own use money left with him by a patron of the Smith dive, where he was bartender, yesterday surrendered himself.

Yonon F. Gunn and Mrs. Aida K. Gunn have petitioned the Superior Court for the probate of the will of Y. W. Gunn, deceased. The estate consists of real estate of the value of $5,000, and personal property, notes, etc., to the value of $5,000.

In Judge Van Fleet's court yesterday, in the case of Josephine Hopkins vs. Thomas L. Acocik et al., a decree of foreclosure was granted in favor of plaintiff, an attorney's fee of $125 allowed, and a stay of proceedings for twenty days granted.

Owl Social.

There was an "Owl" social at the West-merest Presbyterian Church last evening, and it was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd which was in attendance.

The following programme was excellently rendered: Last musical duet, "The Ladies Stella Cary and Miss May Hiekman; vocal solo, Mr. Gibson; song, Edna Ingram; "Fuldin's Sea Voyage," Miss Strickland and Mr. Jaycox; saxophone solo, Mr. Kleinsorger; vocal solo, Mr. Davis; cornet solo, Mr. De la Cruz; Miss Jessie Logan accompanied the soloists on the piano.
