

NOW THEY'RE OFF!

The Capital Turf Club and Driving Association Organized.

Enthusiastic Lovers of Horseflesh in Council—Great Things Predicted for the Future.

There was a representative gathering of business men and turfmen at the Golden Eagle Hotel last evening. A call was issued several days ago for a meeting of the Capital Turf Club, under whose auspices the recent successful spring races were given, and it was decided to make a permanent organization of the club.

The attendance was surprisingly large, and the enthusiasm manifested leaves no doubt that the new organization is destined to be one of Sacramento's institutions. Among those present were noted:

C. A. Luhrs, T. B. Hall, W. O. Bowers, J. W. Wilson, Daniel Flint, George C. McMillan, Matt Coffey, W. J. Irvine, F. Meister, W. E. Loyd, Wilbur F. Smith, F. P. Lowell, C. Road, F. G. Fay, C. H. Todd, C. W. Goddard, Charles Vogel, J. J. Wilson, J. W. Blair, J. W. Stafford, F. A. Jones and others.

Daniel Flint was elected temporary Chairman and Frank A. Jones, Secretary.

After the meeting had been called to order Mr. Jones stated that the object was to have a permanent turf and driving club in Sacramento, such as are in existence in other cities—Denver, for example. These clubs or associations, as a rule, owned their own race tracks and were wealthy organizations. It was safe to say that the Sacramento club would be self-sustaining within a year or two, and its members would not be called upon for subscriptions or dues.

Mr. Bowers said that the object of financial support was very kind, but that the club would want to be a purely amateur organization of the business men as well.

Mr. Fay thought the club ought to organize with a view to some day owning its own track and buildings.

Chairman Flint explained that inasmuch as the Sacramento Driving Society maintains and would continue to maintain a track in Sacramento, which would always be at the disposal of the club, another track was not necessary.

On the other hand the club could devote its funds to hanging up big purses, which would attract the best of racing stables here.

Mr. Wilson said he considered it a great advantage to the club that the State maintained a fine track here already. It was an advantage which other like clubs ever started off with.

Several others of those present expressed their views and it was the unanimous verdict that the outlook was exceedingly bright.

Mr. Wilson moved that a committee of seven be appointed, whose duty it would be to formulate a plan for permanent organization, and submit it at a meeting to be held next Monday evening. The motion was adopted, and Chairman Flint appointed the following named gentlemen as a committee: A. L. Hart, W. O. Bowers, J. W. Wilson, Edwin F. Smith, Frank A. Jones, Daniel Flint and E. W. Hale.

Before adjourning, the matter of naming the club was taken up and discussed. It was finally decided to call the new organization the Capital Turf Club and Driving Association.

A membership-roll was opened and all of those present signed. The meeting then adjourned until next Monday.

AMUSEMENTS

The Clonic Opera-house was crowded last night. Ostensibly there was a play, "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands," by Duncan B. Harrison, who, when he tries "right hard," can construct a clever melodrama, or even a comedy. But he did not "try" in the manufacture of "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands."

He was writing around John L. Sullivan, as might be compared to the description of cannon making, which the rustic said consisted of taking a long hole and pouring molten metal through it. All the metal of Harrison's effort was absorbed by the hole. Into that all things ran; the audience was dully, but indifferently conscious of something on the stage besides Sullivan, but whatever it was, it was eclipsed by the interest in Sullivan.

The main walk on with a rolling gait and walked off with an arms-akimbo style that captured the lovers of the slogging champion. He read but a few lines in a hortatory manner, and they were given with the air of the braggart who shakes his finger with a half threat and throws his head forward with the confident air of ability to enforce his command by "chuckin' der feller under der ear, see!"

He came before the curtain once and said: "Ladies and gentlemen! I thank yer for yer appreciation and hopes to describe it in de futur as I have in der past." Then he pulled at his forelock and went off while the devotees of "the manly" howled. Sullivan is not and never can be an actor. He is a boxer, and with the aid of the play-right gave a brief exhibition of his skill last night in one scene of the apology for a play. The thing will be repeated to-night.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

Ex-President Cleveland Attempts to Guide a Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Information comes in private mail from New York that Cleveland will attempt to guide a committee on the silver question when Congress convenes. Cleveland is trying hard to head off the change in sentiment on the question of his nomination. He fears the solid South and the unyielding West on the financial question.

His ideas somewhat like that proposed recently by his ex-Secretary of the Treasury Fairbank, is the free purchase, but not the free coinage of silver. He wants a scheme which will buy bullion so long as it remains popular, but to stop when it ceases to be a profitable investment. He would coin when the price of silver is high and at par, but shut down altogether when there is evidence of a corner or movement of foreign nations indicating a disposition to impoverish our supply of gold.

This would make silver a nonentity as a political factor. It would give Cleveland and his party a chance to straddle the question again. All propositions of this character contemplate the placing of the coinage question wholly within the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, and they are therefore out of the question, so far as Congress is concerned.

Several attempts have been made during the past few years to enlarge the purchase of silver bullion, and all have been turned down without consideration. They, in any degree, gave the Secretary larger discretionary powers.

THE RAISIN INDUSTRY.

Movement on Foot for the Proper Grading of the Fruit.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—A meeting of prominent raisin dealers and several leading producers was held here to-day. Included in the number were A. P. Butler, O. H. Forsythe and Fulton G. Beny, the largest raisin producers of Fresno County, and representatives of nearly every dried fruit firm in this city.

The meeting was called for the purpose of devising means to overcome some of the difficulties experienced in the raising trade last season. One of the chief of these was the fact that during a spell of dullness in the Eastern market there were considerable rejections made by Eastern buyers, on the alleged ground that the fruit was not up to the sample. There was apparently well-grounded suspicion that had the market continued active throughout the season there would have been few, if any, rejections.

It was the opinion of those present that the only feasible plan for the future was to have a system of grading, and inspectors appointed by the organization should be instituted to examine all raisins offered and brand them in accordance with the rules adopted. When raised so marked it would be guaranteed that their quality corresponded with the brand, and no rejections would be tolerated of such goods. The grading should be done in the vineyards and when the fruit is first gathered, and should be followed up in the packing-house. With such a system in vogue, the honest buyer would be protected against the dishonest one, and the buyer would likewise be sure that his purchases made by sample were up to the quality agreed upon.

POSTON MURDER TRIAL.

Colking Denies Numerous Allegations Made Against Him.

MEMPHIS, June 15.—The cross-examination of Colking was concluded to-day in the Poston murder trial. He denied the numerous allegations which have been made against him touching his doings at different times in his career. On redirect examination it was brought out that on the day the cross-bills filed by Mrs. Pillow in Arkansas and Tennessee was to gain possession of the property deed, and will be to her. Witness had previously filed a bill of divorce against his wife. Mr. Pillow did it herself. Witness denied that there was anything in the litigation that was an advantage to her. Charges complained of in the cross-bill.

A Woodland Lady Drowned.

WOODLAND, June 15.—News has been received here of the probable drowning of Mrs. J. U. Waininger at Santa Cruz, where she had been for the past two months with her little girl in search of health.

Heating of Street Cars.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Last year the City Council passed a bill requiring the street railway companies to heat their cars in cold weather. A test case was brought, which Judge McConnell decided to-day. He holds the ordinance invalid, on the ground that the council is not clothed with power to impose such a burden.

The Sewerage Problem.

The convention of citizens called by the Mayor last week to discuss the sewerage problem will reassemble at the Board of Public Works this evening. The subject will be taken up for further consideration. It is expected that Health Officer W. C. Nichols will submit an interesting report.

There wouldn't be so many tired employees in the world if men would stop climbing hills before they got to them.
