A THOROUGHLY BAD PROPOSITION.

A party signing himself "J. W. Nance, President of the State Association of Irrigation Districts," has written to leading bankers in San Francisco, asking whether it would not be desirable to have an engineer, known as a consulting engineer, make an examination of all the irrigation districts of the State and report as to whether they are irrigation districts, or whether they have been constructed in accordance with scientific principles, and other matters affecting their credit as borrowers of money.

Mr. Nance has suggested that the districts of the State employ William Hammond Hall as consulting engineer to report on the question of water supply, plans and estimates, etc. He asks the bankers whether or not, if they are questioned by Eastern investors in bonds on the subject of the character of the districts, they would not report that they had been examined by a competent engineer, if Mr. Hall had made the examination? Several of the bankers reply to this, answering in the affirmative, and in addition they suggest that "it might be well for your association to employ some competent attorney to investigate the status of the several districts and assist Mr. Hall in his work."

This is simply a proposition to make William Hammond Hall consulting engineer under salary of each irrigation district. It is a very thrifty proposition from Mr. Hall's standpoint, but it is almost childish as a means of establishing the credit of the bonds. Mr. Hall would have about as good a thing as has been vouchsafed to mortal man. He will be consulting engineer for each district in the State, not by their choice, but by reason of the fact that he would report favorably on irrigation districts. The districts would pay Mr. Hall. He will be their paid servant. It is not reasonable to suppose that they are going to employ an engineer to discredit their undertaking. We have not the slightest objection to the employment of Mr. Hall by any district in this State which may choose to give him employment. He is equally competent to determine matters of this kind with the engineers who have planned the district. In short, Mr. Hall is a reasonably competent engineer, but there are many as competent engineers in the State of California, and many of these have been employed by the various districts of the State.

When, therefore, the State Irrigation Association attempts to place Mr. Hall over head of all of these engineers, and secures at the hands of the bankers a statement that if Mr. Hall will say that the water supply, plans, estimates, etc., for the work, and the general engineering and business questions involved by the establishment of the district are commendable, that they will repeat what he says to investors in bonds, they are making Mr. Hall the arbiter of the sale of all the bonds in California.

If this proposition had proceeded from the investors it would have had a business appearance. If the people desiring to invest in bonds had themselves chosen an engineer, and sent him to examine the districts and determine the business and engineering questions, the proposition would have presented the appearance of real business capacity. But for the Irrigation Association of the State and the irrigation districts of the State to pick out a man upon whose judgment Eastern investors are to make investments, will not help the credit of the irrigation districts one particle. The bankers addressed on this subject could not have answered otherwise than in the affirmative. The inquiry made of the bankers may be summed up practically: Is Mr. Hall a competent engineer? and the bankers answer this question in the affirmative. As stated by a paper favoring this plan, "it must be understood that the gentlemen whose names are quoted do not take upon themselves the task of acting as a committee to oversee the examinations that are to be made, but simply agree in their individual capacity to act as references and certify to the ability and responsibility of the experts selected."

The proposition does not select experts at all; it simply makes Mr. Hall the arbiter of every system in the State. It will result unfortunately to the whole situation. It cannot do otherwise, because it is a plan by which the people who place the bonds on the market are practically ally certifying to the engineering value and the business character of their own proposition. If Mr. Hall or any other competent engineer had been selected by the investors, we would have had a wholly different proposition.

There appears to be no end to the expense with which the irrigation districts of California are to be saddled. The instance under consideration will simply augment the expense. It will accomplish nothing in any other direction. In addition, the districts are to employ attorneys to make favorable mention of the legal status of the bonds and the observance of legal forms in the formation of districts. Thus by the testimony of their own paid servants the credit of these districts is to be established.

ANOTHER PROPOSITION TO TAX IRRIGATION DISTRICTS.

Colonel R. J. Hinton, who is special agent of the Irrigation Division of the Agricultural Department of the United States, over which Jerry Rusk presides as Secretary of Agriculture, is now in San Francisco, having visited the State of California to make examinations concerning irrigation matters for the benefit of the department over which he presides. Colonel Hinton's visit to California may be the means of much good. The Government of the United States owes it to the State of California, where effort is being made to fertilize arid lands by the artificial application of water, to make such examinations as will assist in the sale of the bonds now proposed to be placed on the market for the development of irrigation works. We presume that Colonel Hinton is in discharge of this duty, and that it will be done faithfully. The presumptions are in favor of this view at all events. But a proposition has been mooted to secure at the hands of Colonel Hinton a special examination of all the irrigation districts in this State from an engineering standpoint, and make a governmental report concerning them. In fact, the proposition is to have Colonel Hinton do what it has been proposed to employ Mr. Hall to do. But an additional proposition has been made that the department has not money for this work, and it will therefore be necessary for the irrigation districts to raise $10,000 for this purpose. It has been suggested that each district pay $100, and four-tenths of a cent on each acre of land to be irrigated. There appears to be no end to the propositions to levy contributions on the irrigation districts of this State. The Department of Agriculture at Washington might be appealed to in the present status of affairs for that help which Governments are instituted to accord. We do not see any necessity whatever for raising a special sum to assist the Government of the United States to carry out work it has undertaken and to promote a governmental function, to the benefits of which the people of California are already entitled.

The present status of the irrigation question in California is leading to numberless propositions to add to the cost of developing irrigation systems. We shall take the liberty of pointing them out with justice and clearness, and protecting the people of this State against a species of wrong which is becoming altogether too apparent. We are not advised that Colonel Hinton has been the originator of this proposition. On the contrary, the suggestion appears to have arisen in the minds of people who look upon the present as an excellent opportunity for governmental interference.

TIMELY ASSISTANCE.

The two most powerful of the Atlantic steamship lines that bring in immigrants to this country—the North German Lloyds and the Hamburg-American—have acceded to the request of the United States and notified their European agents to ship no more of the non-admissible classes. The Hamburg-American goes so far as to instruct its agents to refuse passage to anarchists. If the steamship representatives violate these orders they will be made to pay the entire cost of returning those who are refused landing. It is very gratifying to learn that these ocean carriers have resolved to stand with the people of the United States and not in opposition to them. The two lines bring in more than half of all European immigrants; their co-operation therefore must prove of the utmost value to the immigration officers of the United States and exercise a powerful influence upon the character of immigration we will hereafter receive from Europe.

TUTT'S PILLS

A Noted Divine Says: "I have been using Tutt's Liver Pills for Dyspepsia, Weak Stomach and Constipation, with which I have long been afflicted."

There are on sale in the Sacramento market apples of a good quality imported from Australia, and retailed at about the same figure charged for coast grown apples. This is a commentary upon home production that is very emphatic. It is not claimed that in the warm valleys of California we can grow apples in competition with the finer flavored fruit of higher altitudes and colder climates. Nevertheless, we have areas of foothill and mountain sufficient to grow all the apples California can consume, and that, too, of many varieties and character. But apple growing ought to be as profitable as the growing of smaller fruits. If it is not we do not understand the reason for it. If the reply is that our apple product is shipped away to the Territories, it is to be answered that so long as there is drought of supply in the local market there is not sufficient apple growing, for we should produce a sufficiency to meet home as well as export demand. We ought certainly to grow enough, and at a profit sufficient for the grower, to keep out importation from so distant a section of the globe as Australia. The Australian apples now in the market are of but fair quality. We can and do produce much better, but, as stated, there is not such attention given to our capability in this direction as the demand justifies. It is a demand very much exceeding production and that appears each year to increase in volume while the product augments but very slowly.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Ed. T. Dupins has started a new daily paper at Carson City, Nev., called the News. It starts out small, but it ought to grow, as there is room for a good paper in Carson.

The Healdsburg Enterprise published a very handsome illustrated edition on the 20th inst.

PARADISE OF THE WORLD.

THIS CITY OF SACRAMENTO IS ONE OF THE HEALTHIEST OF ANY IN THE known world. She is the very center of the grandest State in the American Union; she is located in the heart of the richest valley on the Pacific Coast; the principal point for all the main railroad lines of California, with 50 trains leaving and arriving daily; her water supply for health-giving qualities (barring mud from the hydraulic mines) is not excelled anywhere; she is also dammed by the best levee system in the country, making her absolutely secure from high water. She is also dammed by the worst lot of dillennians known in this or any other country, but this is no drawback, as the city is on such a high that many of them are leaving us for San Jose and Oakland. Then again, look at our fine the outside world to understand that disorder reigns supreme. Why a quiver lot of people cannot be found anywhere than those that have been snatched up on their way home city I will say that it is full of everything that man needs to make a home, and four Trustees could order every citizen or head of a house at least to provide themselves with one of our EDISON'S SUB-BURNER VAPOR STOVES. Everyone would be happy, as they will cook a meal in ten minutes. No heat, no smell, no wood, coal or coke, no ashes and stove to black. WE ARE SOLE AGENTS.
