

BOWMAN IS HAPPY.

He Says the Chicago Cranks Fairly Idolize Him.

Current Gossip About the Various Ball Grounds--Games Here This Week.

The Oakland and Sacramento will appear in this city this week in a series of ball games, and the cranks will have an opportunity of judging whether or not there has been any improvement in the playing of the Colonels.

In a letter to a friend in this city, William Bowman, who caught last year for the Sacramento but now with the Chicago, says:

"We are on our Eastern trip, and will leave Cleveland to-night. I am perfectly satisfied here. Anson is a fine fellow to play under, if you do what is right by him. He does not want any of his team to get drunk and not on hand to play, and I don't blame him for strictness in this regard. But a rule of this kind is not necessary for our team. Every player is a gentleman, and our team seems to be satisfied. I see Reitz and Roberts are still playing with the Oakland, the California boys back East here are all playing first-class ball. Van Halten has the cranks after him all the time. They give him anything he wants. Powers is playing first base with the best of them, and he ought to be in the National League, for it is where he belongs. A better baseman I have not seen, and I judge him by this season's work. Brown, Lohman and the rest of the Western boys are right in it.

"You may think I'm flattering myself, but really I have made so many friends in Chicago who are pleased with my work that there is a night that I have to refuse invitations to theaters, parties and shows. I can't accept half of them. Things are so different here that I cannot explain the situation by pen.

"How is Mr. Ginsberg doing? I suppose he will never sell out his team. I do not think they will win the pennant for him--that is, it does not look that way so far, but the season is not near over yet, and one cannot tell what will happen. They are all good men, and Sacramento ought to be very happy to have the lead at the end of the season. Give my regards to all my friends."

McIntire and Peoples are still playing with the Sacramento team, notwithstanding the alleged order from the Board of Control that they should leave themselves to the North. Manager Ginsberg says those who are raising the scare are talking through their "teeth."

The manager informs a RECORD-UNION reporter that he was in error in stating that the game at Stockton several weeks ago, between the Sacramento and Oakland, was a league game. He has learned that it was not, and that the game was the standing of the clubs. This will necessarily lower the average, or percentage, of the Sacramento club several points.

The release of Roberts from the Colonels was a surprise, but he had to make room for Danny Low, and Colonel Robinson could not afford to play him on the bench. Roberts has been fielding all right this year, but at the bat was a failure.

No catcher in the league is doing the work that Spies is, and yet he is the lowest-salaried man of any of them. It is all his fault, however. He did not know how much he was worth, and consented to play at about half the figure he is really worth. He ought to have his salary increased by a good management.

Clarke, San Francisco's catcher, is, according to reports, idolized by the Haight-street audiences. There is no doubt that he is an excellent outfielder and a good batter, but there are other players just as good, but they do not show that their heads have expanded in the least. Clarke seems to be slightly inclined to overestimate his abilities.

SHOULD BE AVOIDED.

The State Board of Trade Makes Some Valuable Suggestions.

President Gregory of the State Board of Trade has sent out to the Presidents of the various county boards a circular in which he says:

"Colonel John P. Irish, Chairman of the Committee of Immigration of the State Board of Trade, will, under the auspices of the board, visit each of the various affiliated counties for the purpose of inquiring into the resources thereof and the desires of the citizens in respect to the development of such resources, and interests as may offer a fair field for the investment of capital or employment of labor.

"In the meantime, I beg to suggest that a conference be had with the citizens, so that when Colonel Irish shall visit the country there may be an agreement upon the essential facts to be presented--for instance:

"The necessity of the establishment of factories, and the inducement offered to capitalists.

"Which kind of fruit returns the most profit, and can the field for culture be extended.

"What are the profits per acre, accompanied with the statements of responsible persons?

"How much Government land is there in the county, and if any, its accessibility and value?

"Give prices of other lands unimproved, as a basis of comparison with lands in the Eastern States."

UNDER THE SOD. The funeral of Robert Allen yesterday largely attended.

One of the longest funeral processions here in many years was that which yesterday followed the remains of the late Robert Allen to the cemetery.

After services at the family residence, at which Rev. Mr. Banc officiated, the body was taken to Masonic Hall, whence the funeral took place under the auspices of Sacramento Lodge, No. 40, F. and A. M., W. D. Knights, Worshipful Master, Royal Arch Chapter, No. 2, also attended by the local and Sacramento commandery, Knights Templar, J. E. T. Pike, Eminent Commander, acted as escort. The members of the Pioneer Society also attended.

The procession was led by the First Artillery Band. A choir, composed of Mrs. Addie Carter, Mrs. Percy Ross, R. T. Cohn and Horace Crocker, rendered appropriate music at the house and also at the grave. The floral offerings were very numerous and beautiful. The pallbearers were James Woodburn, W. B. Miller, William Petrie, T. C. Perkins, F. H. Russell and James McGuire, the latter two representing the Pioneer Society.

In reference to the history of the Sarsfield Grenadier Guard (now Company G) on Saturday it was stated that Sergeant J. A. Klein was the oldest member of the company, having enlisted in 1850. This was a mistake--Sergeant Klein has been fifteen years in the ranks.

The Trustee's Simple Duty. Eds. RECORD-UNION: The Trustees should see by Friday night's mass meeting the sentiments of the people of this city in reference to the granting of the electric franchise on P street. Did ever a people more forcibly express their opinions than did the taxpayers at this great demonstration? And now, in the face of these facts, the sentiment should be set aside, personal feelings for this or that individual should not figure in this case, whatsoever, but that broad, liberal spirit which should control the entire action of those in charge of our municipal affairs should prevail, and J. H. Henry should be at once granted permission to lay his track on P street without a dissenting vote.

Look at it well, gentlemen, you, who control the welfare of this city; remember that our people have no fight with Mr. S. Carey. He is simply a citizen of this city, without a single right more than any other taxpayer. His and his property are here to stay, and his rights are as much ours as yours. We want more enterprise of this kind to build up our city?

That question rests with you, Messrs. trustees, and you shall not side for or against this all-important question at your meeting on Monday. You should not forget nor lose sight of the fact that the little city of Stockton is at this moment bidding for this same enterprise which you seek to drive away. They offer Mr. Henry big inducements to locate there. But they are live people; they have one of the largest agricultural works in the State, and several others are in operation, and they want more.

But let it not be said of Sacramento years hence that she had had luck--that capital and enterprise passed her doors. This would be a downright falsehood. Capital has come here upon many occasions, and each time has been refused a hearty and an aggressive welcome. Shall we mistake this people if they suffer this much longer. They should in justice to themselves and their children, take the reins of this city government in hand and lead her out of the land of the wilderness. They should do this in defense of their property and homes, which most of them have spent their lives in saving up for old age.

But I have confidence in the men whom the people of this city have temporarily put in charge of her affairs, and I shall await their action on this franchise, believing that their own good judgment will tell them that the people want the P-street franchise granted, and of course they will have but one course to take, and that is to grant it.

THAT LIQUOR LICENSE.

The Saloon-Keepers Claim it Does Them an Injustice.

Messrs. Anderson and Johnson Address a Public Meeting--Willing to Pay $30 a Quarter.

There was a fair gathering of citizens at the meeting held on Saturday evening at the Clunie Opera House, under the auspices of the Liquor Dealers' Association, but not nearly so many as the promoters of the meeting hoped to see. In the absence of President H. F. Dillman, who was ill, B. B. Brown of the Capital Hotel presided, and several members of the association had seats on the platform.

After music by the Hussar Band the Chairman introduced W. A. Anderson, who spoke briefly. He discussed the features of the new license ordinance in a vigorous manner, holding that it was unfair in many particulars, and especially in discriminating as to what class of saloons should be allowed to remain open all night, while others were forced to close at midnight.

The speaker said the liquor dealers were willing to pay an increased license, but they felt that the Trustees had gone too far in raising it at one jump from $15 to $45.

MR. JOHNSON'S ARGUMENT. Grove L. Johnson was the next and last speaker. He spoke in a low, even tone, and without his usual fervor and warmth. He said he represented the desires of the Liquor Dealers' Association. It was composed of law-abiding citizens, who deprecated litigation, they were willing to consent to a higher license than the old one, but they did not like a uniform rate--they thought that their business, which was by license legalized, should be treated as some other, and the license rate graduated according to the business done. A man, they claimed, doing a business of $10 a day should not be charged the same rate as one whose income is $100 a day. No law is possible of enforcement if not backed by the sentiment of the people.

The question is, how is this new ordinance to be enforced? The Liquor Dealers' Association instructed him to say that it would join with the authorities in supporting the ordinance and the disreputable places. The ordinance the association believes to be too sweeping, burdening the small no more than the large saloon. The Trustees have the right to pass the ordinance and regulate the traffic--that was not denied, but they had also the power to refuse to license disreputable places. The question is: Why not do so?

Mr. Johnson regretted that so few people were present, but to those who his liquor dealers said, "Why not meet half way and adjust this difficulty?" Why have litigation, which is so uncertain? Jurisdiction is not certain, one had already refused to do so, whether it is better to go on and litigate, or settle on a fair basis--that is the question. He said he did not know how many more people were not present to hear this proposition, but it was made, and the dealers ask, "Is it not fair? Is it fair to raise the license about half--had not the exact figures at hand--of all the city revenue?"

That is the question the dealers put to the people, and they await their very confident in their sense of justice and fair play.

WILLING TO PAY THIRTY DOLLARS. City Trustee McLaughlin stated to a RECORD-UNION reporter that he was willing that the liquor dealers would consent to a license of $30 a quarter.

"This," said the Mayor, "is the figure I place it at in my mind, and I think the one now in force, except that the license was made $45. I then thought, and I think now, that it would be doing pretty well to raise the license at a starter. If this were done, and the plan should be found to work well after a year's trial, then it might be possible to raise the license to $45. The liquor men tell me they would pay $30 a rate, and I think the license should be fixed at that figure. I may move to amend the ordinance, but that particular, I believe in reaching reforms gradually."

It has been learned from other sources that the liquor men have agreed to submit to a license of $30 a quarter. The Trustees will put the rate at these figures.

ROLLED IN THE DUST. What Befell Two Modest Steam-boat Deckhands.

Late on Saturday night a couple of river-front men, John Evans and James Rodgers, were indulging in a fierce "scrap" at Second and L streets when, Ollivers McLaughlin, Wilson and Special Officer Eldred put in an appearance and stopped the fight.

Just as they had arrested the men a couple of the latter's river-front comrades came up and sought to rescue the prisoners. McLaughlin gave one of them his first under the jaw, and one of the other officers extended an equally warm reception to his comrade.

The incident concluded that they had had enough of the business and as soon as they could pick themselves up from the gutter they lit out for the river.

NOT MUCH IN IT. An Unlawful Entry Case Thrown Out of Court.

Nearly the entire morning session of the Police Court on Saturday was consumed in straightening out a difficulty in which Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stock and Mr. and Mrs. Sperling had become involved. Stock was charged by Sperling with misdemeanor in taking possession of a saloon on Tenth and W streets,ousting Sperling and his wife, and retaining some of the property.

After hearing a great deal of testimony, Judge Craven concluded that there was not enough in the case to warrant a conviction, and the defendant was discharged.
