

PULLMAN'S DAUGHTER.

An Heiress to Millions to Wed a Native Son of Sacramento.

Frank Carolyn the Fortunate Young Man—The Wedding to Take Place Next Spring.

The San Francisco Examiner says: "The engagement of Frank J. Carolyn of this city and Miss Harriet Pullman, daughter of the many times millionaire of Chicago, has been announced, and already the fortunate young man is receiving the congratulations of his friends. The fact is an important one, not only to business and society circles of San Francisco, but owing to the prominence of the Pullmans both throughout America and Europe, the news will be canvassed in all countries where the names are known."

"The intended bride is the second daughter of George M. Pullman, the inventor of the sleeping-cars bearing his name, and who has accumulated an immense fortune, estimated at from $50,000,000 to $70,000,000. He has also the privilege of affixing the title of Marquis to his name, having been made a nobleman by the King of Italy a few years ago. The Pullman family consists of two young lady daughters, and twenty-one sons, all of years of age. The young lady whom Mr. Carolyn is to lead to the altar is 22 years of age and a beauty of pronounced brunette type. She is intelligent and graceful in her movements. Like the rest of the family she is to strangers apparently distant and reserved, but to her intimate friends, very affable and loving. She makes few confidants, but to those whom she likes is pleasant, kind and affable."

"The Pullmans live in an elegant mansion on Prairie avenue, the aristocratic boulevard of Chicago, and have innumerable country seats, where they spend most of their time. At present they are at their summer palace in one of the Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence River, and when they return to Chicago, Mrs. Pullman will remain a few weeks. Mrs. Pullman is a widow of an invalid, and the trip to this coast last winter was for the benefit of her health."

"Frank J. Carolyn, the young San Franciscan who has captured the heart of one of the heiresses of the house of Pullman, is one of the best-known young men in the city, and stands at the head of the city. He was born in Sacramento thirty years ago the 18th of last month, and resided with his family in the Capital City until they all removed to this city, about fifteen years ago. He is the eldest son of James Carolyn, who came to California in early days from Brooklyn, N. Y. The elder Carolyn engaged in the hardware business in Sacramento and was the senior member of the firm of Carolyn, Cory & Co. In 1876 they removed their place to San Francisco and purchased the establishment of Hooker & Co. A few years ago Mr. Cory retired, and Frank J. Carolyn, who had returned from Cornell University at that time, was admitted a partner in the firm."

"The young gentleman soon made himself a prominent figure in society and club circles. Nothing of importance could take place in city affairs unless Mr. Carolyn was an important feature. He has always been regarded as one of the handsomest men in the city, and with a good education, pleasant address and affable manner became popular with whomever he came in contact. Faultless in his dress, the appellation of 'The Duke' was generally applied to him by his intimate friends. He is a member of the Bohemian and University Clubs and is deservedly popular in both institutions."

"Although known as a society man he ranks high in the business community. He is acknowledged as one of the most sensible young business men and never allowed society affairs to interfere with his business engagements. He is the owner of a very high by the old merchants, and is able to 'keep his own' with the progressive spirits of the street. He resides with his parents in the elegant Carolyn residence on California street, west of Van Ness avenue."

"Mr. Carolyn met his fiancée about the first of January last while the Pullmans were stopping at Coronado Beach Hotel. It was remarked by their friends that it was apparently a case of love at first sight, and when the family returned to San Francisco Frank was their constant companion. Miss Pullman attended the ball given at the Hotel California by the Pullmans. At all entertainments given during the short visit of the Pullmans Mr. Carolyn was invited, and a couple of months later, when the family left for Redonda Beach, Mr. Carolyn followed and spent a month at the same hotel."

"About a month ago Mr. Carolyn left on the overland train, informing his intimate friends that he was going on a business trip for his firm, and would probably proceed as far as Denver. On his arrival in Chicago the gossiping world and canvassed the situation. On his return to San Francisco last Friday the rumor of his engagement became bruited about, and that the young man was compelled to inform a few of his friends of the true state of affairs, and that night he was warmly congratulated on his good fortune."

"The wedding will take place in Chicago some time early next spring, probably before Easter."

MRS. FASSETT.

She Wept When Her Husband Was Nominated for Governor.

The proudest woman in the country is Mrs. J. Sloat Fassett, daughter of Mrs. E. B. Crocker of this city. Her husband was nominated the other day by the Republicans of New York as a candidate for the Governorship. A correspondent writes that it was a memorable scene in the convention at Rochester when the guns boomed and the building was sounding with cheers after Mr. Fassett was nominated. Her husband thronged to congratulate the candidate. He pushed them all aside and made his way to his wife, who was sitting in the front row on the platform. There, before the cheering of the leading Republicans of the Empire State, he stepped down and kissed her. She smiled, and then hundreds of voices cheered again, and that the young man for Mrs. Fassett she burst into tears."

It is said that Mrs. Fassett will be a rival in New York to Mrs. Grover Cleveland in personal popularity. She sat during the proceedings of this most enthusiastic convention in the front row on the high platform on the right side. The young woman wept on her husband's face, but none of them felt such an interest in every detail."

AMUSEMENTS.

The Grismer-Davies Company commences its one-week engagement at the Metropolitan Theater to-night. The first play to be presented will be "The Burglar," which has not been seen here for two years. It is a thrilling drama, in which both Mr. and Mrs. Grismer have ample scope for their talents. These people are prime favorites in Sacramento and always draw good houses. There is every reason to believe they will do so this week, as they will present a number of excellent plays. Miss Davies (Mrs. Grismer) is one of the most accomplished actresses on the stage to-day.

Among the members of the company this season are Miss Sara Stevens, little Laura Cross, Miss Della McQuinn, Edgar Weir, L. Collins, Arthur Livingston and Joseph Middlemiss, all competent people.

The closing week of the State Fair will be brightened up by the appearance at the Clunie Opera-house of those popular comedy artists, Evans and Hoey, who will be seen in the successful play, "A Parlor Match." This company will be seen in but four performances, commencing Wednesday evening, and we predict

IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

The Boldest Robbery Ever Committed in this City.

Chris. Engal of Suisun "Mugged" and Robbed While Looking at a K-Street Show-window.

Of all the robberies and cases of garrotting that have occurred in this city in a quarter of a century, that committed on Saturday afternoon, at Fourth and K streets, was the most audacious.

On that day Chris. Engal and wife of Suisun came to the city and took rooms at the Western Hotel. They came to attend the State Fair and also to bid adieu to the city of Suisun, who was to have left on the midnight train for the East.

Mr. Engal brought with him about $150, all that was deemed sufficient for the trip and to purchase an overland ticket for his sister. Of this sum he had $125 in a pocketbook, the rest being in loose change.

On Saturday afternoon Engal took a stroll up the street, and a little after 4 o'clock he and himself in front of the show-window of Weinstock, Lubin & Co., at Fourth and K streets, admiring the new building and the handsome display in the window. The usual number of people were passing and repassing on the sidewalk, and a crowd of people where he stood inside the broad arcade that is such a handsome feature of the new structure.

While thus engaged two men moved up close to him, but Engal paid no attention to them. Suddenly one of them slipped a hand over Engal's eyes with a sharp blow, which rendered him unconscious, and slid out upon the sidewalk where he mingled with the passing crowd of pedestrians. His partner, the man who clapped his hand over Engal's eyes, had also mysteriously disappeared by the time the latter was able to see, the man who had been the time being affected his eyesight.

Engal hastened up and down the street in search of the men who had robbed him, but could not recognize them.

He returned to his home yesterday for more money, and his sister's departure was consequently delayed.

It seems almost incredible that such a thing could have happened in broad daylight on the principal street in the city, and in a business locality where the sidewalks are nearly always crowded with people.

PROBABLY THE SAME PAIR. A stranger in this city, while seeing a friend off on the Knight's Landing train last evening, at the depot, was joined by a couple of men who he was to take to the depot he found he had been robbed of $104.

THE POLICE WORRIED. When a RECORD-UNION reporter related the Engal occurrence to Police Captain Lee, shortly afterward, that officer remarked:

"I tell you it is awful the way these thieves are acting! There was a new invention of a hand saw, which the officers will have their hands full to-night and Sunday! Why, there ought to be a policeman to every down town block, and even then they might not keep track of the fellows that have come here to plunder people!"

ROBBED ON A STREET CAR. It is true that San Francisco and other places have jumped upon this city the worst of their criminal classes, who hope to get money "by hook or by crook" during the fair. On Saturday a lady named Mrs. Croley, who resides in San Francisco, was returning from the races in a crowded street car, when she was robbed of a gold hunting-case watch and a gold chain. She did not discover her loss until after leaving the car.

OTHER ROBBERIES. Various other cases of robbery were reported at the police station on Saturday night and Sunday. Salvation Army members claim to have had two watches taken from them.

R. P. Carrington, an employe at the railroad shops, reports the loss of a watch and chain, and a pair of shoes, when he was on an exhibit in the Pavilion, claims that his showcase has been despoiled of two pistols.

THE RIFLEMEN. Scores Made at Yesterday's Practice. A Six Month's course in the military marksmanship to the ranges near the American River for their weekly practice. Those of Battery D made the following scores:

Table with names and scores: Capt. Hall, 89; Priv. Guth, 38; Serg. Kern, 35; Priv. Kline, 34; Serg. Kline, 32; Priv. Kline, 34; Corp. Kline, 32; Priv. Kline, 21; Priv. Kline, 21; Priv. Kline, 15; Priv. Kline, 15.

COMPANY A'S SCORES. Serg. Whittier, 26; Priv. R. Enright, 25; Corp. W. Enright, 37; Priv. W. Bowers, 33; Corp. W. Enright, 37; Priv. J. Gracia, 21; Priv. Greenwald, 37; Priv. Wiley, 22; Priv. D. E. Shields, 25; Lieut. Taylor, 13; Priv. W. Spangler, 37; Priv. J. McGuire, 36.

APPLE-SHOOTING NOTES. Last year Company G put up two rifles as prizes to be shot for by those under the "forty" class, competitors to be entitled to one round each week from January 11th to August 30th. The returns are now all in, and the result is as follows:

W. H. Benteen, 898; J. L. Guth, 896; O. M. Sutton, 754.

Battery G will hold its semi-annual shoot next Sunday. It was expected that the new ranges would be ready for use by that time, but they probably will not until the following week.

THE NEW RANGES. Work on the construction of the new shooting ranges of the First Artillery Regiment, which are located just this side of the American River, was completed on Sunday. The ranges are now open to the public, and the regiment can now boast of having some of the finest rifle ranges in the State. There are in all ten ranges, each range having two targets. There are seven two-hundred-yard ranges and three three-hundred-yard ranges. They are built after the latest pattern, the targets sliding up and down, and the marking being done in a pit below, six feet in depth. In order to avoid confusion a bell is attached to each range, and from it a wire extends to the shed from where the men shoot. As each man fires a shot he simply pulls a lever and the marker knows on which target to look.

An endeavor was made to rent enough land to put up a 500-yard range, but without success. Colonel Guthrie says, however, he may not be able to do so.

It is understood that on Sundays

HAS NO "PULL".

Judge Cravens Defines His Position Rather tersely.

On Saturday in the Police Court the cases of Fong Ah Hin, Fong Ah Leung and Fong Ah May, the Chinamen charged with having robbed a Chinese woman of some valuables, were continued until Tuesday.

City Attorney Hart asked the court to exclude Ah Loy and other Chinamen from the courtroom when the cases were called on Tuesday. He said Ah Loy was becoming altogether too conspicuous as an interested party of late in all Chinese cases, and he led other Chinamen to believe that he was a privileged character in court.

Judge Cravens amused everybody in the courtroom by saying to Look Hoy, the Chinese interpreter: "You tell all the Chinamen here that Ah Loy has no 'pull' with this court."

The interpreter did so and several of the wily heathens looked astonished.

LIVE STOCK AT AUCTION. At 10 o'clock to-morrow (Tuesday), at the G-street entrance to the Park, Bell & Co. will sell at auction twenty-one head of stock.

On Wednesday, at 10 A. M., at the ranch of Henry Ahart, near Franklin, the same firm will sell at auction fifty head of fine young horses and mares.

SERVICES AT THE PLAZA. The Sunday afternoon services by the Florence Mission on the public Plaza were very largely attended. Addresses were made by Mr. Crittenton, founder of the Mission, and nearly all the local pastors.

SHE WALKS AGAIN. A Cosmunes Girl Cured by Her Faith in God.

Pronounced Incurable by the Doctors. She Casts Her Crutches Aside, and Walks With Ease.

Residing about twelve miles from Elk Grove, near the Cosmunes River, in this county, lives a widow named Denhard, with several daughters, one of whom had for four months past been unable to walk, an attack of measles from which she had suffered having affected her feet. They were terribly swollen and heavy and lifeless. She managed to move around to some extent by the aid of crutches, as the weight of her body was too great for her feet.

Being an ardent believer of cure by faith she prayed long and earnestly for relief, according to the instruction of a book, entitled, "The Prayer of Faith," written by Carrie F. Juid of Laundry Farm. She also received encouragement from her companion, Miss Grace Scott, who is also an ardent Free Methodist.

According to a statement published in the paper, she was taken to Alameda and was assisted to the residence of Rev. D. G. Shepard, pastor of the Free Methodist Church of that city.

According to a statement published in yesterday's Examiner, the two young ladies were, on last Tuesday evening, more than usually overcome with conviction of the power of faith to cure ailments, and after supper they retired to their bedroom to pray.

Miss Scott was already convinced, and when the crippled girl exclaimed: "My Father, I take Thee at Thy word," her companion said: "We walk by faith not sight. Walk by faith!"

And instantly the praying subject bounded from her room and ran up and down the house shouting: "O Father, O Glory!"

The pain and weakness had left her ankles and feet. She was as sound and well as ever. The swelling had left the limbs and she was as happy as a child, jumping and shouting. She did not care to sit down and joyfully told her story to all who would listen.

On Wednesday she walked more than a mile through the streets, without assistance, and felt no fatigue.

She continued to walk without difficulty, and tells the story of her cure to the large numbers of people who call at the unpretentious cottage each day.

The doctors of Sacramento, she said, had concluded that there was no cure for her. They thought that she would always be a cripple. Sending her to Alameda was the result of their thinking the change of climate might at least prove beneficial.

But she seemed to grow worse until the day of her sudden and miraculous cure.

Miss Denhard has been a devout Christian since she was 13 years of age, and is a member of the Cosmunes Church, near Sacramento.

Miss Scott has also been an invalid for some time. She was a patient in the California Women's Hospital for a long time, through chronic rheumatism. She came here about two weeks ago, and has also become almost entirely cured. She is confident that her cure will shortly be complete, though she is still lame.

Several witnesses, considered reliable, testify to the above conditions, and also that the two girls have not been taking medicine.

NEVER mind what opposition agents tell you, the "Domestic" is by far the best sewing machine. Try it. Office Ninth and J.
