

ROSEBUD RANCH.

It is Forced to Part With One of Its Lovely Blossoms.

Marriage of Miss Maytie Johnston and Frank A. Edinger—A Brilliant Affair in the Country.

Rosebud Ranch, the charming country home of ex-Senator William A. Johnston and family, on the east bank of the Sacramento River, fifteen miles south of this city, was the scene of great merry-making yesterday. The occasion was the wedding of Maytie, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, to Frank A. Edinger of this city, an attaché of the train-dispatchers' department of the Southern Pacific Company.

The parents of the bride have been honored residents of Sacramento County for forty-two years, and it is not strange that at their elegant home friends and neighbors to the number of nearly three hundred assembled yesterday to witness so interesting an event as the wedding of their esteemed and accomplished daughter.

Away back in the dreary days of '49—those dreary days that witnessed the first great tide of immigration flow hither from the East and break upon the shores of the Pacific, days whose memories shall ever be warmly cherished in the hearts of the descendants of California's pioneers—Mr. and Mrs. Johnston began their young lives on Rosebud Ranch. While others dug for the phenomenal wealth in the mines and ravines, they engaged in the peaceful and enduring pursuit of husbandry.

There, by industry and frugality, they laid the foundation of their present lovely home; there, in the old pioneer homestead, on the bank of the flowing river, their children were born to them, and there they have grown to manhood and woman's estate, the pride of their parents, loved and respected by all that know them.

And when the two-score gray-haired and venerable fellow-argonauts of Mr. Johnston and his wife met at the Rosebud mansion yesterday to celebrate the marriage of their lovely daughter, memories both sweet and sad must have crowded themselves upon the minds and hearts of those pioneers whose ranks are now so rapidly thinning under the creative action of the crowding years.

The occasion, however, had nothing in itself of sadness. The guests brought with them their smiles and cheeks with them, and the hours spent in the spacious and hospitable mansion, or about the charming grounds, sunbathing it, were full of life and merriment.

The hour set for the wedding was 11 o'clock in the forenoon, but long before that guests from the surrounding country and the city began to arrive, and by the hour named the house was filled to overflowing. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Johnston in the most graciously hospitable manner. There was a happy absence of stiff formality, and all were impressed with the fact that they were expected to feel perfectly "at home."

The spacious double parlors and sitting-room were tastefully ornamented with trailing smilax, coleus, and other plants, and presented a bright and cheery appearance. To Mrs. Charles Root of this city, assisted by Miss Bertie Groth, are due the credit and taste and artistic skill played in the decorations. Mrs. Root also divided with Mr. and Mrs. Johnston the duty of receiving and introducing the guests.

The rear parlor had been prepared for the wedding ceremony by the erection of a miniature altar in one of the bow-windows, over which hung a garland of evergreens. In the center of the arch was suspended a golden bell, beneath which the bridal pair stood or knelt during the ceremony.

At the appointed hour the bridal party appeared at the head of the stairway, and as they descended into the parlor Mrs. Johnston, in a beautiful gown, played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." First came the ushers, William A. Johnston, Jr., J. W. McEsters and John T. Skelton. Next came the bridesmaids, Adams and Gracie Adams, bearing the cushions on which the bride and groom were to kneel at the altar. Miss Hattie Adams, as maid of honor, came next.

Following her were the groomsmen and bridesmaid, Fred Edinger (brother of the groom) and Miss Belle Johnston (sister of the bride). The latter escorted her father, and the groom was accompanied by the bride's mother.

The bride was beautiful in her gown of white, laced with pink and white, and with demi-train. An elegant bridal veil enveloped her graceful form. The bridesmaid wore a pink laced gown, trimmed with white lace and white and demi-train. An elegant bridal veil enveloped her graceful form.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. B. Burton of the Christian Church of this city, and was very interesting, the ritual being a little out of the usual order. As soon as the congratulations were over the guests were invited to the banquet-room, where a delicious wedding dinner was served. Then there was a brief hour of social intercourse, when it became time for the bridal couple to depart for their new home, to take the 6 o'clock train for San Francisco.

While they were preparing for their departure many of their friends ranged themselves on either side of the bride, leading to the gate, armed with plentiful supplies of rice. The bride soon appeared in the doorway, escorted by the groom. She wore a beautiful combination traveling suit. Together they started to run the gauntlet, but could not escape the showers of rice that fell upon them. They were then escorted to the carriage, however, where fond adieux were exchanged, and amid the clanging of a cow-bell, shouts of laughter and a parting shower of rice, the happy pair were whirled away by four gray horses.

After a wedding tour of a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. Edinger will be domiciled in their new residence on Seventh street, in this city.

After the departure of the bridal couple many of the guests left the party, while others, including the delegation of Pioneers, spent the remainder of the afternoon at Rosebud Ranch.

The wedding presents were numerous, and many of them more costly than the mere designation of their character would indicate. The bride's parents presented one dozen each of silver knives, spoons and forks, her sister an elegant French-painted paneled dressing mirror, and her brother a silver-encrusted cake-stand. F. S. Edinger, brother of the groom, dining-room set. The gift of the Pioneer Society was a beautifully decorated and complete China tea-set.

and picks; half-dozen silver teaspoons; silver gray-ladle; silver salad-fork and spoon; silver cream ladle; hand-decorated and gilded silver bowl; crystal lemonade set; one dozen decorated cake-plates; lace bedspread and shams; silver salad set; one dozen decorated coffee-spoons; decorated vase; silver-handled carving set; silver-framed circular toilet-table; hand-painted hand-painted and brodered sofa; hand-painted antique vase; set of silver spoons; set of carvers.

Capay Valley Lands.

A CAPAY COLONY. Robert A. and Neal D. Barker associated themselves with William McKay, all of Oakland, with a view of securing out an suitable location in which to engage in the profitable occupation of fruit-growing. After visiting many localities, they decided on the Capay Valley, Yolo County, and the Rhodes tract at Tancred.

IN THE SPRING OF LAST YEAR Robert A. and Neal D. Barker associated themselves with William McKay, all of Oakland, with a view of securing out an suitable location in which to engage in the profitable occupation of fruit-growing. After visiting many localities, they decided on the Capay Valley, Yolo County, and the Rhodes tract at Tancred.

Negotiations were opened with the Capay Valley Land Company, owning the tract in question. With W. H. Mills, the General Agent of that company, they arranged for the purchase of about 220 acres of foothill land. This being more than they had thought of taking for their own use, they spoke to a number of friends about it, with the result that the tract was divided among the following people: E. L. Hickok, 40 acres; W. T. Farnett, 20 acres; N. T. Greenhead, 20 acres; Mrs. L. Greenhead, 20 acres; W. McKay, 20 acres; N. D. Barker, 20 acres; R. A. Barker, 20 acres; J. P. Brownlee, 20 acres; E. H. Hallett, 10 acres; Joseph Barker, 10 acres; A. W. Kelly, 10 acres, and Frederick Kelly, 10 acres.

So far this had been merely a private venture of the gentlemen above named, but in talking up the question of dividing the land already purchased, it was found that so many more would like to join it than the area of the purchase would admit of, that it was suggested on all hands, why not get some more land and divide it up the same way? Then followed the idea of a stock company to take hold of a larger tract and arrange for the cultivation of the whole of it, after subdividing it according to the requirements of the subscribers. A provisional board was formed, a prospectus issued, and finally, on the 5th of June, 1890, the Western Co-operative Colonization and Improvement Company was duly registered and proceeded to business, with the following officers: President, William McKay; Vice-President, M. P. Brown; Secretary, H. C. Ellis, Charles Brooke and R. A. Barker; Treasurer and General Manager, Neal D. Barker; Secretary and General Manager, Neal D. Barker; Secretary and General Manager, Neal D. Barker; Secretary and General Manager, Neal D. Barker.

The balance of the tract, 375 acres, was purchased. A contract was entered into for the purchase of a large number of fruit trees, vines, etc., the purchase of trees was the means of saving between 3,000 and $4,000 to the company, the prices in some cases having more than doubled since then.

The idea in which the prospectus set forth have been but slightly modified in the progress of the company has been uninterrupted. Those who went into it doubtfully have become enthusiastic, and almost all the members arranged to set out all their lands in fruit trees, etc., the first year. Consequently in this, the first season, some 40,000 trees and between 20,000 and 30,000 vines will be planted.

The satisfactory working of this scheme has had the effect of attracting considerable attention to the work of the Colony Company, and a number of people are now desirous of joining in with the company. Some 2,000 acres have been added to the sixty acres originally purchased.

For the company is predicted a very bright future, as well as a pleasant valley in which their operations are conducted. This marvelous little garden has come to be so long neglected is a puzzle to every one who has visited it, but one thing is very sure, and that is that this neglect will never again be felt in the valley.

The fruits set out are mostly of the standard varieties—peaches, apricots, Bartlett pears, prunes, figs, etc., and, slightly, include on both sides of the avenues, throughout the tract, walnuts will throw their graceful shade. A considerable number of citrus trees are also being set out, quite a sufficient number to demonstrate that these fruits can be successfully grown in the valley, about which the colonists appear to have no doubt, provided proper care is given to the young trees. Neal D. Barker, General Manager of the company, resides on the tract, and to his care is to be ascribed much of the success of the venture.

Mention should be made of the town-site, about which also a pleasant innovation which might with profit be followed by more ambitious plans. A small part of some three acres has been laid out right in the center of the town-site, and it is proposed to beautify the town-site by planting on each side of the creek a row of the beauties and curiosities of tree and shrub life as may be obtained by diligent search and a wise expenditure of money. It is not expected that the town-site will be a large and busy city, but it is thought that it can be made a very pleasant little place to dwell in.

A petition has been circulated recently and a very largely signed, asking the county to sever Island avenue, on the colony tract, as a county road, and to build a bridge across the creek at this point, in order to give the settlers on the east side of the creek access to the Island Station. The Tancred colonists are quite willing to give the necessary right of way, and are very desirous of having a bridge there, as the colony lands extend along both sides of the stream. It is thought that it would be a very wise expenditure of public money to grant them this very necessary improvement, as the operations of such companies are of widespread benefit to the whole county and State. The attractions and comforts of the cities are well known, but to those who are willing to settle on the land and show that the country also affords attractions and comforts and ways of making money pleasantly, every inducement should be held forth.

The following is a list of the principal members of the Tancred Colony, with the number of acres owned by each, and a list of the names of those who have been manufactured or sold on the land. The apparent success of the enterprise shows that the ideas and plans of the colony, as set forth in the prospectus some time ago, are not impracticable. C. T. Hull, 20 acres; A. P. Hammon, 20 acres; A. C. Kason, San Francisco, 11 acres; J. Barker, 10 acres; A. W. Kelly, 10 acres; Neal D. Barker, 10 acres; N. T. Greenhead, 20 acres; W. McKay, 20 acres; N. D. Barker, 20 acres; R.
